NEW YORK CLIPPER

THE OLDEST AMERICAN SPORTING AND THEATRICAL JOURNAL.

FRANK QUEEN, Editor and Proprietor. | NEW YORK, SATURDAY, JULY 17, 1875. | VOLUME XXIII.—No. 16. Price Ten Cents.

REJECTED.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER,
BY E. NORMAN GUNNISON.

Wherefore, wherefore, dear,
Dost thou thus refuse me?
If wealth brought me near,
Wouldst thou not, then, choose me?
True it is, I'm poor—
Poor indeed—without thee;
But, with thee secure,
Wealth were all about me.

Lay thy hand in mine,
Drink life's wine and honey;
Mammon from his shrine
Can but bring thee—money;
There's a better wealth,
Wealth of love and kisses,
Wealth of youth and health—
Such wealth full of bliss is.

Cast it not aside,
Sell it not for treasure,
Which may pamper pride,
But must mar each pleasure;
There are better things,
Darling, can you doubt it?
Wealth may soon take wings—
You can live without it.

Choose the better part,
Happier far in choosing
This, the loyal heart
Thou wert near refusing.
What if money-bags
Offer marble palace?
Better far were rags,
If from love's bright chalice.

You may only drink,
And may think, in drinking
From the crystal brink,
Thoughts well worth the thinking;
Love within a cot
Is not stale or olden—
With thee, such a lot
Will be bright and golden.

Therefore, therefore, eyes,
Eyes half gold, half azure,
Look with glad surprise
Into mine, my treasure;
Life's a fleeting day,
Fields grow sere, now vernal,
All must pass away—
Only love's eternal.

Sinks the dear brown head
Slowly on my shoulder—
All her doubts have fled
As I closer hold her;
Ah! this joy divine,
Sweetest bliss of bliss is—
Red lips pressed to mine,
Answering me with kisses.

THE MISSING PACKET;

OR,

THE MYSTERY OF WILTON'S WISH.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER,
BY WALTER EDGAR M'CANN.

[Entered according to Act of Congress, in the office of the Librarian of Congress, at Washington, D. C., in the year 1875, by FRANK QUEEN. All rights reserved.]

CHAPTER IX.

URSULA'S LETTER.

Poor Mr. Oswynd had made his little journey to the churchyard of Sheldrake; and now nevermore out of that peaceful domain should he come. Adieu, the iron-barred cage, and the mottoes, and the impatient pacing up and down, and all the rest that belonged to the monotonous existence of Wilton's Wish! Here he was now in a narrower chamber, wide enough for his uses, indeed; and he might henceforth soundly without poppy, mandrake or any other drowsy syrup whatever.

The day was declining as the little knot of mourners looked their last on Mr. Oswynd's coffin as it was lowered into the earth. The scanty file of coaches took them through rosy shadows of sunset when all was over—the birds at their vespers in the trees, and the church-clock pealing. Mournfully the iron gate clanged after the last grinding wheel had passed, and the dead man, with this farewell, was left to his darkness.

By what odd, but fortunate, chance was it that Roy on the return found himself in a coach alone with Ursula?

Very pretty she looked in that dark dress, and was there not something particularly engaging in that peculiar smile as he took his seat opposite—the smile that is a gleam of sunshine after the April shower of tears? Just the least bit demure and sad yet was this pretty young lady; but might not a handsome young man charm away the lingering grief?

"How strange!" said Roy. "I have been here only a few days, and yet my first experience is that sad duty of following a funeral. Can there be anything ominous in the fact?"

"Oh, don't talk of the funeral!" said Ursula. "I did not think I was so nervous; but I believe I am really suffering every pang possible. I have borne up bravely, I think; but reaction is about to set in."

"Yes; you deserve praise," assented Roy sincerely. "Well, the subject is dismissed; and now I am going to turn to one very different. I want you to tell me something about Miss Delia Pin."

Ursula eyed him with surprise.

"What can I tell you about her that you do not know already?"

"Many things. If I remember well, you said—or was it Mr. Redgrave?—she had been your housekeeper for three years."

"It seems a long while ago since she came. Isn't she a quiet, strange old thing?" laughed the young lady with a sudden vivacity. "I used to be so afraid of her! But once I saw her with that hood off—so ridiculous to wear it!—and my terrors were gone."

"But she is not old," returned Roy with depreciatory emphasis.

"She is odd, and that makes her seem old, and so much like a kind of sorceress, or something. No; strictly speaking, she is young, and, I can assure you, handsome."

"Why does she strive so hard to conceal her beauty?"

"I don't know; but the reason is deeper than a mere whim. I have watched her closely, Mr. Bellington, and am satisfied she has her secret. More than that, I think papa knows it."

"Indeed!"

"They are very good friends, and sometimes I have been quite jealous of her. Two or three years ago she came to him and applied for the position of housekeeper. He declined her services, and then she told him that something—I can't imagine what—but he changed his mind immediately. Miss Pin was installed."

"A very distressing story it must have been."

Ursula nodded rather satirically, and smiled faintly to herself under her long lashes.

"I see you doubt it," said Roy.

"They did not appear to be in very deep grief over the narrative—a little the opposite, I think. You see, Mr. Roy Bellington, I am speaking, as usual, without reserve. Most people would not be half so candid as I have just been."

"You have been frank, it is true; but why should you not be—with me? The essence of the matter is this: Miss Pin is, as you say, a very singular person, and I am naturally curious about her. There is no harm in my curiosity, there can be none in your candor."

"Well," said Ursula with a little shrug, "I don't like her, and so I have no hesitation in speaking my opinion about her ways. They are foolish affectations; but there is a purpose beneath. How lovely the red leaves in that long stretch of bushes—do you see? On the side of the path just where the meadow declines to the level of the main road. You must see them."

"Yes; scarlet—and isn't that a bit of green lingering there yet? Those bushes—what are they, I wonder? —have held their own well, have they not? There is no foliage so red anywhere in the neighborhood. The country is prettiest in Autumn, after all, don't you think?"

Ursula was scanning the landscape with a smiling scrutiny. Here was the last of the sunset—the gaunt shadows, the rosy patches of the swiftly vanishing light, the cool breeze upon everything. Roy had raised the window, and the fresh, perfumed air came in. The wheels of the vehicle were low upon the turf; overhead the faint cawings of the rooks.

"I don't know," she sighed thoughtfully. "When it is one season I always wish it were some other. Close the window, please. It is getting colder every moment. I wish we were at home."

Roy shut out the somewhat frosty breeze that was springing up. The great red globe had vanished behind the hills, and in the melancholy solitude of advancing twilight glimmered the dim silver of the eastern moon.

"Did I tell you I had received a letter to-day?" asked Ursula after a silence.

"I think not. From Mr. Harold Mardyke, was it?"

"Yes; and, just as I predicted, he is coming to see us."

"I suppose you are very much pleased at that?"

She had taken the letter from her pocket—a dainty pink missive, very highly scented.

"I am not annoyed," she assented, laughing. "He is really very interesting—though you must not imagine I am in love with him."

"Certainly not, because he is already married."

"He speaks of his wife in his letter. Shall I read you an extract?"

"I fear there is not light enough," said Roy, glancing out.

"Oh, yes, there is. Now, listen."

With that pretty head close to the glass, and the eyes attempting to decipher Mr. Harold Mardyke's indictings, she read:

"You will be amused to hear that my own care Lucia is now pursuing me. Hitherto she has been anxious to get as far away from me as possible. When shall we two meet again? Wherever that event occurs, it will be in thunder, lightning, and in rain, you may rest assured. Do I not love her still, you ask? She is very handsome—handsomer than ever, they tell me—but as impracticable. I don't suppose we ever agreed for five consecutive minutes while we lived together. It would be the same old story over again if I should effect a reconciliation, as you advise. Where do you think she has been lately? At M——?"

Ursula glanced up.

"M——?" said Roy; "that is a famous gambling place, is it not?"

"Just think of a lady going there!" said Ursula.

Then she continued the letter:

"She was playing, too, and Lord Sadrake had lost a mint of money to her. He was backing the bank. There was just one means surer of getting rid of money than by gaming, and my Lucia adopted that means. She rented an opera-house, and began operatic management. In a few weeks she was not any longer troubled with the care of her finances. I regret to think I was not with her, to offer my valuable advice before she plunged so recklessly into speculation."

And so on. Ursula read other portions of this letter about matters not so domestic. As a whole, it was an amusing production—full of sparkle and shrewd observation—and might not have been disowned by even so agreeable a correspondent as Walpole.

But Mr. Harold Mardyke was certainly not a gentleman of Walpole's delicate instincts. Was there not in this letter a peculiar tone rather more characteristic of that sort of gay cavalier who, taking life very easy, and wearing an inviting surface, has yet a secret and rather prowling scrutiny for any good thing that may be devoured? Was there not, in fact, something of the adventurer here?

"And now, what do you think of him?" said Ursula, sheathing the epistle and replacing it in her pocket.

"He writes amusingly, and does not seem to trouble himself very seriously over his wife's doings. It looks rather like a kind of smiling protest against something secretly approved of."

"Just what I think," returned Ursula, laughing. "I have told him so, too. Well, you shall soon see him and judge for yourself."

"He does not say when he will pay his visit?"

"Soon and suddenly, he says. If his wife is pursuing him, as he declares—but which I don't believe—she may follow him to this cover."

Roy secretly hoped not. The more he thought of the letter he had just listened to, the less was he inclined favorably toward the writer. In the dim evening air he hung a mental portrait or this man—not flattering; but long after he had reason to remember how close the likeness.

The landscape was fading fast as the carriage rolled up the avenue at Wilton—broad and direct, bordered by files of splendid trees. The house rose tall, dismal, majestic, out of the twilight. There seemed to be an especial loneliness in the very magnificence of its proportions and the grandeur of its venerable architecture.

In a little while Roy and his companion were again within this forlorn mansion's protecting walls; and Ursula, smiling, ran swiftly up the broad staircase to her room.

Roy sought his friend Kendryn, who had returned more rapidly. The lawyer was in the study—an apartment common to all, but seldom used by anyone.

Had anything occurred to displease him? He was pacing this long chamber, his hands behind him, and with wrinkled brow.

"We did not have the search," he said abruptly.

"The person you had employed disappointed you!"

"No; he kept his word, and was duly here as soon as the funeral had gone; but the house was not as empty as I had calculated upon. There has been an arrival."

Roy looked and felt surprised. His very natural supposition was that the volatile and eccentric Mr. Harold Mardyke had taken the occasion to present himself.

"Miss Redgrave told me someone was expected," he said.

"This person came just soon enough to spoil all my arrangements. He is a sort of agent, or something in Archbald Redgrave's employ. I have had but one glance at him; but it was sufficient to form an opinion from. He is a rascal."

Could he mean Mardyke!

"A loutish, vulgar fellow—a ruffian in speech and manners. What does his presence here, so abruptly, mean?" continued Kendryn, not in good temper. "Miching mallecho—it means mischief."

"And there was no search?"

"How could there be? He was in the way all the time—persistently in the way. Is it not a little singular? Oswynd gone but a day, and here we have this irruption!"

"But he has business, no doubt, with Redgrave."

"Probably he has—and I should like very well to know of what sort. There is trouble impending; but they will find a determined antagonist in me," said Kendryn, rather to himself.

"What is this person's name?" asked Roy.

"Moyston—Dick Moyston. You will see him swaggering about the grounds, if you look out of your window in the morning. He is a hulking, low-browed ruffian—quite unmistakable."

Perhaps Roy thought all this fever rather unnecessary. For his own part, he was much relieved to hear that it was not Mardyke who had arrived. And, as for the contemplated search, he was very glad it had not occurred. Such a proceeding would have been a direct violation of all the laws of hospitality, to say no more of it. It appeared to the young man that Mr. Kendryn, with all his wisdom, did not look on both sides of this question. He would be think if Archbald Redgrave should secretly introduce an agent, and conduct a private investigation of any sort upon his own account? Certainly, all things considered, Moyston's arrival was fortunate.

"Well," said the lawyer suddenly, a smile breaking over his dark face, "let us not take too much of our trouble in advance. And so you called back from the churchyard with Ursula, did you not? She is a good-humored little soul, Roy—and Beatrice—what do you think of Beatrice now?"

"Very highly, of course. She is certainly beautiful—and so odd! But why does she live out of me?"

"You must find out for yourself. But why should there be romance or mystery about this? She likes you already, Roy, and you know where the next step leads. At the present moment we seem to stand in the dark. October the 8th we were in the full glare of sunshine; on the 9th, the clouds had gathered, and a single night; and we have been halting in the gloom ever since, listening to the faint rumbling of the thunder in the distance. But this will lift, this darkness, soon, I believe, and we must not stand idle any longer."

"My impression is," returned Roy with a dreary smile, "that we have looked our last on that Missing Packet; and the more satisfied I become of the fact, the less do I regret it."

"Because you see with young, and, I fear, unwise eyes. One day you will see with mine."

This prophecy was not uttered in a cheerful tone, but Roy accepted it. The old feeling of resignation lingered, so far as the lost bequest was concerned; but was there one nobler, more generous, more romantic, when he recalled the image of Beatrice Ashdale?

Suddenly, and oddly, he made up his mind to go to her even now. How else should he pass this dismal evening? And little Ursula—what a frank, roguish, guileless beauty! Was there not a provision in that absurd will about marrying Ursula in case Beatrice and the other young lady—the unknown Ernestine—should decline the thrilling honor?

With a not dissatisfied smile Roy recalled this little fact. Perhaps he was more pleased with these new lights on the packet episode than he had been yet. How the mood alters! One instant the sunlight, the next a shadow! Roy went over to the mirror and glanced at himself, plucking at this and that in his dress, and dimly smiling all the while; and then suddenly remembered that he was without that pretty little golden fist which usually held a nosegay at the breast of his coat.

CHAPTER X.

A CLUE.

What had become of it? Where had he lost it? He did not remember to have seen it while dressing this morning. He must have dropped it on that nocturnal exploration of the mysteries of the north wing. A leat and a bud or two—he would know it again easily.

Thus ruminating, he lingered a moment more, and then, perceiving his friend was writing at the desk, did not interrupt him, but set forth. He went along the corridor, somewhat undecided, saw it was with an odd little shock that he suddenly found himself face to face with the housemaid—Martha Allan. In her hand she held the lost ornament—the golden fist.

"Where did you find it?" he asked, surprised and pleased.

She held down her head shyly, and was smiling somewhat awkwardly; but was she averse to answering, or was she in reality anxious to answer?

"Where did you lose it?"

"I do not know exactly," said Roy; "but I suspect you do. Come, be frank with me, Martha."

A thought had struck him; but it was too absurd. Could this girl have been the ignis fatuus he had chased last night?

"You lost it on the little stairs that lead to the north wing. You must not be angry—but I saw you, Mr. Roy."

She looked up gravely and met his glance.

"You saw me?"

"I saw you and the person you were following. Neither of you saw me. You must not be angry, Mr. Roy."

"I am not angry, Martha. I assure you—and who, if you please, was this person I followed? I am really curious to know."

"It was a woman."

"That I know already."

"I did not see her face—only her dress and that not very distinctly, Mr. Roy. I had only one peep, and then I went into my own room, and that's all I know about it, so far as last night is concerned."

"So far as last night is concerned?" repeated Roy. "Then I infer that you have been making further investigations to-day, is it not so? You may be perfectly frank, Martha."

She was eager to unfold, and though Roy may not have been very forward on such points, he could not fail to detect this fact. Was she the least bit tender in feeling toward this particularly handsome and agreeable young man?

"But first tell me whom I was in pursuit of last night? You can't think how anxious I am to know."

"I believe it was Miss Delia Pin, sir," said the housemaid with a very sudden gravity.

"Delia Pin!"

It was a thunderstroke—not because he had not thought of her in this connection; but because he had not thought of anyone else—even for an instant. The confirmation of his suspicion came with tremendous emphasis and augury.

Martha eyed him curiously.

"And how do you know that it was she?"

"Because I saw her as plainly as I see you this minute, Mr. Roy. She passed the window, and I noticed the hood she wears. There could be no mistake about that."

"No; the hood was good evidence," he returned thoughtfully. His own memories were of the hood off. She must have reached her room but a few seconds before he reached his—without even time to put out her light. She had glanced out to assure herself. It was all plain.

"So this morning you went to the north wing yourself?" he asked.

"Part of the way, and I found your little ornament on the stairs. Do you remember seeing a picture?—but you did not go that far."

"Yes, I did; and I saw the picture, too, Martha; somebody's portrait. I recollect it perfectly," said Roy.

"The portrait of Wilton Arnold, who lived in the old times, and once owned this place, I believe, sir. His name is on the back—at least, I suppose it is his name, for, as you know, I have forgotten how to read, sir. I saw something written there."

"His name, no doubt. There was such a person as Wilton Arnold once; you are quite right, Martha—and now go on."

"It was all covered with dust, and I couldn't help brushing it off a little, and I saw that the back part of the frame was broken. Someone had pulled out the panel, and forced it back again. There were very plain finger-prints."

"And you found something hidden there," said Roy, growing a little impatient and assisting the narrative.

"I did. I found a dress and a hood."

"Miss Pin's dress and Miss Pin's hood, of course."

"Yes, sir; and I took them away," pursued the housemaid. "I fear I was wrong to meddle with what did not concern me, and I was a little frightened—and I thought I would speak to you."

"Quite right," said Roy, instantly resolved to stand by the housemaid to the last. "And as for the mysterious feature of last night's adventure is mysterious no longer! A rather absurd practical joke, on the whole." The young man felt a little disgusted, perhaps.

"I have kept them for you," added the girl.

"For me?"

"If you wish them."

"Well, Martha, had you not better return them—or——"

"I should not like to return them, unless to the place I took them from. I think there is something in one of the pockets of the dress. Indeed, Mr. Roy, I am so frightened because I meddled!"

"Frightened? What nonsense! No possible harm can come to you. Mr. Kendryn is a great friend of yours, you know."

"I hope so," she sighed. "The young ladies went in the direction of the north wing a little while ago, and something happened," she added rather vaguely. "I have done very wrong, sir."

Roy was curious again.

"Something happened?"

"You may not know all the secrets of this old place, sir," she continued in a tone of awe, looking about. "The young ladies—Miss Beatrice and Miss Ursula—went up the little spiral staircase this evening to the top, where the portrait is, and I was with them, and we looked through the window and saw the grounds below."

Roy smiled. "And what did you see that was so wonderful?"

"It was only a little while ago. Nobody had been there before for a long time. The window-panes were very dusty, but I cleaned them with my handkerchief, and we peeped out."

"And saw nothing very startling, I dare say."

"Someone came upon us very suddenly, and was very angry. He ordered us to leave and go below."

"Who was this?"

"It was the gentleman who came this afternoon—Mr. Moyston," said Martha with a sort of shudder.

"Mr. Moyston!"

"He spoke very crossly, and Miss Beatrice threatened him; but he was not to be put down. He said he had his orders from Mr. Redgrave, and meant to obey them."

From Mr. Redgrave! Out of the shadow rose the tall, sinister figure of Archbald Redgrave before Roy's mental vision, and back to his mind came trooping the hardly faded memories of Kendryn's recent doubt and distrust. Should this drama grow deeper, more intense, as time progressed; and what development might follow out of that vapory and volcanic background—dim as yet, uncertain, but presaging evil by the very look alone!

There are feelings we cannot dissect. But here was something ominous and threatening, all of a sudden—undefined, but the more evil by that very fact. It settled like a smoky and thunderous cloud.

From Archbald Redgrave, she had said. A very peculiar old man—shy, one would have thought—timid, strange. He had not loved his brother. Established here he was; surrounded by his people, mysterious like himself. Had he not virtually taken possession—and by no right, except that of kinship? Was there really a purpose beneath these proceedings?

Roy felt troubled.

"You spoke of the dress, Martha," he said. "There is something in one of the pockets?"

"I felt it. I think it is a book."

"A prayer-book, no doubt," rejoined Roy with a faint smile. "Miss Pin is fond of saying her prayers, I believe, particularly at night. You must have taken a peep at the book, Martha. Confess; there is really no danger with me."

She was embarrassed and quite ill at ease. Probably she repented her freedom of revelation.

"I did take a peep, sir," she admitted; "but could not read any of it. The book is not printed."

"A manuscript book?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then pray let me see it at once, Martha. You don't know how important it may be."

His anxiety had grown almost feverish. A printed book could tell nothing; but what secrets might there not be between the leaves of a manuscript volume? Yet he could not divine its nature. Did Miss Pin secretly write verses? Perhaps this was a journal of "commonplace thoughts," such as people kept in times no farther back than those within his own memory. Reading between the lines might illumine some matters very radiantly.

They were standing by the rear staircase. Rather hesitatingly, the housemaid left him and descended. Her figure, elegant and demure, reached the passage below and disappeared.

Roy watched her with a meditative smile until she was no longer visible. Had she done him a service or an injury? She had at least intensely excited his interest. And now the book—a cruel service, or kind?

She was absent some time. He was growing a little tired. Presently he heard voices, and the door opened below, and, looking down the well of the stairs, he saw a man come out.

He was a tall, rather heavy fellow, close-whiskered and close-cropped, and wore leggins like a gamekeeper. He had a peculiarly neat, natty air, and would have been a prize to an artist doing an offhand hunting sketch. He was so trim and self-possessed, and really good-looking in his way, that he could not have failed to strike even an unartistic eye.

The light fell on his face for an instant, bringing all the features into view. It was coarse and hard—firm, prominent chin; deep jaws, like some strong beast; and cold, deadly eyes. He was the incarnation of animal strength—of that sort of firmness which, when employed, becomes cruelty.

"Not a man to be trifled with" would be the verdict of the superficial observer; "a villian at heart," the judgment of the more keen.

Roy knew this man instinctively for the Dick Moyston of whom he had heard.

"Quite right," said Roy, instantly resolved to stand by the housemaid to the last. "And as for the mysterious feature of last night's adventure is mysterious no longer! A rather absurd practical joke, on the whole." The young man felt a little disgusted, perhaps.

"I have kept them for you," added the girl.

"For me?"

"If you wish them."

"Well, Martha, had you not better return them—or——"

"I should not like to return them, unless to the place I took them from. I think there is something in one of the pockets of the dress. Indeed, Mr. Roy, I am so frightened because I meddled!"

"Frightened? What nonsense! No possible harm can come to you. Mr. Kendryn is a great friend of yours, you know."

"I hope so," she sighed. "The young ladies went in the direction of the north wing a little while ago, and something happened," she added rather vaguely. "I have done very wrong, sir."

Roy was curious again.

"Something happened?"

"You may not know all the secrets of this old place, sir," she continued in a tone of awe, looking about. "The young ladies—Miss Beatrice and Miss Ursula—went up the little spiral staircase this evening to the top, where the portrait is, and I was with them, and we looked through the window and saw the grounds below."

Roy smiled. "And what did you see that was so wonderful?"

"It was only a little while ago. Nobody had been there before for a long time. The window-panes were very dusty, but I cleaned them with my handkerchief, and we peeped out."

"And saw nothing very startling, I dare say."

"Someone came upon us very suddenly, and was very angry. He ordered us to leave and go below."

"Who was this?"

"It was the gentleman who came this afternoon—Mr. Moyston," said Martha with a sort of shudder.

"Mr. Moyston!"

"He spoke very crossly, and Miss Beatrice threatened him; but he was not to be put down. He said he had his orders from Mr. Redgrave, and meant to obey them."

From Mr. Redgrave! Out of the shadow rose the tall, sinister figure of Archbald Redgrave before Roy's mental vision, and back to his mind came trooping the hardly faded memories of Kendryn's recent doubt and distrust. Should this drama grow deeper, more intense, as time progressed; and what development might follow out of that vapory and volcanic background—dim as yet, uncertain, but presaging evil by the very look alone!

There are feelings we cannot dissect. But here was something ominous and threatening, all of a sudden—undefined, but the more evil by that very fact. It settled like a smoky and thunderous cloud.

From Archbald Redgrave, she had said. A very peculiar old man—shy, one would have thought—timid, strange. He had not loved his brother. Established here he was; surrounded by his people, mysterious like himself. Had he not virtually taken possession—and by no right, except that of kinship? Was there really a purpose beneath these proceedings?

Roy felt troubled.

"You spoke of the dress, Martha," he said. "There is something in one of the pockets?"

"I felt it. I think it is a book."

MLLE. ANNA DE BELOCCA, Operatic Vocalist.

"But first tell me whom I was in pursuit of last night? You can't think how anxious I am to know."

"I believe it was Miss Delia Pin, sir," said the housemaid with a very sudden gravity.

"Delia Pin!"

It was a thunderstroke—not because he had not thought of her in this connection; but because he had not thought of anyone else—even for an instant. The confirmation of his suspicion came with tremendous emphasis and augury.

Martha eyed him curiously.

"And how do you know that it was she?"

"Because I saw her as plainly as I see you this minute, Mr. Roy. She passed the window, and I noticed the hood she wears. There could be no mistake about that."

"No; the hood was good evidence," he returned thoughtfully. His own memories were of the hood off. She must have reached her room but a few seconds before he reached his—without even time to put out her light. She had glanced out to assure herself. It was all plain.

"So this morning you went to the north wing yourself?" he asked.

"Part of the way, and I found your little ornament on the stairs. Do you remember seeing a picture?—but you did not go that far."

"Yes, I did; and I saw the picture, too, Martha; somebody's portrait. I recollect it perfectly," said Roy.

"The portrait of Wilton Arnold, who lived in the old times, and once owned this place, I believe, sir. His name is on the back—at least, I suppose it is his name, for, as you know, I have forgotten how to read, sir. I saw something written there."

"His name, no doubt. There was such a person as Wilton Arnold once; you are quite right, Martha—and now go on."

"It was all covered with dust, and I couldn't help brushing it off a little, and I saw that the back part of the frame was broken. Someone had pulled out the panel, and forced it back again. There were very plain finger-prints."

"And you found something hidden there," said Roy, growing a little impatient and assisting the narrative.

"I did. I found a dress and a hood."

"Miss Pin's dress and Miss Pin's hood, of course."

"Yes, sir; and I took them away," pursued the housemaid. "I fear I was wrong to meddle with what did not concern me, and I was a little frightened—and I thought I would speak to you."

"Quite right," said Roy, instantly resolved to stand by the housemaid to the last. "And as for the mysterious feature of last night's adventure is mysterious no longer! A rather absurd practical joke, on the whole." The young man felt a little disgusted, perhaps.

"I have kept them for you," added the girl.

"For me?"

"If you wish them."

"Well, Martha, had you not better return them—or——"

"I should not like to return them, unless to the place I took them from. I think there is something in one of the pockets of the dress. Indeed, Mr. Roy, I am so frightened because I meddled!"

"Frightened? What nonsense! No possible harm can come to you. Mr. Kendryn is a great friend of yours, you know."

"I hope so," she sighed. "The young ladies went in the direction of the north wing a little while ago, and something happened," she added rather vaguely. "I have done very wrong, sir."

Roy was curious again.

"Something happened?"

"You may not know all the secrets of this old place, sir," she continued in a tone of awe, looking about. "The young ladies—Miss Beatrice and Miss Ursula—went up the little spiral staircase this evening to the top, where the portrait is, and I was with them, and we looked through the window and saw the grounds below."

Roy smiled. "And what did you see that was so wonderful?"

"It was only a little while ago. Nobody had been there before for a long time. The window-panes were very dusty, but I cleaned them with my handkerchief, and we peeped out."

"And saw nothing very startling, I dare say."

"Someone came upon us very suddenly, and was very angry. He ordered us to leave and go below."

"Who was this?"

"It was the gentleman who came this afternoon—Mr. Moyston," said Martha with a sort of shudder.

"Mr. Moyston!"

"He spoke very crossly, and Miss Beatrice threatened him; but he was not to be put down. He said he had his orders from Mr. Redgrave, and meant to obey them."

From Mr. Redgrave! Out of the shadow rose the tall, sinister figure of Archbald Redgrave before Roy's mental vision, and back to his mind came trooping the hardly faded memories of Kendryn's recent doubt and distrust. Should this drama grow deeper, more intense, as time progressed; and what development might follow out of that vapory and volcanic background—dim as yet, uncertain, but presaging evil by the very look alone!

There are feelings we cannot dissect. But here was something ominous and threatening, all of a sudden—undefined, but the more evil by that very fact. It settled like a smoky and thunderous cloud.

From Archbald Redgrave, she had said. A very peculiar old man—shy, one would have thought—timid, strange. He had not loved his brother. Established here he was; surrounded by his people, mysterious like himself. Had he not virtually taken possession—and by no right, except that of kinship? Was there really a purpose beneath these proceedings?

Roy felt troubled.

"You spoke of the dress, Martha," he said. "There is something in one of the pockets?"

"I felt it. I think it is a book."

"A prayer-book, no doubt," rejoined Roy with a faint smile. "Miss Pin is fond of saying her prayers, I believe, particularly at night. You must have taken a peep at the book, Martha. Confess; there is really no danger with me."

She was embarrassed and quite ill at ease. Probably she repented her freedom of revelation.

"I did take a peep, sir," she admitted; "but could not read any of it. The book is not printed."

"A manuscript book?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then pray let me see it at once, Martha. You don't know how important it may be."

His anxiety had grown almost feverish. A printed book could tell nothing; but what secrets might there not be between the leaves of a manuscript volume? Yet he could not divine its nature. Did Miss Pin secretly write verses? Perhaps this was a journal of "commonplace thoughts," such as people kept in times no farther back than those within his own memory. Reading between the lines might illumine some matters very radiantly.

They were standing by the rear staircase. Rather hesitatingly, the housemaid left him and descended. Her figure, elegant and demure, reached the passage below and disappeared.

Roy watched her with a meditative smile until she was no longer visible. Had she done him a service or an injury? She had at least intensely excited his interest. And now the book—a cruel service, or kind?

She was absent some time. He was growing a little tired. Presently he heard voices, and the door opened below, and, looking down the well of the stairs, he saw a man come out.

He was a tall, rather heavy fellow, close-whiskered and close-cropped, and wore leggins like a gamekeeper. He had a peculiarly neat, natty air, and would have been a prize to an artist doing an offhand hunting sketch. He was so trim and self-possessed, and really good-looking in his way, that he could not have failed to strike even an unartistic eye.

The light fell on his face for an instant, bringing all the features into view. It was coarse and hard—firm, prominent chin; deep jaws, like some strong beast; and cold, deadly eyes. He was the incarnation of animal strength—of that sort of firmness which, when employed, becomes cruelty.

"Not a man to be trifled with" would be the verdict of the superficial observer; "a villian at heart," the judgment of the more keen.

Roy knew this man instinctively for the Dick Moyston of whom he had heard.

"Quite right," said Roy, instantly resolved to stand by the housemaid to the last. "And as for the mysterious feature of last night's adventure is mysterious no longer! A rather absurd practical joke, on the whole." The young man felt a little disgusted, perhaps.

"I have kept them for you," added the girl.

"For me?"

"If you wish them."

"Well, Martha, had you not better return them—or——"

"I should not like to return them, unless to the place I took them from. I think there is something in one of the pockets of the dress. Indeed, Mr. Roy, I am so frightened because I meddled!"

"Frightened? What nonsense! No possible harm can come to you. Mr. Kendryn is a great friend of yours, you know."

"I hope so," she sighed. "The young ladies went in the direction of the north wing a little while ago, and something happened," she added rather vaguely. "I have done very wrong, sir."

Roy was curious again.

"Something happened?"

"You may not know all the secrets of this old place, sir," she continued in a tone of awe, looking about. "The young ladies—Miss Beatrice and Miss Ursula—went up the little spiral staircase this evening to the top, where the portrait is, and I was with them, and we looked through the window and saw the grounds below."

Roy smiled. "And what did you see that was so wonderful?"

"It was only a little while ago. Nobody had been there before for a long time. The window-panes were very dusty, but I cleaned them with my handkerchief, and we peeped out."

"And saw nothing very startling, I dare say."

"Someone came upon us very suddenly, and was very angry. He ordered us to leave and go below."

"Who was this?"

"It was the gentleman who came this afternoon—Mr. Moyston," said Martha with a sort of shudder.

"Mr. Moyston!"

"He spoke very crossly, and Miss Beatrice threatened him; but he was not to be put down. He said he had his orders from Mr. Redgrave, and meant to obey them."

From Mr. Redgrave! Out of the shadow rose the tall, sinister figure of Archbald Redgrave before Roy's mental vision, and back to his mind came trooping the hardly faded memories of Kendryn's recent doubt and distrust. Should this drama grow deeper, more intense, as time progressed; and what development might follow out of that vapory and volcanic background—dim as yet, uncertain, but presaging evil by the very look alone!

There are feelings we cannot dissect. But here was something ominous and threatening, all of a sudden—undefined, but the more evil by that very fact. It settled like a smoky and thunderous cloud.

From Archbald Redgrave, she had said. A very peculiar old man—shy, one would have thought—timid, strange. He had not loved his brother. Established here he was; surrounded by his people, mysterious like himself. Had he not virtually taken possession—and by no right, except that of kinship? Was there really a purpose beneath these proceedings?

Roy felt troubled.

"You spoke of the dress, Martha," he said. "There is something in one of the pockets?"

"I felt it. I think it is a book."

TO BE CONTINUED.

TROUTING ON THE BEAVERKILL.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER.

As the Summer solstice is here, and many a reader of THE CLIPPER who reveres the memory of good old Izaak Walton will seek recreation somewhere, I will tell them that in the State of New York, and within a few hours' ride of the metropolis, flows one of the grandest trout-streams in the world. To reach it will cost the reader, if he goes, a ride over a mountain four miles from its base to its summit, but he will find the scenery so picturesque and grand that he will be richly repaid for his toil. To the lover of piscatory sport, the Beaverkill, with its tributaries, offers the widest range for wandering. If he tires of stream-fishing, lakes abounding with trout are near, and offer the angler a fine field to test his skill with a fly. Furlough Lake is a beautiful sheet of water of great depth; and when I tell the reader that the famous five-pound trout exhibited in Barnum's Museum some years ago was caught in that lake, he can form some ides of the inviting sport offered to the angler. Balsam Lake, covering nearly sixty acres, lies nestled in the wilderness, surrounded by tall pines and hemlock, and abounds with trout.

Roy watched her with a meditative smile until she was no longer visible. Had she done him a service or an injury? She had at least intensely excited his interest. And now the book—a cruel service, or kind?

She was absent some time. He was growing a little tired. Presently he heard voices, and the door opened below, and, looking down the well of the stairs, he saw a man come out.

He was a tall, rather heavy fellow, close-whiskered and close-cropped, and wore leggins like a gamekeeper. He had a peculiarly neat, natty air, and would have been a prize to an artist doing an offhand hunting sketch. He was so trim and self-possessed, and really good-looking in his way, that he could not have failed to strike even an unartistic eye.

The light fell on his face for an instant, bringing all the features into view. It was coarse and hard—firm, prominent chin; deep jaws, like some strong beast; and cold, deadly eyes. He was the incarnation of animal strength—of that sort of firmness which, when employed, becomes cruelty.

"Not a man to be trifled with" would be the verdict of the superficial observer; "a villian at heart," the judgment of the more keen.

Roy knew this man instinctively for the Dick Moyston of whom he had heard.

"Quite right," said Roy, instantly resolved to stand by the housemaid to the last. "And as for the mysterious feature of last night's adventure is mysterious no longer! A rather absurd practical joke, on the whole." The young man felt a little disgusted, perhaps.

"I have kept them for you," added the girl.

"For me?"

"If you wish them."

"Well, Martha, had you not better return them—or——"

"I should not like to return them, unless to the place I took them from. I think there is something in one of the pockets of the dress. Indeed, Mr. Roy, I am so frightened because I meddled!"

"Frightened? What nonsense! No possible harm can come to you. Mr. Kendryn is a great friend of yours, you know."

"I hope so," she sighed. "The young ladies went in the direction of the north wing a little while ago, and something happened," she added rather vaguely. "I have done very wrong, sir."

Roy was curious again.

"Something happened?"

"You may not know all the secrets of this old place, sir," she continued in a tone of awe, looking about. "The young ladies—Miss Beatrice and Miss Ursula—went up the little spiral staircase this evening to the top, where the portrait is, and I was with them, and we looked through the window and saw the grounds below."

Roy smiled. "And what did you see that was so wonderful?"

"It was only a little while ago. Nobody had been there before for a long time. The window-panes were very dusty, but I cleaned them with my handkerchief, and we peeped out."

"And saw nothing very startling, I dare say."

"Someone came upon us very suddenly, and was very angry. He ordered us to leave and go below."

"Who was this?"

"It was the gentleman who came this afternoon—Mr. Moyston," said Martha with a sort of shudder.

"Mr. Moyston!"

"He spoke very crossly, and Miss Beatrice threatened him; but he was not to be put down. He said he had his orders from Mr. Redgrave, and meant to obey them."

From Mr. Redgrave! Out of the shadow rose the tall, sinister figure of Archbald Redgrave before Roy's mental vision, and back to his mind came trooping the hardly faded memories of Kendryn's recent doubt and distrust. Should this drama grow deeper, more intense, as time progressed; and what development might follow out of that vapory and volcanic background—dim as yet, uncertain, but presaging evil by the very look alone!

There are feelings we cannot dissect. But here was something ominous and threatening, all of a sudden—undefined, but the more evil by that very fact. It settled like a smoky and thunderous cloud.

From Archbald Redgrave, she had said. A very peculiar old man—shy, one would have thought—timid, strange. He had not loved his brother. Established here he was; surrounded by his people, mysterious like himself. Had he not virtually taken possession—and by no right, except that of kinship? Was there really a purpose beneath these proceedings?

Roy felt troubled.

"You spoke of the dress, Martha," he said. "There is something in one of the pockets?"

"I felt it. I think it is a book."

"A prayer-book, no doubt," rejoined Roy with a faint smile. "Miss Pin is fond of saying her prayers, I believe, particularly at night. You must have taken a peep at the book, Martha. Confess; there is really no danger with me."

She was embarrassed and quite ill at ease. Probably she repented her freedom of revelation.

"I did take a peep, sir," she admitted; "but could not read any of it. The book is not printed."

"A manuscript book?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then pray let me see it at once, Martha. You don't know

NEW YORK CLIPPER.

SATURDAY, JULY 17, 1875.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

☞ Letters seeking information replied to only through this department; no answers by mail.

ED. B. T., Grafton.—1. The question was not as to what old cribbage-players, like yourself, considered the best hand. The answer to that would have been 29. Individually, we say, like yourself, that, in point of fact, 29 cannot be held in hand absolutely. The question was virtually as to what combination of cards in hand, with the deck head, is the most advantageous; and the answer was that four fives in hand, with the jack turned up, would give the dealer 30 points, or the non-dealer 28, while the jack in hand and its corresponding five-spot turned up would give the holder of the three fives, 29. We added that the most that can be held in hand, in point of fact, is 20—four fives. What old cribbage-players think of it was not the point at issue. We know that old yachtsmen, if asked what craft won the Queen's Cup in 1851, will answer the America, and yet it is more than likely that the America never competed for the Queen's Cup. 2. That even some of the oldest cribbage-players have yet to learn something of the game is proven in the case of yourself, who "have played the game for many years and with many persons." You tell us that four fives count, not 29, but "18—12 for pairs royal, and 6 by fifteens." The youngest cribbage player can show you four fives count 8 by fifteens. 2. Your concluding request—"I would ask some of your scientific crib-players to make a diagram of a hand counting 30, or even 29"—is submitted to our readers, though we think that it has already been shown how 29 can be held in hand absolutely, and how 28, 29 and 30 can be scored independently of any play, but with the assistance of the deck-head, which is the property of both players, and, therefore, is not properly in the hand of either. What cribbage-players call holding a hand of 29 is a technicality, they excluding from the hand the jack when it is turned up (nevertheless, it is included in the five turned up when the jack is in hand), for the reason that they are required by a rule of the game, before playing a card, to peg two for the jack so turned, if they would peg for it at all.

J. H. C., Nashville.—The figures you give make the pool $101 already, on the first four choices. E and the others can now bid for the fifth choice. E may never be in the pool at all, others outbidding him for fifth choice. Understand that the fact that the pool must be so closed does not mean that there shall be just $400, or that there shall be five persons in it. No more than five persons can bid, but two may buy all the choices. The pool must be so closed, at $100, or $1 each from five, and the protection may demand that it be run up to $1,000, or even $10,000. There is no limit, unless expressly provided for. Thus, assuming that the first four choices brought $97, the fifth choice at the so-called $100 pool by bidding the lacking $3 for fifth choice. A, who had bought first choice for $40, would certainly bid against E.

A., Brandon.—1. Straights have no fixed value. They sometimes have a kind, and sometimes only two pair, according to agreement. 2. Theoretically, a deuce full, with threes at the back, is the lowest in the pack; but as there cannot be a hand of three deuces at the same time and two fours, it is useless to ask which is practically the better hand. 3. The same answer applies to a hand of four kings and a six, and one of four queens and a jack. One is as good as the other, for nothing but a straight flush, played by agreement, can beat either. 4. If the ordinary rules of draw poker be followed, A loses. He agreed to come nearer than A, and was nearer, but A passed Jones. To distinguish the two, one was called James King of William.

MONEY, St. Paul.—Cook and Rudolphe have never played the English billiards. At Irving Hall, this city, on Oct. 9, 1874, they played the three-ball carom game, 400 points up, on an English-made table, and with the English size of balls, for $1,000 a side, and Rudolphe won by 128.

F. H. R.—Both are simple mathematical propositions, which you can solve for yourself if they are unreservedly stated, but which no one can answer correctly if they are but fully stated. "$10 against $30" may mean several things.

H. E., Washington.—We are glad to know that you are pleased with them; but a rule, "as unalterable as the laws of the Medes and Persians," probably, compels us to "maintain a subdued silence" as to the "first person singular," or rather the singular first person.

CARAMPIETRO.—The head of a silver piece, with an eagle on one side and the Goddess of Liberty on the other, is the latter. Good-breeding requires that the lady be given the place of honor.

UNION CLUB, Pa.—If you go into a billiard-room and state that you can discount a man for $5, and you "put up," and he wins, and you claim the money, in all probability you will not get it, for he has won it.

REGATTA, Phila.—If No. 1 completed the course before No. 2 withdrew, and if the notice put up after the bet was laid did not cause the non-starting of one or more boats, then A wins.

W. R., Gibson.—We would advise you to stick to your present business. The branch of the profession to which you allude is already overcrowded, and novices would stand little chance of securing engagement.

CONSTANT READER, Baltimore.—A having been ordered up by B, the making of five tricks by C alone entitles C and A to two points each. B was the only player who could count three for making five tricks.

T. J. S., Girard College.—Allison, Cummings, Mills, Burdock, Ferguson, Carey, York, Rowson, Bond, Hasbridge, and Quinn. Don't know the number of base-hits. 2. That is a matter of opinion.

J. W.—8 loses. He had to beat eleven.

CONSTANT READER, Boston.—The St. Louis Club "Chicagoed" the White Stockings the first game they played together, and that was the only Chicago score. The scores were: St. Louis vs. Chicago, 10-0, 4-3 and 13-2. Chicago vs. St. Louis, 9-4, 6-3 and 8-5.

CAPTAIN WILMAT AND CORNELL'S CLUB.—Your opponents having played their seventh inning, and your nine having exceeded their score in the part of the seventh inning, your nine playing when the game was called, you of course win. The decision in the Mercury was incorrect.

R. D., Franklin.—No individual player can join the Professional Association except as one of the nine of a club which does join. Advertise yourselves as wanting the positions you can play best, giving references.

J. J. COOLEY.—"In playing the following cards at cribbage, A led off with an eight, B a four, A a six, B five and A a seven. Is that a sequence?".....Yes; of three for B, and five for A.

P. L. D'EAU, Montreal.—It is a matter of private agreement between the purchaser and the proprietor, and the price fluctuates so much that we cannot give you a correct idea thereof.

A AND B.—As the jury were in favor of Beecher, A loses. The provisos that the jury would not agree, and that a majority of 6 and 6 would make a stand-off, leave no doubt as to the intention of both parties.

CUMBER DISTRICT, Albany.—A risk attaches to it. You should make arrangements beforehand. Address Oliver P. Marshall, Thomas' Exchange; or Johnson, or Kelly & Bliss—if you mean this city.

SUBSCRIBER, Western, Del.—When one party bets that a club will beat another, and a tie results, the party so betting loses, provided that the other bettor did not expressly stipulate that the other club would win.

A. P. R., Detroit.—1. What is termed spun wire, from ⅛ of an inch to ⅜ in thickness, is used; and it is fastened by screw-eyes. 3. The kind of shoes usually worn by ballet dancers.

CONSTANT READER, Lawrence.—1. Dramatic agencies do not attend to that kind of business. 2. The supply already exceeds the demand. 3. From $30 to $60 per week, according to his showing.

A. MCDONALD, Boston.—If you mean time-record sculling, Josh Ward; but if you refer to important victories won, Jeremy Hamill; or number of successful races over good men, John Biglin.

SERGEANT-AT-ARMS.—John C. Heenan and John Morrissey sparred together at Hoym's Theatre, this city, for the benefit of the widow of Boss Harrington, April 4, 1859. They fought Oct. 20, 1858.

TOM AND MAX, Worcester.—Major Fulton's score at Creedmoor, L. I., last year, 171 out of a possible 180, is the best ever made in a public match.

T. L., Sandusky.—1. One mile, 1:41⅘; two miles, 3:32½; three miles, 5:27⅘; four miles, 7:19½. 2. No official time in England.

T. T., Boston.—Write to Ed. James, 88 and 90 Centre street, and he can send you a lithograph of it with a brief description.

AMATEUR, Duntop.—No. The pitcher can be changed every inning if the captain likes; but the rule requires that the ball shall be delivered only from the pitcher's position.

W. H. M., Wilmington.—Harry Wright is captain of the Boston nine, and Bond is pitcher of the Hartfords, and Waterman is, or was, in Cincinnati lately.

PHILIP, Phila.—If you were not playing the call-out game, neither is out. The idea of the call-out game is to prevent [illegible] accomplishing, and to save time.

Key West, Fla.....A duel was fought in Belgium between the Parisian journalists M. Rosati of Le Presse and M. Perrivier of Le Pays; the former was wounded in the first exchange of shots.

C. K., Louisville.—1. We have never seen the feat you name, nor heard of its being accomplished. 2. The space of twenty inches would cover $3 each insertion.

H. W., Baltimore.—You can easily solve the question by applying to the managers of the variety theatres in your city for such an engagement.

COOK AND RUDOLPHE fought thrice in the P. R., defeating George Thompson (Bob McLaren), Yankee Sullivan and John C. Heenan. All of his opponents are now dead.

D. B., Philadelphia.—We have no correspondent there. Results of games are never omitted when promptly sent.

H. B. J., Washington.—It was not the Irish team that visited this country who were beaten last year at Wimbledon, but it was nevertheless a picked eight.

SAL, Monticello.—Big dancers can get from $25 to $60 per week; small dancers from $15 to $20, through ability. We do not know of any troupe that wants one.

RICHARD, Mahonoy City.—1. Having by an ace in his hand, could build A's hand to ten, and allow his own combination of seven to remain on the table. 2. No charge.

HERCULES, Mt. Vernon.—1. Spalding and White, probably. 2. Yes. 3. Cannot say. 4. Your query is not clear. A Low Leader.—He is alive, and was recently released from imprisonment in Philadelphia.

PUBILIST, New Orleans.—Jim Mace is 5ft. 8¼ in height, stocking feet; the other man, 5ft. 10¾.

SILVER SUMMIT STATION.—Talk. Now, please answer, was the man on third not allowed to come home, or was only the man on first allowed to take his second?"... Both were entitled to a base, the former going home.

BOWLER, Boston.—1. The principal clubs are the Young America of Philadelphia, the Germantown, the Merion, the Philadelphia, St. George of Newark, N. J., Boston of Boston, Peninsular of Detroit, Toronto of Canada, Montreal of Canada, St. George of St. Louis. 2. De Witt's Cricketer's Guide.

ENGLISH.—Having twice defeated the representative Irish team, the American rifle-team can rightfully claim the championship of Ireland; but in order to become champions of Great Britain it will be necessary for them to also defeat a selected team representing that country, or teams composed respectively of Scotchmen and Englishmen.

G. TEMKE, Baltimore.—If there is anything except a dark lantern, it is a secret. If the lady is a professional who, availing himself of such a secret, would be likely to disclose it for a consideration, it is Harry Jenkins, whom you can address as per card in another column.

ARBON, Williamsburg.—The official valuation of A. T. Stewart's residence, Thirty-fourth street and Fifth avenue, is $500,000, and the total tax of the State, city and county is $91 being for Croton water. This does not include the special assessments for Riverside Park, the opening of boulevards, etc.

M. P., Lowell.—1. It is owned by a stock company. 2. He was born in 1841. 3. Aliens dying intestate in this country, their real estate descends to the heirs at law, in some States; and in the new, in which such is not the case, the claims of the people are generally relinquished in favor of heirs, by act of legislature. 4. He is.

J. H. C., Baltimore.—Send an order by mail. If you expect to play the roles you name, it is probable that no manager will pay you any attention. The parties you mention may give you an engagement for small business, and to sing in the choruses. When Mr. H. returns from California will be time enough.

R. F. T., Canada.—1. "In cribbage, can twelve points be made with the following cards: ten of hearts, ace of hearts, deuce of spades, deuce of clubs, and deuce of diamonds, or only ten?" The count is 12. 2. In England 500 yards open water is considered a fair swim in 7min. 37 2-5 sec., and a trifle less than 1,000 yards, still water, in 16 min. 43 4-5 sec.

W. H. F.—It is so much the duty of D to combine another eight for his partner, that B and D will forfeit the game, should it appear that the latter had an eight in the hand. Parmership-casino, as an assisting game, requires great judgment; but players cannot assist in the way proposed by B.

M. F. C., Black River Falls.—1. The question is, was the "loaded" bat loaded with wood or metal? If the former, it was legal; otherwise, not. 2. The pitcher can field a foul ball anywhere. It is only when a ball is made dead by being handled by the crowd that he has to field it from his position.

A. J., Hamilton.—1. Edwin Adams first appeared at the National Theatre, Boston, Mass., Aug. 29, 1853. 2. Whitlock. 3. Cannot say. 4. Toole was born in London, Eng. 5. At the Haymarket Theatre, London, July 22, 1852. 6. Cannot say.

EUGENE, Helena.—1. A player who is assisted cannot go alone. 2. Any player can go alone who has not passed the trump or assisted in the play. 3. Any player can assist him in the making of it, who has not been assisted or ordered up, or whose partner has not been ordered up.

R. S. F., Phila.—Alden Goldsmith of Walnut Grove Farm, Orange County, N. Y., is the owner of Goldsmith Maid. Perhaps you refer to her present handler, Budd Doble, who is traveling with her. His address, when at home, is 1,518 Brown Street, Philadelphia.

J. N. L., Boston.—Mr. James Kernan of Pittsburg obligingly answers: "I see in THE CLIPPER of to-day an inquiry about James King of William. William King had a brother, and his name was named James." To distinguish the two, one was called James King of William".

MONEY, St. Paul.—Cook and Rudolphe have never played the English billiards. At Irving Hall, this city, on Oct. 9, 1874, they played the three-ball carom game, 400 points up, on an English-made table, and with the English size of balls, for $1,000 a side, and Rudolphe won by 128.

F. H. R.—Both are simple mathematical propositions, which you can solve for yourself if they are unreservedly stated, but which no one can answer correctly if they are but fully stated. "$10 against $30" may mean several things.

H. E., Washington.—We are glad to know that you are pleased with them; but a rule, "as unalterable as the laws of the Medes and Persians," probably, compels us to "maintain a subdued silence" as to the "first person singular," or rather the singular first person.

CARAMPIETRO.—The head of a silver piece, with an eagle on one side and the Goddess of Liberty on the other, is the latter. Good-breeding requires that the lady be given the place of honor.

UNION CLUB, Pa.—If you go into a billiard-room and state that you can discount a man for $5, and you "put up," and he wins, and you claim the money, in all probability you will not get it, for he has won it.

REGATTA, Phila.—If No. 1 completed the course before No. 2 withdrew, and if the notice put up after the bet was laid did not cause the non-starting of one or more boats, then A wins.

W. R., Gibson.—We would advise you to stick to your present business. The branch of the profession to which you allude is already overcrowded, and novices would stand little chance of securing engagement.

CONSTANT READER, Baltimore.—A having been ordered up by B, the making of five tricks by C alone entitles C and A to two points each. B was the only player who could count three for making five tricks.

T. J. S., Girard College.—Allison, Cummings, Mills, Burdock, Ferguson, Carey, York, Rowson, Bond, Hasbridge, and Quinn. Don't know the number of base-hits. 2. That is a matter of opinion.

J. W.—8 loses. He had to beat eleven.

TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND persons are said to have visited Fairmount Park, Philadelphia, on July 5. "Can such things be, and overcome us like a Summer cloud, and not excite our" envy? Guess not!

NEWS OF THE WEEK BOILED DOWN.

☞ On July 5: The anniversary of American Independence, which this year fell on Sunday, was enthusiastically celebrated throughout the States, and by Americans in foreign countries.....By a collision between passenger trains on the Rockaway branch of the Long Island Southern Railroad, eight persons were killed and several wounded.....The steamer J. D. Parker, from Cincinnati, O., for Memphis, Tenn., struck a rock and sank, after the passengers and cargo had been saved.....Prof. Jenney reported that he had not found gold enough to warrant extending mining operations in the Black Hills.....The anniversary of Fourth of July chapter of serious and slight accidents, caused by explosives, was reported.....Miss Lena Reitz, John Gusman, and William Goodhill were drowned while bathing at Rockaway, L. I.—the two latter losing their lives in an effort to save the lady.....It was cabled that a magnificent festival was given by the Americans in London, Eng., at the Crystal Palace, Sydenham, in honor of our national day, Minister Schenck presiding, and many English and American ladies being present; that, in a sermon at Westminster Abbey on the 4th, Dean Stanley contrasted the animosity disp ayed in former days on the anniversary of the declaration of American Independence with the spirit of conciliation which at present prevails, and said that now every American is proud of his English ancestry; and every Englishman is proud of Washington; that the Carlists claim several important successes, including the surrender of the important city and fortress of Molino del Rey, with garrison, cannon, and munitions of war; that Don Carlos has been proclaimed Lord of Biscay, and had taken command of the Northern army; that the Carlists deny the report of Dorregaray's defeat; that General Jovellar had thrown four hundred shells into Cantavieja, Spain; that the American revivalists Moody and Sankey were in their last week in London, England, and will go thence to Paris, France; that in an address drawn up and signed by Rev. Drs. Parker, Henry, Allen and Alex. Raleigh, Congregational ministers of London, Eng., and open for signature by others, they declare that in regard to the Tilton-Beecher trial they are enabled to record an expression of their judgment and feeling as entirely favorable to Rev. H. W. Beecher's Christian character; that it was rumored in Paris that the French Ambassador to Berlin, Duke de Gramont, had resigned, and that Signor Nigra had been appointed Italian Minister at Washington, D. C., vice Count Corti; and that U. S. Minister Moran was congratulated by the members of the diplomatic corps at Constantinople on the anniversary of American Independence.

Thomas Rourke was drowned at Jersey City, N. J.

While attempting to light a fire with kerosene oil, Lizzie Lewis was fatally burned at 128 Perry street, this city.

The dress of Miss Annie Cremen of Newark, N. J., was ignited by a fire-cracker, and she was fatally burned.....John Hill, a colored man, was killed at Vicksburg, Miss., on July 4, during an affray at a colored celebration in Vicksburg, Miss.....About 3,000 Indians participated in the first redskin celebration of our national birthday, at Atoka, I. T.

Several new companies are being formed in Cincinnati, O., for the manufacture of fine cigars.....The Cincinnati Commercial published a letter from M. Granier de Cassagnac, demanding from M. Gambetta satisfaction for insulting language in La Republique Francaise.....Joseph Heil killed Peter Bandlow with a club in a quarrel at Newark, N. J.....Several buildings at Shamokin, Pa.—loss, $50,000, partially insured; Mann & Dater's sash-and-blind factory, Troy, N. Y.—loss $20,000, insured for $6,000; and the Cleveland Rolling-mill, Cleveland, O.—loss $50,000, insured for $25,000.....Fatal casualties: Dennis Cronin was killed by falling through a manhole in Boston, Mass.; John Older lost his life while putting up a barn at Brussels, Ont.; Annie O'Connor, aged 13, was drowned while bathing at South Boston, Mass.; a falling tree killed John Fox in Brooklyn, L. I.; Mrs. Parsons of the same city died from injuries received by falling from the roof of her residence; Sanford Reinhardt was fatally hurt by falling from his truck in this city; The killing of Emil Gifrard by a negro at Labadieville, La., July 4, was announced.....Alex. Newton was sentenced at New Orleans, La., to be executed for the murder of Justin Bourdigny.....Mrs. Seaman, a widow with seven children, was stated to have committed suicide at Fremont, N. Y.....William Brown of Philadelphia, who took the life of his wife, was arrested.

☞ July 6: The London Standard characterized the celebration of Independence Day at the Crystal Palace as a display of exceedingly bad taste and discourtesy on the part of Americans.....Dr. Robert Dale Owen announced the intention that few Americans, "not actually participating in the general system of public plunder in their country," would hesitate to exchange their institutions for those of England.....The Archbishop of Westminster, Cardinal Manning declined to accept the challenge from M. de Cassagnac, who thereupon publicly announced his intention to kick Cardinal Manning.....A pleasant time met with a most enthusiastic welcome to Belfast, Ireland; that Gen. Dorregaray's Carlist army had retreated into Catalonia, and the Carlists had erected fresh batteries against San Sebastian; that a bill for the relief of Fielding, a negro, ion for Spain provides for individual and religious liberty and a Legislature of two branches composed as in the United States, subject to the explanation in the answer to "Spoiler, Trenton."

H. A., Ashland.—1. Eighteen yards is the distance at quoits. 3. The measurement is from the centre of the top of the mot to the nearest iron.

CONSTANT READER.—P wins. Two fours, ace and queen, with a six, count eight—six by fifteens and two for the pair and ten.

SCULLY.—1. Cannot say. 2. No. 3. It is about seven miles from Carmansville to Yonkers. 4. Possibly from some sporting performer who acts in them.

W. O. V., Hastings.—The nearest recorded approach to trotting twenty-one miles in an hour is twenty miles in 58:25.

J. B. C.—Time alone can cure the dog, and even that may fail. All you can do is to assist Nature by an application of soap liniment to strengthen the parts.

EDWARD, Jersey City.—If A filled the blind, then B's four chips were a raise. Otherwise, he was betting out of turn, and hence could draw down his four chips.

HERMANN GRIMM, Pittsburg.—The party forfeits all the money up. If the match fails to run at the appointed time. Articles of agreement are not necessary.

R. L. G., Grand Rapids.—1. The proprietor of a saloon can exclude any person, irrespective of color. 2. His name was Junius Brutus Booth.

BILLIS, Bronson.—Presuming that each man selected the best five cards as his poker hand, the holder of the four aces wins.

J. F. M., Oil City.—Had a game of nine innings been specified, then the bet would be a draw. As it is, it should be decided by the figures at the close of the eighth inning.

J. C. W., Circleville.—Dan Rice is living, and was travelling this season with De Haven's Hippodrome until it collapsed.

F. M. JR., Jackson.—1. Cannot say. 2. Born in this country.

YOS. R. K.—1. Not performing at present. 2. When we have their route, you will find it in our census summary.

DECLINED.—"Valking in the Powery," "A Rhyming Rigmarole."

F. M. P., Maysville.—The bets stand on the umpire's decision.

L. E. BARRY.—If not giving you too much trouble, we shall be obliged to you for a copy of that centennial.

R. B., Brooklyn.—The Prince of Wales was publicly received here on Oct. 11, 1860.

G. R. P., Milwaukee.—Having been assisted, B could not go alone.

M. G. S., Chicago.—The jack is of no account. The holder of the ace is out.

W. D. T., Des Moines.—If the buyer made his jack, he is out with his ace, if the game was ten, and he gave two.

H. W., Lonaconing.—Address James Munson, stenographer, Beekman street, this city.

TRUTH, Cohoes.—The bills were received. If possessing sufficient interest, they will be used.

M. M., Philadelphia.—No answers by mail. Address a letter to him in care of this office.

J. F. R.—John Morrissey was born at Templemore, County Tipperary, Ireland, in 1831.

J. B., Providence.—They use double-barreled shotguns, using shot instead of ball.

CONSTANT READER, Windsor.—No street of that name touches Franklin square.

TURF.—N loses. There is no record of running time in England.

H. F., Philadelphia.—W. F. Cody, otherwise known as "Buffalo Bill," was born in Iowa, Feb. 26, 1840.

M. V. WALSH, Fort Wayne.—The Mutuals are partly cooperative.

C. B. F., Burlington.—Years ago they could be purchased here, but not now.

D. B., San Francisco.—For a first attempt, it is fair, but not good enough for publication.

F. O., Springfield.—No answers by mail. He has always dealt squarely with us.

K. K., Cincinnati.—We cannot imagine what is meant by "covering on five cards at sixty-six."

S. O. Y., Boston.—If both parties needed two points, the maker of low-jack beats the maker of high-game.

J. L., Cherry Creek.—At euchre, an assisted player cannot go alone.

DUFONSO.—The dealer having made the trump, he only could go alone.

READER, Fremont.—If it is not out of print, almost any dealer in engravings can procure it for you.

JOE, Cincinnati.—He is alive, and was recently released from imprisonment in Philadelphia.

PUBILIST, New Orleans.—Jim Mace is 5ft. 8¼ in height, stocking feet; the other man, 5ft. 10¾.

SILVER SUMMIT STATION.—Talk. Now, please answer, was the man on third not allowed to come home, or was only the man on first allowed to take his second?"... Both were entitled to a base, the former going home.

BOWLER, Boston.—1. The principal clubs are the Young America of Philadelphia, the Germantown, the Merion, the Philadelphia, St. George of Newark, N. J., Boston of Boston, Peninsular of Detroit, Toronto of Canada, Montreal of Canada, St. George of St. Louis. 2. De Witt's Cricketer's Guide.

ENGLISH.—Having twice defeated the representative Irish team, the American rifle-team can rightfully claim the championship of Ireland; but in order to become champions of Great Britain it will be necessary for them to also defeat a selected team representing that country, or teams composed respectively of Scotchmen and Englishmen.

G. TEMKE, Baltimore.—If there is anything except a dark lantern, it is a secret. If the lady is a professional who, availing himself of such a secret, would be likely to disclose it for a consideration, it is Harry Jenkins, whom you can address as per card in another column.

ARBON, Williamsburg.—The official valuation of A. T. Stewart's residence, Thirty-fourth street and Fifth avenue, is $500,000, and the total tax of the State, city and county is $91 being for Croton water. This does not include the special assessments for Riverside Park, the opening of boulevards, etc.

M. P., Lowell.—1. It is owned by a stock company. 2. He was born in 1841. 3. Aliens dying intestate in this country, their real estate descends to the heirs at law, in some States; and in the new, in which such is not the case, the claims of the people are generally relinquished in favor of heirs, by act of legislature. 4. He is.

J. H. C., Baltimore.—Send an order by mail. If you expect to play the roles you name, it is probable that no manager will pay you any attention. The parties you mention may give you an engagement for small business, and to sing in the choruses. When Mr. H. returns from California will be time enough.

R. F. T., Canada.—1. "In cribbage, can twelve points be made with the following cards: ten of hearts, ace of hearts, deuce of spades, deuce of clubs, and deuce of diamonds, or only ten?" The count is 12. 2. In England 500 yards open water is considered a fair swim in 7min. 37 2-5 sec., and a trifle less than 1,000 yards, still water, in 16 min. 43 4-5 sec.

W. H. F.—It is so much the duty of D to combine another eight for his partner, that B and D will forfeit the game, should it appear that the latter had an eight in the hand. Parmership-casino, as an assisting game, requires great judgment; but players cannot assist in the way proposed by B.

M. F. C., Black River Falls.—1. The question is, was the "loaded" bat loaded with wood or metal? If the former, it was legal; otherwise, not. 2. The pitcher can field a foul ball anywhere. It is only when a ball is made dead by being handled by the crowd that he has to field it from his position.

A. J., Hamilton.—1. Edwin Adams first appeared at the National Theatre, Boston, Mass., Aug. 29, 1853. 2. Whitlock. 3. Cannot say. 4. Toole was born in London, Eng. 5. At the Haymarket Theatre, London, July 22, 1852. 6. Cannot say.

EUGENE, Helena.—1. A player who is assisted cannot go alone. 2. Any player can go alone who has not passed the trump or assisted in the play. 3. Any player can assist him in the making of it, who has not been assisted or ordered up, or whose partner has not been ordered up.

R. S. F., Phila.—Alden Goldsmith of Walnut Grove Farm, Orange County, N. Y., is the owner of Goldsmith Maid. Perhaps you refer to her present handler, Budd Doble, who is traveling with her. His address, when at home, is 1,518 Brown Street, Philadelphia.

J. N. L., Boston.—Mr. James Kernan of Pittsburg obligingly answers: "I see in THE CLIPPER of to-day an inquiry about James King of William. William King had a brother, and his name was named James." To distinguish the two, one was called James King of William".

MONEY, St. Paul.—Cook and Rudolphe have never played the English billiards. At Irving Hall, this city, on Oct. 9, 1874, they played the three-ball carom game, 400 points up, on an English-made table, and with the English size of balls, for $1,000 a side, and Rudolphe won by 128.

F. H. R.—Both are simple mathematical propositions, which you can solve for yourself if they are unreservedly stated, but which no one can answer correctly if they are but fully stated. "$10 against $30" may mean several things.

H. E., Washington.—We are glad to know that you are pleased with them; but a rule, "as unalterable as the laws of the Medes and Persians," probably, compels us to "maintain a subdued silence" as to the "first person singular," or rather the singular first person.

CARAMPIETRO.—The head of a silver piece, with an eagle on one side and the Goddess of Liberty on the other, is the latter. Good-breeding requires that the lady be given the place of honor.

UNION CLUB, Pa.—If you go into a billiard-room and state that you can discount a man for $5, and you "put up," and he wins, and you claim the money, in all probability you will not get it, for he has won it.

REGATTA, Phila.—If No. 1 completed the course before No. 2 withdrew, and if the notice put up after the bet was laid did not cause the non-starting of one or more boats, then A wins.

W. R., Gibson.—We would advise you to stick to your present business. The branch of the profession to which you allude is already overcrowded, and novices would stand little chance of securing engagement.

CONSTANT READER, Baltimore.—A having been ordered up by B, the making of five tricks by C alone entitles C and A to two points each. B was the only player who could count three for making five tricks.

T. J. S., Girard College.—Allison, Cummings, Mills, Burdock, Ferguson, Carey, York, Rowson, Bond, Hasbridge, and Quinn. Don't know the number of base-hits. 2. That is a matter of opinion.

J. W.—8 loses. He had to beat eleven.

DEATH'S DOINGS.

Weekly Record of the Decease of Prominent Individuals.

COMPILED EXPRESSLY FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER.

AMES, Hon. Samuel—Born in Champlain June 29, 1824, and began the practice of the law in Keeseville, N. Y., in 1845. Was appointed Surrogate of Clinton county in 1848. He was afterwards elected to the Assembly as a Whig, but joined the Republican party on its formation, and in 1871 was elected to the State Senate—Keeseville, July 3, aged 51.

BARTLETT, Robert—For eleven years Assistant Clerk of Select Council of Philadelphia—Germantown, Pa., July 4, aged 78.

BROWN, George—Champion carsman. (See Aquatics.)—Halifax, N. S., July 8.

BLAIR, General Francis P.—Son of Francis P. Blair, journalist and politician, and brother of Montgomery Blair. He graduated at Princeton College in 1841, settled in St. Louis as a lawyer, served as a private in the Mexican War, returned to St. Louis and his law-practice, as a Republican was elected to the Legislature in 1852 and to Congress in 1856 and 1858, was for a while editor of The Missouri Democrat, entered the Union Army as a colonel of volunteers at the commencement of the Civil War, was made a brigadier-general of volunteers in August of 1862, and a major-general in November following, elected to the Thirty-fifth Congress from Missouri in 1864, but resigned to retain his position in the army, in 1866 was appointed Collector of Customs for St. Louis, shortly afterwards withdrew from the Republican party, as a Democrat was nominated for the Vice-presidency on the ticket headed by Horace Greeley in 1868, experienced a crushing defeat largely due to his "Broadhead Letter," and then, except as an occasional stump orator, retired from political life. He is best commended to the remembrance of his countrymen by the opposition to the encroachments of slavery in Missouri, and by his war record. His death was accelerated by a fall, which, in the midst of a paroxysm of mania, broke the neck of transfusion of blood to remedy—St. Louis, Mo., July 9, aged 54.

BUTLER, Mrs. Frances—Wife of Col. E. G. W. Butler, formerly of Louisiana, and mother-in-law of Hon. Charles Conrad of Louisiana, and also of Col. George Williamson, present U. S. Minister to Central America. She was the daughter of Levin Winder, Governor of Maryland, and married with Mrs. Commodore Kennon and George Washington Peter of Maryland; she was the nearest living relative of Mrs. Martha Washington. This gifted and accomplished lady was born at Mt. Vernon, Jan. 27, 1797. Her father was the daughter of Lawrence Lewis and Eleanor Parke Custis of Woodlawn, Fairfax County, Virginia. Lawrence Lewis was a nephew of Fielding Lewis and Elizabeth Washington, only sister of General Washington, and was one of the executors of his uncle's estate. Eleanor Parke Custis was the youngest daughter of John Parke Custis, only son of Martha Washington by her first husband, Daniel Parke Custis, and her mother was Eleanor Calvert of Maryland, granddaughter of Lord Baltimore; and she was in common with her brother, George Washington Parke Custis of Arlington, father of the late Mrs. Robert E. Lee, was adopted by the General and Mrs. Washington, at the death of their father, at the close of the Revolution —Iwa Christian, Miss., July 30, aged 77.

BURNS, Joseph—Formerly lieutenant in the Sixty-ninth N. Y. Volunteers. He was a member of the Irish Brigade Association, and also of the Letter-carriers' Association—Brooklyn, N. Y., July 9, aged 35.

BENNING, General Henry L.—Of Columbia, Ga.—there, July 10.

CAIRNES, Prof. J. E.—Eminent as a political economist, and the author of many books on his favorite subject—London, Eng., July 9.

CROFT, Sarah C.—Daughter of the late Col. M. N. Croft —this city, July 8.

DOHERTY, John—A member of the New York Fire Department, and also of the John J. Bishop Association. He had been an officer in the F. D, but was reduced to the ranks for absence while endeavoring to eclipse all rivals in selling tickets for the theatrical entertainments in behalf of the city poor last year—here, July 8.

FRUEAUFF, David Engene—Son of the Rev. J. F. Frueauff, LL.D.—Columbia, Pa., July 4.

GRIDLEY, John W. J.—Son of the Hon. John V. Gridley of this city, and a clerk in the office of the Corporation Counsel. Found drowned in the East River—this city, July 7.

HULBURD, Jane E.—Widow of Rev. Hiland Hulburd, formerly of Columbus, O.—Montclair, N. J., July 4.

HASBROUCK, Prof. Peter—Of the Hasbrouck Academy, Jersey City, and also superintendent of the Sunday-school attached to the Congregational Tabernacle there. He was a graduate of Rutger's College, New Brunswick—Jersey City, July 6.

IVES, Robert H.—Since the death, on June 10, 1874, of his brother John Carter Ives, the senior partner in the house of Brown & Ives of Providence, R. I., the largest cotton-manufacturing firm in New England. The deceased contributed in a large measure to the industrial prosperity of Rhode Island, and his firm had a controlling influence over the Republican party of that State—Providence, R. I., July 6, aged 77.

LAUCKS, Thomas—A well-known telegraph operator—Norfolk, Va., July 5, aged 38.

McLAUGHLIN, Dr. David D.—Eldest son of the late Dr. Andrew McLaughlin, formerly proprietor of Barnum's Hotel, Baltimore, Md.—there, July 8, aged about 50.

MOORE, Rev. James G.—Pastor of Summerfield Circuit of the M. E. Church, Maryland. He was born in East Baltimore, and was originally a printer. Taken ill while officiating at the grave of a child, and died in the Western Cemetery, Baltimore—that city, July 8.

MORIARTY, Rev. Dr. D. A.—A venerable Catholic clergyman of Pennsylvania, and also conspicuous for literary ability. He succeeded his pastorate that St. Augustine Church, Philadelphia, he turned the building during the first of the riots in that city in 1844, when St. Michael's Church was also burned—Villanova, Pa., July 10, aged 71.

OSGOOD, Rev. S. D., D. D.—District Secretary of the American Baptist Missionary Union, with residence in Chicago—there, July 9.

POPE, Capt. Cornelius—Of New Bedford, and master of the whaler Morning Star—Grand Central Hotel, this city, June 30.

PIZARRO, Don Jose A.—For many years Consul of Spain and Minister for the State of New Jersey, and professor of the Spanish language and literature at St. Mary's College, that State—St. Agnes' Hospital, Baltimore, July 7, aged 92.

ROSE, Joseph S.—A native of Pennsylvania, but for many years a resident of Cincinnati, where for a while he was a steamboat captain. Later he kept a livery stable, and later still, when he was a member of the Cincinnati Council, he originated the fire and marine insurance company. But he is best known as the "Father of the Cincinnati Paid Fire Department," which, in conjunction with George Graham, James Wyatt Platt, and Miles Greenwood, he organized in spite of riots and of being burned in effigy. His service as a fireman began in 1826, and in 1831 he was a director of the Relief Fire Company—Springdale, O., July 8.

RAYMOND, E. D.—Formerly a member of a commission firm in Chicago, Ill. Found dead in his room at the Sherman House—that city, July 10.

STANLEY, John — School-director in Lebanon, Pa. leader of the Perseverance Band, and a member of the Odd-Fellows and Masonic fraternities—there, July 6.

STOCKTON, Alan W.—A native of Baltimore, and formerly a police-captain there. He was a shipjoiner by trade, and for the past thirteen years had been president of the Shipjoiners' Association of Baltimore. In 1861 he was a member of the old Columbian Fire Company, and also of the Eagle Artillery—there, July 6, aged 58.

VERMILYE, Rev. Robert Ogden, D. D.—For the past eighteen years Professor of Theology in Hartford Seminary—Hartford, Ct., July 5.

WILLETT, Fernando C.—Secretary of the American Legation in Mexico City—Cordoba, Mexico, June 19.

WARREN, Hon. Edward A.—Ex-member of Congress from Arkansas. He was born in Greene County, Ala., on May 2, 1818, and became a lawyer. He was a member of the Mississippi Legislature in 1845-6, Speaker of the House in the Arkansas Legislature in 1848-9, State's Attorney for the Fourth Judicial District of Arkansas in 1850, and a representative in the Arkansas legislature in the Thirty-third and Thirty-fifth Congresses—Nevada County, Ark., July 2, aged 57.

WELLS, John—A member of the Jersey City Yacht Club. —Bergen, N. J., July 7, aged 50.

WILLIAMS, Wellington—Geographer and map-engraver. The well known "Mitchell's Geography, and Atlas" was by him. He was a native of England, but a resident of Philadelphia—Chelsea, July 8, aged 63.

ZABRISKIE, Dr. P. Hamilton—Of a distinguished New Jersey family, and brother of the late Chancellor Zabriskie —Bergen Co., N. J., July 10, aged 63.

SPORTS OF THE HIGHLANDERS.

The Seventy-ninth Regiment, N. G. S. N. Y., held their annual picnic at Elm Park, this city, on Monday, July 5. The great attraction of these annual outdoor jollifications of the Highlanders are the Caledonian games which then take place between the members. The entries this year were quite numerous, and the competition spirited, but it will be seen from the results of the various games given below that William Robertson won the greater number of prizes:

Putting the 12lb. stone.—Wm. Robertson, 36ft. 9in.; Frank Robertson, 35ft. 9in.; W. McLeod, 35ft. 3in.

Short race.—Colin S. Carmichael, 1; C. McLeschie, 2; F. Tolmie, 3.

Running long-jump.—Wm. Robertson, 17ft. 9in.; M. Smith, 16ft. 11in.; C. McLeschie, 15ft. 4in.

Egg race.—Colin S. Carmichael,

BASEBALL.

GAMES TO BE PLAYED.

PROFESSIONAL.

July 13, St. Louis vs. Mutual, at Union Grounds.
July 14, St. Louis vs. Atlantic, at Union Grounds.
July 15, Philadelphia vs. Live Oak, at Lynn.
July 16, St. Louis vs. Atlantic, at Brooklyn.
July 17, Philadelphia vs. Hartford, at Hartford.
July 17, St. Louis vs. Mutual, at Brooklyn.
July 22, Athletic vs. Mutual, at Phila.
July 23, Athletic vs. Mutual, at Phila.

AMATEUR.

July 14, Union of Newark, vs. Mutual of Meadville, Pa., at Irvington, N. J.
July 15, Union of Newark, vs. Keystone, at Irvington, N. J.
July 17, Star vs. T. B. F. U. S. of Bridgeport, at Bridgeport.
July 17, Concord vs. Nameless, at Prospect Park.
July 22, Union of Newark, vs. Olympic of Manhattanville, at Irvington, N. J.
July 24, Concord vs. Alpha of Newark, at Capitoline Grounds.
July 25, Staten Island vs. Flyaways of New York, on the grounds of the former.

ST. LOUIS vs. ATLANTIC.

The St. Louis Club of St. Louis made their first appearance in the metropolis on July 12, on which occasion they played their first match with the Atlantic nine. The weather was just the thing for play, but the attendance was not very large, as it was not expected that the contest would be close. The St. Louis Club did not present their full team, as neither Bradley or Miller were in the nine, they being reserved for the Mutual match. In their places Galvin pitched and Seward caught. The Atlantics presented another new nine, Daly of the disbanded Washingtons being in the place of Boyd. Fleet also played, but under a protest of the St. Louis Club. It was a needless one, however, as he has a written release from the St. Louis Club, and that suffices under the new rules, to allow a player to take his place in another club the day after his release. The crowded state of our columns prevents our giving details of the game, which resulted as shown in the score:

ATLANTIC.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.	ST. LOUIS.	T.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.
Fleet, c.	4	1	1	3	2	Cuthbert, lf	5	1	0	0	0	0
Cassidy, 1 b.	4	0	1	10	0	2	Pearce, s. s.	4	0	2	1	6	0
Moore, ss.	4	0	1	2	3	0	Pike, c. f.	4	1	2	3	0	1
Daly, r. f.	4	1	0	0	0	2	Chapman, r f	5	1	0	0	0	0
Pabor, lf.	4	0	0	2	0	0	Hague, 3d b.	5	1	1	1	1	1
Nichols, 3d b.	5	0	0	1	3	0	Galvin, p.	4	1	3	0	6	0
Knowdell, c.	3	0	2	5	1	4	Battin, 2d b.	4	1	1	2	6	0
Ulinton, p.	3	0	0	0	5	3	Dehlman, 1 b	4	0	0	18	0	0
McGee, c. f.	3	0	0	3	1	0	Seward, c.	4	0	0	4	0	0
Totals.	32	2	4	27	17	17	Totals.	39	6	8	27	18	2

Atlantic	2	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	—	2
St. Louis	0	0	1	0	0	0	2	2	1	—	6

First base by errors—Atlantic, 2; St. Louis, 7. Runs earned—None. Umpire, Wm. McLean, Philadelphia. Time, 2h. 10m.

THE CHAMPIONSHIP RECORD.

Another New Deal in the Game.

The record of games played for the championship to July 13 (inclusive of all but Saturday's game) is as follows: Chicagos and Bostons in Boston, the telegraphic result of which had not reached us when our forms were closed) leaves the various contesting clubs occupying the appended positions in the pennant. We give the names of the clubs in the order of won games, that being the record on which the pennant is to be awarded after each nine have played ten games with every other and the record of any club playing less than six games of the ten thus required to be played being thrown out:

	Won.	Lost.	Boston.	Hartford.	Athletic.	St. Louis.	Philadelphia.	Mutual.	Chicago.	New Haven.	Atlantic.	Games Won.
Boston	0	5	5	2	3	6	3	2	1	4	5	31
Hartford	1	2	—	2	0	1	3	1	0	6	5	21
Athletic	1	2	2	—	0	1	1	0	6	0	0	20
St. Louis	0	1	2	2	—	1	1	0	6	0	0	20
Philadelphia	0	1	2	1	2	—	0	3	3	1	3	14
Mutual	0	1	2	2	0	3	—	1	2	2	3	14
Chicago	1	0	1	2	0	3	3	—	1	2	3	14
New Haven	0	1	1	0	3	0	1	1	—	2	3	11
Atlantic	0	1	1	0	0	0	2	0	0	0	—	3
Red Stocking	0	1	0	1	0	0	0	2	0	0	0	3
Games lost			4	9	14	6	17	15	11	19	13	23

By the above record it will be seen that the Washington Club's games are thrown out of the account, and this places Hartford second on the list again, as to games won. The following letter from Captain Parks, of the Washington Club explains things:

EDITOR OF THE CLIPPER:—The Washington nine has been disbanded, their manager, who arrived in town on Friday last, emphatically denies the statement which has been telegraphed all over the country that he absconded with the club's money. He has not seen him since he left, and cannot give you his reasons for leaving St. Louis when he did. The statement published in one of the St. Louis papers is more than sensational than a true story. Will write you further developments. Allison has been engaged by the Hartfords for the remainder of season.

Respectfully, W. F. PARKS.

We hear a great deal of talk about nines refusing to arrange games with one another. This kind of thing will never do in the professional arena. Either the Professional Association must organize a regular organization, with a regular code and laws governing the clubs belonging to it, or it is a useless institution. If it has a practical existence, its laws will be duly enforced, and all the statutes carried out, and consequently, if any one club has violated any rule or law it is open to punishment for the same at the hands of the constituted official bodies. No club has the right to assume to itself the power to judge of the actions of another club as to their illegality, and thereupon act accordingly. If they have just cause for complaint, arraign the offending club at once before the Judiciary Committee. This is the only course to pursue. As for refusing to arrange matches, for alleged reasons of objectionable conduct, etc., that can only ultimately result in the forfeiture of their games to the club they decline to arrange contests with. The question of this kind, it is stated, has come up between the Athletic and Hartford Clubs, the latter declining to arrange a match with the Athletics on the late trip to Boston, because the Athletics claimed the game as a forfeit which the Hartfords failed to play on account of the d-ath of Ferguson's father. It certainly was a foolish thing to do on the part of the Athletics, but nevertheless they can claim a forfeit legally under the wording of the rules. The fact is, the professional club managers ought to see plainly by this time that it is to their interests, especially, and to that of the general advantage of the professional class, that their club intercourse should not be interfered with by any petty feelings of ill will, jealousy or other "unpleasantness."

The record of games played since our last issue is as follows:

July 5, St. Louis vs. Chicago, at St. Louis	15	to	2
July 5, Boston vs. Hartford, at Hartford	7	"	0
July 5, Mutual vs. Atlantic, at Brooklyn	5	"	3
July 5, Athletic vs. Philadelphia, at Philadelphia	20	"	8
July 5, Keystone vs. Athletic, at Boston	9	"	3
July 7, Mutual vs. Hartford, at Hartford	9	"	2
July 8, Mutual vs. Hartford, at Hartford	6	"	2
July 8, Boston vs. Athletic, at Boston	3	"	0
July 8, St. Louis vs. Philadelphia, at Philadelphia	8	"	4
July 9, Mutual vs. Atlantic, at Brooklyn	9	"	2
July 10, St. Louis vs. Philadelphia, at Philadelphia	9	"	1
July 10, Lon vs. Chicago, at Boston	14	"	1
July 10, Mutual vs. Athletic, at Brooklyn	5	"	2
July 12, St. Louis vs. Atlantic, at Brooklyn	6	"	2

MUTUAL vs. ATHLETIC.

The second contest of the championship series between these clubs took place July 10 on the Union Grounds, in the presence of about five hundred people only, the general expectation being that the Athletics would win with little or no difficulty—at least, so the betting men thought, judging by their investments. From present appearances, however, we should judge that the Mutual team, henceforth this season, will prove to be troublesome customers to defeat to any nine they may encounter, be it Red, White or Blue. Certainly in this game they display'd a degree of skill in the field and at the bat that we have hitherto failed to equal. They had out a strong team, as had their adversaries, the Athletics unquestionably presenting the strongest and most reliable nine they have as yet placed in the field—that excellent fielder and batsman, and thorough gentleman West, Fisler, occupying the position he fills so ably at first base.

After the Mutuals had opened play and been easily disposed of for a blank, the Athletics went to the bat, and on a single base-hit and two errors they got in a single run, thereby beginning with the lead. In the second inning a long two base-hits and an error by Gibney at left field, the Athletics scored another unearned run; but this the Mutuals offset by scoring a run in their half, Hicks, Gerhardt and Booth starting off with prettily-hit balls out of reach, on which a run was earned, and eventually three runs were scored, errors in failures to stop balls and some wild throwing by members of the Athletic nine aiding the Mutuals the lead in the score by 3 to 2; and, encouraged by this advantage, they began to play with unusual vigor and skill, and from hits, errors and bases on balls in the game the Athletics were unable to add a single run to their score. They hit hard and well, as a general thing, giving but few chances for catches; but so well was the Mutual infield stationed that even batted balls grounded were stopped and forwarded to the bases in time to prevent their being occupied—Nelson and Gerhardt playing their positions very finely, while the latter batted and fielded admirably behind the bat; in fact, it was plainly apparent that the Mutuals were "playing for the side" better than they had ever done before, and with such success as to earn a victory. In the fourth inning base-hits by Booth and Mathews—the latter looming up well at the bat lately—and a wild throw by Hall led to a single being scored, and, on four successive double plays by the Mutuals, no more runs would have been obtained. In the sixth inning, base-hits by Hicks, Booth, and Mathews led to another earned run, these additions to the Mutuals's score giving them a lead by 5 to 2 at the close of the sixth inning. The Athletics tried hard to recover the lost ground, and in the seventh inning they sent four men to the bat, but only one man made a base-hit—Eggler—and Nelson fielding beautifully in their positions. The last inning saw the Athletics retire a defeated party; and that, too, by superior play, both at the bat and in the field, by the New York representatives. The victory was one to be proud of, for the Athletics played a strong game in nearly every inning. There was some exception taken to a single decision by the umpire which decided a foul mark, and that was in the case of a ball fielded to Fisler by Craver. It was a short, rolling ball to right field, and, though picked up well and forwarded promptly, it was held by Fisler at the same moment that the runner touched first base, and consequently was not out. The rule expressly requires, in such cases, that the ball must be held by the base-player before the runner reaches the base, or the latter is held to be not out. Clinton is the first umpire we have seen who has strictly carried out the letter of the law in this respect, all others giving the runner the benefit of the doubt, and rule before the ball is held there, when it is the ball which must be held there first to put the runner out. The rule applies to all bases but the same. Indeed, it is applicable in nearly every instance in which a player is put out, all doubts going in favor of the base-runner.

Of the play on the Athletic side, the fine catching of Clapp and the masterly base-play of Sutton and Fisler were especially noteworthy. Good catches were also made in the outfield by Eagler. Hall's play was not up to his usual high mark. Craver made but one error, and McBride allowed but two earned runs to be scored against him. The batting score of the Athletics was altogether the best-played game of the month, so far, on the Union Grounds, the Mutuals being on their mettle especially in handling the ash. Nelson leading in this score, while Nelson's third-base play and Gerhardt's fielding at second base were specially noteworthy. Hicks also catching up to his best mark, while Old Joe was at home at first base.

MUTUAL.	T.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.	ATHLETIC.	T.	R.	PO.	A.	E.
Holdsworth, c. f.	5	0	1	0	0		Force, s. s.	4	1	3	4	3
Start, 1st b.	5	0	1	14	1	0	Clapp, c.	4	1	5	4	1
Hallinan, s. s.	5	0	2	1	1		Fisler, 1st b.	4	0	14	0	0
Hicks, c.	4	2	5	0	3		Craver, 2d b.	4	0	1	5	1
Gerhardt, 2d b.	4	2	1	2	3		Sutton, 3d b.	4	0	1	2	1
Booth, r. f.	4	2	0	0	0		Hall, lf.	4	1	1	0	3
Nelson, 3d b.	4	0	1	0	1		Bechtel, r f.	4	0	3	0	0
Mathews, p.	4	0	1	0	3		McBride, p.	4	0	2	2	2
Gibney, lf.	4	0	3	0	0		Eggler, c. f.	3	0	1	0	0
Totals.	39	5	17	16	8		Totals.	34	3	27	14	8

Mutuals	0	3	0	1	0	0	0	1	0	— 5
Athletics	1	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	— 2

First base by errors—Mutuals, 4; Athletics, 1. Runs earned—Mutuals, 3; Athletics, 2. Umpire, Mr. Clinton of the Atlantic Club. Time of game, 1h. 45m.

RED SOX vs. LOUISVILLE-EAGLE.

The Red Sox of St. Louis, Mo., met the Louisville-Eagles at Louisville, Ky., for the first time on the 8th inst., and the game was certainly the most exciting played there this season. The Eagles presented a new-placed team in the field, the most noticeable change being the substitution of Jett Seldom for Eagles opened play at the bat, but were retired in one two-three order. However, they returned the compliment by putting the first three Red Sox out in a similar manner. The second and third innings resulted in both sides retiring without a run, but in the fourth the visitors earned one by safe batting, and retired the Eagles with another goose by safe batting, and retired the Eagles with another goose egg. Neither side scored in the fifth; in the sixth the Red Sox got down to their work, and by magnificent batting added three more runs to their score; the Eagles playing their cards, but failing to get in a run. The eighth inning resulted in a round 0 for both sides. In the ninth the Eagles again failed to score, and the St. Louisians added one, making the game 5 to 0 in favor of the professionals. That the Eagles played finely the score will show, and but for two mistakes in left field the result would have been closer. "Now that the Eagles," says our correspond-nt, "have commenced to play again, we hope to see them keep it up, and not fall back in the rut they have been following lately. With a little practice they can give any professional club a good game, and, without a single exception, all the professionals who have visited here this season agree that the Eagles are the best amateur club in the South or West."

EAGLE.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.	RED SOX.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.
Muir, 1st b.	0	1	18	1	0	Orne, c. f.	1	2	1	0	0
Metcalf, s. s.	0	0	0	5	1	Redmond, s. s.	1	2	1	1	0
Houston, c. f.	0	1	0	2	0	Ellick, s. s.	2	3	0	0	0
Morris, 3d b.	0	1	1	4	0	Hoxtiz, 1st b.	1	1	12	0	0
Roche, c.	0	1	0	4	1	Sewell, 2d b.	0	0	4	4	1
McDonald, r. f.	0	1	0	0	1	Craft, lf.	1	0	0	0	0
Tracey, lf.	0	0	0	0	0	Morgan, p.	0	1	1	4	0
Wentsh, p.	0	0	1	1	0	McGinley, 3d b.	1	1	0	2	0
Truman, 2d b.	0	1	1	4	2	Flint, c.	0	0	7	3	2
Totals.	0	7	21	13	6	Totals.	5	9	27	13	3

Eagle	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	— 0
Red Sox	0	0	0	1	0	3	0	0	1	— 5

Passed balls—Flint, 1. Runs earned—Red Sox, 3. Wild pitches — McDonald, 1. Time of game, 2h. 30m. Umpire, Eagle, 7. Left on bases—Red Sox, 4; Eagle, 5. First base on errors—Eagle 1; Red Sox, 1. Umpire, John Haldeman, Eagle, Jr.

THE ARLINGTON CLUB start on their tour on Monday, July 19, playing in Honesdale, Carbondale, Scranton and Wilkesbarre, Pa., and Binghamton and Syracuse, N. Y.

THE GAME IN THE BUCKEYE CAPITAL.

On July 5 the Amateurs of Cincinnati appeared in Columbus, O., and, to the surprise of everybody, administered a drubbing to the Buckeyes. Loof, the catcher of the Bucks, was disabled in the second inning, Roberts going behind the bat, Falling to first, and Loof to centre field. This may account in some measure for their defeat, but the chief cause lies in the fact that every man in the nine played a little game of ball by himself, paying no attention whatever to the rest of the team. Although the time set for the game (9:30 a. m.) was an unusual hour, there was a very large attendance.

AMATEUR.	T.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.	BUCKEYE.	T.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.
Neff, 1st b.	4	0	1	12	0	0	Roberts, 1 b.	4	1	0	9	1	0
Griffith, 2d b.	4	1	3	0	0	0	Smith, 3d b.	4	0	0	3	5	0
Walker, 3d b.	5	1	1	3	3	2	Dunn, r f.	4	1	1	0	0	0
Miller, c.	3	1	2	7	2	4	Loof, c.	4	0	0	2	0	2
Wilson, s. s.	4	1	1	2	3	1	Turner, s. s.	4	0	2	2	0	1
Lawrence, l f.	4	1	1	1	1	0	Falling, c. f.	4	0	3	5	1	1
Probasco, p.	4	0	0	1	5	0	Little, p.	4	0	0	1	1	0
King, c. f.	4	0	0	0	0	0	Sullivan, l f.	4	1	0	1	1	1
S. Walker, r f.	5	2	2	1	1	0	Nolan, 2d b.	3	1	1	4	2	0
Totals.	37	7	11	27	15	7	Totals.	35	4	6	27	10	4

Amateur	0	1	0	1	1	2	1	1	0	— 7
Buckeye	2	0	0	0	1	0	0	1	0	— 4

Umpire, Mr. Brown of Amateur B. B. C. Scorer, James Williams. Time, 1h. 45m.

On the 6th the Amateurs went to Delaware, and defeated the club in that place by a score of 12 to 9. Flushed with their two victories, they were only too happy to accept the overtures of the chagrined Buckeyes for a second game, which was played July 7. The Amateurs had secured the assistance of Allison and Lowery of the Washington Club, who were passing through the city on their return from that club's disastrous Western tour. They thus presented a stronger nine than in their first game, but were compelled to strike their flag to the Buckeyes at the end of the ninth inning. Allison and Lowery led in the field and at the bat for the Amateurs, and for the Buckeyes Little and Turner in the field, and Turner and Mears at the bat, the latter getting in a corker for three bags in the fifth inning. At the conclusion of the game, the blue badge, the symbol of Buckeye membership, began to make its appearance again, drawn from the deep recesses of pockets where it had been stowed on Monday.

BUCKEYE.	T.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.	AMATEUR.	T.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.
Smith, 3d b.	4	1	1	4	3	4	Allison, 3b b.	4	2	2	2	4	1
Loof, c.	4	1	1	2	0	1	Griffith, 2d b	4	1	1	1	0	1
Dunn, r. f.	4	2	2	1	0	0	Neff, 1st b.	4	1	1	7	0	2
Falling, 1st b	4	2	2	12	0	2	Lowery, s. s.	4	2	2	0	4	3
Turner, s. s.	4	3	2	2	6	0	Walker, r f.	4	1	1	2	2	1
Little, p.	4	1	0	1	5	0	Miller, c.	4	1	1	8	2	1
Mears, c. f.	4	2	2	2	0	0	Earnest, 1st b.	4	0	0	9	1	3
Sullivan, l f.	4	0	1	1	0	2	Benedict, l f.	4	0	0	1	0	1
Nolan, 2d b.	4	0	1	3	3	1	Jury, 3d b.	4	0	1	1	3	0
Totals.	36	12	12	27	19	11	Webster, r f.	4	1	0	0	1	1
Buckeye	1	2	0	2	3	0	1	1	0	0	—	12
Amateur	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	—	1

Umpire, J. R. Smith. Scorer, James Williams. Time, 1h. 50m.

On the 8th the Stars of Covington, Ky., put in an appearance. The Buckeyes on this occasion sported for the first time their elegant new pennant, presented to the club by one of its admirers; and as its beauteous folds were given to the breeze, the defiant rippling of its fair white field seemed to presage a certain victory for the gallant club whose name it bore. That was the poetical view of it. Stern reality, in the shape of the bulletin-board near the scorers' table, said: "Ninth inning—Stars, 9; Buckeyes, 2." The spectators of the Buckeye matches have been afflicted with some bad doses of umpire this season, and this game was no exception in that particular from several others. That most thankless position was filled by a gentleman whose integrity and good intentions cannot be questioned, but several of his decisions in the early part of the game so demoralized the Bucks that they could have been beaten by a deaf dumb and blind nine of wooden men. Add to this the used-up condition of Loof and Noaln's hands—well, the error column of the score will give some faint idea of their play in the field, and their batting was no improvement on their fielding, although Roberts and Falling managed to get in a two-base hit each. The Stars played a beautiful game, the nine moving together like clockwork. They have a difficult pitcher to batin the person of Biong. Their batting is not of the "strike from the shoulder" order, but good, scientific hits for single bases.

STARS.	T.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.	BUCKEYE.	T.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.
Cummins, s. s.	5	1	1	1	2		Roberts, 1st b	4	0	1	12	0	0
Maley, lf.	5	0	0	0	0	0	Smith, 3d b.	4	0	0	4	2	1
Prather, c.	5	1	2	9	0	1	Little, p.	4	0	1	0	8	2
Buck, 1 st b.	5	0	1	9	0	0	Falling, c. f.	4	1	1	1	0	0
Snodgrass, r f	5	3	3	3	0	0	Loof, c.	4	0	1	4	0	13
Street, 2d b.	4	1	0	2	2	0	Turner, s. s.	4	1	3	0	1	2
Sloan, 3d b.	4	0	1	1	2	0	Mears, c. f.	4	0	0	1	0	0
Biong, p.	4	0	0	0	3	1	Sullivan, l f.	3	0	0	3	1	1
Hanks, c. f.	4	1	1	1	0	0	Nolan, 2d b.	3	0	0	3	1	1
Totals.	41	9	11	27	9	6	Totals.	35	2	6	27	13	22

Stars	0	3	0	1	2	0	0	2	1	— 9
Buckeye	0	0	0	0	0	0	2	0	0	— 2

Umpire, H. Dunn. Scorers, James Williams and Benj. Summers. Time, 1h. 40m.

THE WATERTOWN TOURNEY.

The scores of such of the games played at the recent tournament for amateurs at Watertown, N. Y., as were not reported in our past issue are given below. The Live Oaks of Lynn, Mass., captured first prize, $450; Maple Leaf of Guelph, Ont., the second, $350; and the Flyaway of New York, $250. The Star of Syracuse is a very promising club, and one of the best batting nines entered. They having defeated White, the pitcher of the Live Oaks, for fourteen base-hits obliged the men of Massachusetts to substitute Mundale in the seventh.

St. Lawrence	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	— 1
Live Oak	1	0	4	1	2	0	6	0	2	— 17

Umpire, Jas. Shea Jr., Montlecllo Club; Scorers, James Williams and E. M. Durgen.

MAPLE LEAF.	R.	1B.	A.	E.	FLYAWAY.	R.	1B.	A.	E.
Smith, l f.	2	2	0	0	Loughlin, 2d b.	2	2	5	1
Lapham, r f.	1	0	0	1	Quinn, s. s.	0	0	2	0
Jones, s. s.	2	3	2	0	Fallon, p.	0	1	0	2
Spence, 3d b.	1	2	0	0	Shandley, c. f.	0	0	0	0
Myers, 1st b.	0	2	1	0	Ripchinger, 1st b	1	0	1	0
Keerl, 2d b.	0	0	3	0	Gilligan, c.	0	1	0	4
Foley, c.	0	1	2	1	Jolly, l f.	0	1	0	0
Maddock, p.	0	0	0	0	Hunt, r f.	0	0	0	0
W. Smith, p.	0	0	0	0	Kelly, 3d b.	0	0	2	3
Totals.	7	10	9	2	Totals.	3	5	10	10

Maple Leaf	1	0	3	0	1	0	3	0	1	— 9
Flyaway	0	0	1	0	0	1	0	0	1	— 3

Passed balls—Gilligan, 4; Foley 1. Umpire, Mr. Hawes, Live Oak Club. Scorers, Mathew Tinker and G. Norton.

ST. LAWRENCE.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.	FLYAWAY.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.
Ledwih, c.	0	0	6	3	6	Loughlin, 2d b.	2	2	5	1	0
Jackson, c. f.	0	1	1	0	1	Quinn, s. s.	0	0	2	2	0
Anglin, p.	0	0	1	2	0	Fallon, p.	0	1	0	2	0
Lawler, 3d b.	0	0	0	5	1	4	Shanley, c. f.	1	3	0	2	0
Sallidin, 1st b.	0	0	1	8	1	0	Antonnia, 1st b.	0	1	5	0	2
Timmin, 2d b.	0	0	2	5	1	1	Norton, 3d b.	0	1	1	2	1
Foley, s. s.	0	0	0	8	6	1	Jolly, l f.	0	1	2	1	0
Carson, r f.	1	1	1	0	0	0	Hunt, r f.	0	2	1	0	0
Henley, l f.	1	0	0	0	0	0	Kelly, c.	0	0	5	9	0	3
Totals.	2	5	27	16	22		Totals.	12	13	27	8	9

Flyaway	2	1	3	1	0	2	2	0	1	— 12
St. Lawrence	0	0	0	0	0	0	2	0	0	— 2

Umpire, Chas. Palmer, Live Oak. Scorer, Hugh Gilgad, Flyaway.

LIVE OAK.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.	MAPLE LEAF.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.
Hawkes, s. s.	1	0	1	2	1	T. Smith, s. s.	0	1	0	0	1
Whitney, 2d b.	0	0	6	0	0	Lapham, r f.	0	0	2	0	0
Madden, 3d b.	2	1	3	2	0	Jones, l f.	0	1	3	2	1
McGlynn, c.	2	1	9	2	0	Spence, 3d b.	0	1	0	3	0
King, 1st b.	0	0	8	0	0	Myers, 1st b.	0	0	9	0	1
Nevins, l f.	1	1	1	3	0	Keerl, 2d b.	1	3	3	1	2
Thompson, 1st b.	0	0	3	2	0	Foley, c.	0	0	4	1	0
White, r f.	0	1	5	0	0	Maddock, c f.	0	2	2	0	1
Palmer, c f.	1	1	2	0	0	W. Smith, p.	0	0	0	0	0
Totals.	8	5	38	11	1	Totals.	1	8	25	7	6

Live Oak	1	0	0	1	0	0	1	2	1	— 6
Maple Leaf	0	0	0	0	0	0	2	0	1	— 3

Umpire, Jas. Shea Jr., Montlecllo Club; Scorers, E. M. Durgin, M. Tinker.

The St. Lawrence Club also forfeited to the Maple Leafs; score 9 to 0.

WHAT THE FLYAWAYS SAY ABOUT IT.

EDITOR OF THE CLIPPER.—Dear Sir: The Flyaways have returned from their recent trip to Watertown, and desire through the medium of your pap'er to reflect their opinion of the manner in which the match games were played, our high appreciation of those with whom we were brought in contact. Of the managers of the Tournament Association we can but speak in terms of praise. They left nothing undone to comfort and pleasantness in behalf of their guests deserve commendation. Massachusetts may well be proud of her representatives in the Live Oaks of Lynn, and when we recognize the qualities of gentlemanly ballplayers. We would be lax in our duty toward Mr. Harris of the Kirby House, did we not mention the untiring zeal on that gentleman's part to render us comfortable. Granted freely for our necessities. We recommend to visitors this house, feeling assured that they will fare sumptuously. Watertown is quite a busy place, and during our visit we enjoyed opportunities for observing its business portion and palatial residences. The inhabitants are very much interested in the game, and attended the tournament in numbers of two, three and four thousand. We cannot but deprecate the action of the Maple Leafs in playing Kerl, a professional, which was in violation of the spirit of the amateur rules. A side bet was made on the game, and out of his winnings from the main stake and the box-office Miller paid the traveling expenses of Rhines. It is said to say that the latter's umpire in the game was Frank Parker.

OBITUARY.—John Kavanagh, well known as a business man in the Eighth and Fourteenth Wards of this city, and likewise noted for an active interest in public matters, died almost all kinds, died on the 10th inst. at the family residence, corner of Mott and Broome streets. He was a constant attendant at billiard matches, and we cannot remember that he was absent from any one of the many public contests that have occurred in this city during the past fifteen years. He was the bosom friend of Tim Flynn, and at this player's companion on billiard nights the deceased will be recalled by many who did not know him personally. A pulmonary disease of long standing proved fatal when he had reached the age of forty-one years and three months. The obsequies were held on Monday, the 12th inst. "Jack Kavanagh," as he was familiarly called, was a man of strong convictions, and yet a man of many friends.

AQUATIC.

GEORGE BROWN,

The Champion Sculler, Dead.

The brief announcement is made by telegraph of the demise of the celebrated oarsman George Brown, at Halifax, N. S., on Thursday, July 8—the first anniversary of his accession to the position of champion sculler of America, through his victory over William Scharff on the Connecticut River. He had been very ill for six months, from a disease stated to have been contracted at the period of said contest, but had so far recovered that he was able to drive out, when, on the 5th inst., he had an attack of paralysis, from which time he gradually sank until the spark of life went out, about three days afterward.

Deceased was born at Herring Cove, near Halifax, in 1839, stood 5ft. 9in. in height, and in condition weighed about 160lb. Like his father before him, he followed the vocation of a fisherman, and almost constant practice, backed up by a natural love for

SHEESE UND DINGS.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER.

A coppler he sod in his leedle alt shob
(Lager und pretzels und Limburger sheese),
He vas dired und dry, yed he don'd vood shdob,
Bud t eebs on a sewing und bounding his knees.

He's dog lays shleeping, shdredched oud on der floor
(Lager und pretzels und Limburger sheese),
He shleebs mit von eye a vadching der door,
Und vones on a vile he shgradches some fleas.

Der shoemaker's vife, so boody und shdrong
(Lager und pretzels und Limburger sheese),
Vas ood in der kidchen a sincing a song,
Und vas awful bizzy a shelling green peas.

Ven night comes der Dutchman jumps into der bed
(Lager und pretzels und Limburger sheese),
Und he shleeps so sound just like he vas dead,
Und dreams bout flowers und honey und bees.

Agross der road leefs a brond, rich man
(Lager und pretzels und Limburger sheese),
He vas dying mit inches, und, do vat he can,
He nefer cood got some comford und ease.

He don'd got no dog und he don'd got no vife
(Lager und pretzels und Limburger sheese),
To shmood him along in his journey drough life—
All dot he's got vas der shdambs und disease.

He shakes, und he hades to saw dot came nighd
(Lager und pretzels und Limburger sheese),
He dosses und dumples all proad daylighd,
Und der morning sun makes cough und shneeze.

He'd gafe dousands und dousands of he jusd vas like
(Lager und pretzels und Limburger sheese)
Der baby und healdy "Shoemaker Mike."
Dot dwells in der shandy among der drees.

Vell, so dot vents in dis vorld of ours
(Lager und pretzels und Limburger sheese),
Some vinds und dies, dough der vake don't find flowers,
Some's healdy und shdrong, dough dey leef like geese.

OOFTY GOOFT.

WOMBWELL'S MENAGERIE.

Jeremiah Wombwell, its proprietor, is said to have begun life as a cobbler in Monmouth street, Seven Dials, London, Eng., then a famous mart of the second-hand clothes trade, and now called Dudley street. The steps by which he subsequently advanced to the position of an importer of wild animals and proprietor of one of the largest and finest collections that ever traveled are unknown; but that he preceded Jamrach and Rice in the former vocation is proved by the existence of a small yellow card, bearing the device of a tiger, and the inscription:

WOMBWELL,
WILD-BEAST MERCHANT,
Commercial Road, London.

All sorts of Foreign Animals, Birds, etc., bought, sold or exchanged, at the Repository or the Traveling Menagerie.

Wombwell never missed Bartholomew Fair as long as it continued to hold; but a story is told of him which shows that he was very near doing so. His menagerie was at Newcastle-on-Tyne within a fortnight of the time when it should be in Smithfield, and it did not seem possible to reach London in time; but, being in the metropolis on some business connected with his Commercial Road establishment, he found Atkins was advertising that his menagerie would be "the only wild-beast show in the fair." The rivalry we do not appears to have existed at that time between the two great menagerists prompted Wombwell to post down to Newcastle, and immediately commence a forced march to London. By making extraordinary exertions, he succeeded in reaching the metropolis on the morning of the first day of the fair. The elephant had never exerted itself so much on the journey that it died within a few hours after its arrival on the ground.

Atkins heard by some means of his rival's loss, and immediately placarded the neighborhood with the announcement that his menagerie contained "the only living elephant in the fair." Wombwell solved that his rival should not make capital of his loss in this manner, and had a long strip of canvas painted with the words: "The only dead elephant in the fair." This bold bid for public patronage proved a complete success. A dead elephant was a greater rarity than a live one, and his show was crowded and successful of the fair, while Atkins' was comparatively deserted.

At Smithfield, in 1822, the menageries of Wombwell and Atkins were two of the largest shows in the fair. The back of the former abutted on the side of Chappell & Pike's theatre, on the north side of Smithfield, with the front looking towards Giltspur street, which avenue it was the first show. The front was entirely covered with painted show-cloths representing the animals, with the proprietor's name in immense letters above, and the inscription "The Conquering Show" very conspicuously displayed. There were other show-cloths along the whole length of the side, surmounted by this inscription, stretching out in one line of large capitals: "Nero and Wallace, the same lions that fought at Warwick." One of the front show-cloths represented the second fight; a lion stood up, with a bleeding dog in his mouth, and his left fore-paw resting on another dog. A third dog was in the act of falling before a ferocious, and one, wounded and bleeding, was retreating. There were seven other show-cloths on this front, with the inscription "Nero and Wallace" between them. One of these show-cloths, whereon the monarch of the forest was painted, was inscribed: "Nero, the great lion from Caffraria."

Wombwell's collection comprised at this time four lions and a lioness, two leopardesses with cubs, a hyena, a bitch-wolf and cubs, a polar bear, a pair of zebras, two onagers or wild asses, and a large assortment of monkeys and exotic birds. The bills announced as remarkably fine tigress for the same den with a noble British lion;" but Hone notes that this conjunction, the announcement of which was probably suggested by the attractiveness of the lion-tiger cubs and their parents in Atkins' Menagerie, was not to be seen in reality. The combats at Warwick produced a strong desire on the part of the public to see the lions who had fought in them, and the menagerie was crowded each day from noon till night. "Manchester Jack" entered Nero's cage, and invited the visitors to follow, which many ventured to do, paying sixpence for the privilege, on his assurance that they might do so with perfect safety.

Considerable excitement was created among the visitors to Bartholomew Fair in 1828 by the announcement that one Wombwell had exhibited "that most wonderful animal, the bonassus, being the first of the kind which had ever been brought to Europe." As no one had ever seen or heard of the animal before, or had the faintest conception of what it was, the curious flocked in crowds to see the beast, which proved to be a very small bison, or American buffalo. Under the name given to it by Wombwell, it was introduced into the epilogue of the Westminster play as one of the wonders of the year. It was afterwards sold by Wombwell to the Zoological Society, and placed inclined when in the Regent's Park; but it had been enfeebled by confinement and disease, and it died soon afterwards. The Hudson's Bay Company subsequently supplied its place by presenting the society with a young cow.

Miss Chapman, who had the honor of appearing before the royal family at Windsor Castle, had not been long before the public when a third "lion queen" appeared in Wombwell's Menagerie in the person of Helen Blight, the daughter of a musician in the band. The career of this poor girl was as brief as its termination was shocking. She was performing with the animals at Greenwich Fair, when a tiger exhibited some waywardness or viciousness, which she very imprudently struck it with the riding-whip which she carried. With a terrible roar the infuriated beast sprang upon her, seized her by the throat, and killed her before she could be rescued. This melancholy affair led to the prohibition of such performances by women; but the leading menageries have continued to have "lion kings" attached to them to the present day.

It was in 1839 that the war against the shows was renewed by the authorities of the city of London, who doubled the charges hitherto made for space in Smithfield; Wombwell, for instance, having his rent raised from forty to eighty pounds; Clarke's from twenty-five to fifty; and others in the same proportion.

At Bartholomew Fair, in 1840, Wombwell's was the only show of any consequence. His collection had at this time grown to be not only the largest and best traveling, but equal, and in some respects superior, to any in the world. He had twelve lions, besides lioness cubs, and eight tigers, a tigress and cubs, in addition to a puma, a jaguar, a black tiger, several leopards, an ocelot, a serval, and a pair of genets. There were also striped and spotted hyenas, wolves, jackals, coati-mondies, racoons, a polar bear, a sloth bear, black and brown bears, a honey bear, and a couple of porcupines. The bonassus was still maintained by three elephants, a fine one-horned rhinoceros, a pair of gnus, a white antelope, a Brahmin cow, an axis deer, and three giraffes, which had lately been brought from Abyssinia by M. Riboulet, a French traveler, and were the first of their kind ever exhibited in the fair. A startling event occurred at Croyden Fair in 1841. One of Wombwell's elephants escaped from confinement, and at the early hour of three in the morning was seen, to the amazement and alarm of old Winter the watchman, walking in a leisurely manner down High street. He was in the habit of being taken every morning by his keeper to bathe in Scarbrook pond, a small piece of water situated by a lane connecting the modern and now principal portion of the town with the Old Town; and on such occasions he was regaled with a bun at a confectioner's shop at the corner which he had to turn out of High street, near the Green Dragon. While a constable ran to the George the Fourth, where some of Wombwell's employés were known to be located, the elephant reached the confectioner's shop, and, finding it closed, butted the shutters with his enormous head, and, amidst a crash of wood and glass, proceeded to help himself to the delicacies inside. On the arrival of his keeper, the docile beast submitted himself to his guidance, and was led back to his stable; but Wombwell had to pay the confectioner seven or eight pounds for the damage done to the shop window and shutters.

Wombwell died Nov. 17, 1850, in his living-carriage at Richmond, at the age of seventy-three. He was buried in Highgate Cemetery, his coffin being made of oak from the timbers of the Royal George, which sank off Spithead in 1782. As his executors were instructed by his will to have no nails used in its construction, it was put together on the dove-tailing system. The menagerie was divided, in accordance with his will, into three parts, which were bequeathed respectively to his widow, a niece named Edmunds, and another relative named Day.

Mrs. Wombwell retired from the menagerie business in 1866, and was succeeded in the proprietorship by Fairgrieve, who had married her niece. Fairgrieve retired from the occupation in the Spring of 1872, when his fine collection of animals was sold by auction at Edinburgh. As the public sale of a menagerie is a rare event, and Mr. Jamrach and Mr. Rice do not publish prices current, the reader may be glad to learn the prices realized.

The first lot was a racoon, "a very pleasant, playful pet," the auctioneer said, which was knocked down to the Earl of Roseberry for one pound. Mr. Bell Lamond, another private collector, became the possessor of a pair of agoutis, which he was assured were "sharp, active little animals, and could sing like canaries," for an equally moderate sum. Then came a strange-looking and ferocious animal, called the Tasmanian Devil, of which there is a specimen in the gardens of the Zoological Society, and which the auctioneer assured his hearers was as strong in the jaw as a hyena, but not to be recommended for purchase as a domestic pet. Bids were slow, and even the prospect of purchasing the Devil for three pounds did not render buyers enthusiastic; so that Mrs. Day bought the animal for five shillings more.

Then came the baboons and monkeys. The Diana monkey, a white and rose breasted little animal, was purchased by Dr. Mackendrick, for seven pounds; while the Capuchin monkey, full of intelligence, and belonging to a kind fancied by Italian organ-grinders, was knocked down to Mr. Rice for thirty shillings. Mr. Jamrach purchased the drill, "a playful little drawing-room pet, worth twenty pounds to put on the kitchen shelf to look at," for five guineas, and Mr. Rice paid thirty pounds for a male mandrill, five for a female of the same species, eighteen guineas for a pair of Anubis baboons, and fifteen pounds for five dog-faced baboons.

Passing on to the bird-carriage, the first specimen submitted to competition was the black vulture, one of the largest birds of the species, and in excellent plumage. Mr. Rice bought this bird for three pounds ten shillings, and the condor, which had been forty years in the show, for fifteen pounds. Next came the emu, "a very suitable bird for a gentleman's park, and a nice show thing for the ladies in the morning, after breakfast," which Mrs. Day secured for her collection at seven pounds. Mr. Jamrach gave thirteen pounds for a pair of pelicans, bought at the sale of the Knowsley collection, and which had been trained to run races. The fine collection of parrots, macaws, and cockatoos was dispensed among a number of local fanciers of ornithological beauties.

Proceeding to the larger mammals, the auctioneer knocked down a male nylghau to Mr. Van Amburgh, the great American menagerist, for twenty-six pounds, and a female of the same species to the proprietor of the Manchester Zoological Gardens for ten guineas; while Mr. Jamrach secured a llama for fifteen pounds, and Mr. Rice a young kangaroo for twelve pounds. Professor Edwards, who had come over from Paris to pick up a few good specimens for the Jardin des Plantes, purchased the white bear, "young, healthy, and lively as a trout," for forty pounds, and a jackal for three pounds. A Thibet bear and three performing leopards were knocked down to Mr. Jamrach for five guineas and sixty pounds, respectively. Another leopard, advanced in years, realized only six guineas. Mr. Van Amburgh secured the spotted hyena for fifteen pounds; while a performing striped hyena brought only five shillings above three pounds. Among objects of minor interest, a pair of wolves sold for two guineas, an ocelot for six pounds ten shillings, three porcupines for ten pounds more, a wombat for seven pounds, a Malabar squirrel for five pounds, and a pair of boa-constrictors for twelve pounds.

The large carnivora excited much attention, and fair prices were realized, though in some instances they were less than was expected. Mr. Rice gave a hundred and eighty-five pounds for the famous lion with which Signor Lorenzo used to represent the well-known story of Androcles, two other lions for a hundred and forty pounds each, two young ones for ninety pounds each, and a lioness for eighty pounds. A black-maned lion, said to be the largest and handsomest lion in Britain, was sold to Mr. Jackson, for the Bristol Zoological Gardens, for two hundred and seventy pounds; and his mate, in the interesting condition of approaching maternity, to Mr. Jennison of the Bellevue Gardens, Manchester, for a hundred guineas. Mr. Jamrach gave two hundred pounds for a fine lion, and a hundred and fifty-five pounds for the magnificent tigress that used to figure conspicuously in the performances of Signor Lorenzo.

Mr. Rice, who was the largest purchaser, bought the gnu for eighty-five pounds, and the zebra for fifty pounds. The camels and dromedaries, bought principally for traveling menageries, realized from fourteen to thirty pounds each, with the exception of a young one, bought by Dr. Mackendrick for nine pounds ten shillings. Menagerists restrict the word camel to the two-humped or Bactrian species, and call the one-humped kind dromedaries; but the dromedary, according to naturalists, is a small variety of the Syrian camel, bearing the same relation to the latter as a pony does to a horse. The dromedaries of Mr. Fairgrieve's collection were, on the contrary, taller than the Bactrian camels.

There was a spirited competition for the two elephants, ending in the magnificent full-tasked male, seven feet six inches in height, being knocked down to Mr. Jennison for six hundred and eighty pounds, and the female, famous for her musical performances, to Mr. Price for a hundred and forty-nine pounds. The latter animal was described as the largest and cleverest performing elephant ever exhibited. In stature he is exceeded, it is said, by the elephant kept by the Emperor of Russia at the gardens of Tsarski-Seloe; but, while the performances of that beast have been confined to the occasional killing of a keeper, the animal now in the Bellevue Gardens at Manchester, besides performing many tricks eviacing great docility and intelligence, was accustomed to draw the band-carriage, would pull a loaded wagon up a hill, and had for the last eighteen months preceding the sale placed all the vans of the menagerie in position, with the assistance of a couple of men. The entire proceeds of the sale were a little under three thousand pounds.

THE HAZARD OF THE DIE.

COMPILED FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER.

A few years before the dreadful insurrection of the negroes of St. Domingo, that beautiful French colony was at the height of its grandeur and prosperity; and its cultivation and industry had been the means of introducing into it more gold than the mines of South America had ever furnished the avaricious Spaniards with. This precious metal, indeed, circulated there with the greatest activity; and with it luxury and extravagance, as usual, kept pace in every kind of pleasurable enjoyment. Nor is this to be wondered at. Under the burning atmosphere of the tropics, the passions, naturally quick, become ardent, and even volcanic; while riches, which in great measure gives rise to them, offers every means of gratifying them.

At the period to which we allude—namely, 1783—the most predominating passion of the wealthy inhabitants of St. Domingo was the baneful and pestilent one of gaming. Still, the games of mere fashion, in which address and skill neutralize in some degree the chances of fortune, were not sufficient for the grasping inquietude and covetous ideas of its votaries. They looked forward to those games in which the fascinating expectations of gaining a large sum by a few throws of the dice were most likely to be realized, and a fortune made or lost in the course of a few hours. So far, indeed, was this thirst for gaming carried, that it was no uncommon occurrence to see houses and estates, with the complement of negroes belonging to them, depending upon the throw of the dice. They (the dice) were placed upon the table by dozens, when the player picked out "three" and commenced his acts of desperation, submitting himself to the power of fate.

In the year 1783, one Captain St. Every, the son of a very rich sugar-proprietor, was about twenty-six years of age, and, although possessed of an immense fortune, had embraced the profession of arms, and was serving in a regiment at Port au Prince. In the management of this young officer's affairs was quite without a rival, and brave even to temerity. Still he took nothing like unfair advantage of his dexterity; and, when engaged in a conflict, he generally contrived slightly to wound his opponent. In this he was lucky even to insolence, although he had been frequently dangerously wounded; and in his numerous duels he left many traces of blood in the society of St. Domingo. He possessed many amiable qualities, although he was more feared, than loved for his upright conduct and prepossessing manners, which could not fail to make amends for the impetuosity of his character, his propensity for dueling, and his attachment to gaming—for it is, unfortunately, necessary to add that he was a gamester.

One evening, in a house of public resort for gaming in Port au Prince, a few of the inhabitants were seated around a table, waiting until a sufficient number of persons arrived to enable them to commence play. At length one of them called out:

"Who will play?"

"I will play," said the captain of a French frigate, who happened to be at that time in the town; and, taking the box, he threw the dice to win or lose, as he thought, the amount of a small sum of money which was put upon the table. Of course, he was ignorant of the game—at all events, of the stake about to be played for.

"Monsieur le Commandant," said Count St. Every, "you have won. Take up your winnings."

At the same time he pushed towards him several bags of gold. At the appearance of their contents, the captain shrank back with astonishment, supposing he had only run the risk of winning or losing the small sum he saw on the table, which did not exceed a few crown pieces (probably counters). Gently pushing from him the bags, he addressed the party thus:

"Gentlemen, I should be wanting not only in good manners, but in common honesty, if I were to appropriate these sums, the winning of which never was the least degree contemplated, having, as I thought, only played for the trifling sum I saw lying on the table. I cannot, therefore, look upon this enormous quantity of gold as properly my right."

"Sir," said Captain St. Every, "you must take it; for, if you had lost, you would have been obliged to pay the same sum."

"You are mistaken, sir," replied the naval captain, "if you think so. I do not consider my honor endangered in refusing to pay a debt which I never contracted, nor in refusing to accept of so large a sum, which I never entertained an idea of winning."

"Monsieur le Commandant," rejoined Captain St. Every, and elevating his voice to the highest pitch, "if you had lost, you should have paid—I would have made you."

There was in this language, and in the tone in which the words were delivered, an evident desire of provocation, which could not escape the notice of the naval captain, and he answered it in a similar manner. The result was a challenge, which the exertions of the bystanders were not able to prevent.

"Sir," said Captain St. Every to his adversary, "I do not wish to take any advantage over you which my known ability in the use of the sword and pistol gives me, and I will offer you terms of equality. Let a pistol be brought here instantly, and the chance of the die shall determine which of the two shall blow out the other's brains."

"Accepted!" cried the captain of the frigate.

A feeling of horror agitated the whole of the company present. Several persons left the room, trembling for the consequence, and resolved not to be witnesses of the bloody conflict; whilst others, more hardened in their natures, and excited by a brutal curiosity, approached nearer to the combatants, who were sitting exactly opposite each other, separated only by a table four feet in width. Whilst a third person was loading the pistol, the silence of death pervaded the assembly, and the calm was only interrupted by some words which passed between the adversaries, but which were not of an aggravating nature; for it was observed that they alone preserved a coolness of temper in these fearful moments. When the pistol was charged, each of the parties minutely examined it, and, finding it in proper order, placed it on the table on which the dice were lying in two heaps. Each drew out three, and it was decided that the naval captain should have the first throw. He took up the box with a firm hand, and, putting into it the instruments which were to award him either life or death, he shook them and threw eleven.

"That is a good throw, Commandant," said St. Every, suspending for a minute his own throw. "The chance is in your favor, but listen to me. If it turns out, as it appears to me it will, that fortune has favored you, I beg you will have neither mercy nor pity upon me; for, rest assured, you shall have none from me. Moreover, I should consider either as a coward that would think of sparing the other."

"Sir," uttered the Commandant, "I do not stand in need of your impertinent remonstrances to teach me how to act in this or any other affair."

St. Every picked up the box, and, having put into it the dice, threw them. They numbered fifteen.

The company present were now horror-stricken. Monsieur le Commandant calmly rose from his seat, and, presenting to his antagonist, or rather to his enemy, the firm attitude of a brave man, was thus addressed by him:

"Your life belongs to me, sir," throwing down the dice on the table, and taking the pistol in his hand. "Recommend your soul to God."

"Fire, sir!" said the Commandant, placing his hand on his heart. "An honest man is always ready——"

He was not allowed to finish the sentence. St. Every's ball scattered his brains about the room, and also upon the persons of several of those who were present.

THEATRICAL CRITICISM IN CHINA.

They have a summary way of admonishing their public performers in China. Imagine the effect of such a scene as the annexed, beheld by Mr. Crawford in Cochin China. What would our star actors say to such a mode of stimulating their talents?

"While we were entering the court-yard of the minister's house, we saw a company of comedians who had been exhibiting. It seems that they were not perfect in their parts, or at least that their performance did not satisfy the taste of the great man who superintended their efforts. They were, accordingly, undergoing the invariable penance for all breaches of moral, social and political obligation, for all errors of omission or commission—that is to say, the bamboo. The first object that caught our attention was the hero of the piece, lying prone on the ground and receiving punishment in his full dramatic costume. The interior characters in due course received their share also, as was afterward ascertained from hearing their cries while we sat with the minister."

Only imagine Brutus undergoing the bamboo for not knowing his part; Macbeth compelled to say "Hold, enough!" on account of the false reading of the passage "If 'twere done when 'tis done;" and Hamlet suffering beneath the "whips and scorns" of a theatrical boatswain for not minding his own advice to the players.

HIGHLAND PUGILISM.

An English prize-fighter had challenged and insulted the regiment, and the Highland officers wanted to pit Jan Moor against him. A bet was accordingly laid upon his head, and one of his officers sent for him, saying:

"You are to be my Jan, and I think it will be no hard thing—for you shouldered the six pounder—to whip this boasting puck-pudding."

"Truth, no," said Jan, shaking his head. "Ta puck-pudden do me na ill; fal for wop she be fighten her? Truth, her honor may e'en fight ta mon herself. For her nanesell will na be doing na siccan a thing."

"Tut, nonsense, man!" said the officer. "You must fight him—aye, and lick him, too—and you shall not only carry off the honor, but you shall have a handsome purse of money for doing so."

"Na, na," said Jan. "Ta man na done her na ill, ava, an she'll no be fighten for onybody's siller but King Shorge's."

"Surely, you are not afraid of him?" said the officer.

"Hout, na," replied Jan Moor, with a calm and good-humored smile. "She na be feart for na man living."

By a stratagem, and taking advantage of the kindness of his heart, Jan was brought to face the bully.

"Come away, Goliah!"

"Come on!" cried the Englishman, tossing his hat into the air and his coat to one side.

Jan minded not, but the growing and intolerable insolence of the bully did the rest; for, presuming on Jan's backwardness, he strode up to him, with his arms akimbo, and spat in his face.

"Fat is she do?" asked Jan simply of those around him.

"He has done it to make people believe that you are a coward, and afraid to fight him," said the Highland officer who had backed him.

"Tell her not to do tat again," said Jan seriously.

"There!" said the other, repeating the insult.

Without showing the smallest loss of temper, Jan made an effort to lay hold of his opponent, but the Englishman squared at him and hit him several small blows in succession, not one of which the unpracticed Highlander had the least idea of guarding.

"Is!" exclaimed the Highland officer. "I fear you will be beaten."

"Foo!" cried Jan coolly. "She be strikin her, to be sure, but she be na hurtin' her. But an she dinna giv owre, an' her nanesell gets one stroke at her, she'll warrant she'll na seek na mair."

The Englishman gave two or three more hard hits, which went as much to waste as if they had gone against an oaken door; but at last Jan raised his arm, and swept it around horizontally, with a force that broke through all his antagonist's guards; and the blow, striking his left cheek as if it had come from a sledge-hammer, actually drove the bones of the jaw through the opposite skin, at the same time breaking the skin of both nostrils. The man fell like a log, dead on the spot, and horror and astonishment seized the spectators.

"Och hone! och hone!" running to lift him from the ground in an agony of distress, "She's dostin—she kilt ta poor mon!"

Jan fell into remorse and despair at this catastrophe; and to mitigate his unavailing sorrow he obtained his discharge, and returned to Rosshire.

THE SPIRITS OF THE WIND.

Where is your home, ye wanderers free?
In what far land, across what sea?
Live ye in some wide-roaming rude,
Some unexplored solitude?

Or dwell ye where no sound is heard,
No voice of man, or beast, or bird?
Had ye your strange, mysterious birth
Beyond the narrow bound of earth?—

Where ye might mingle with the flight
Of spirits in the world of light—
Bright messengers that sometimes come
From that dear land, the blessed home.

All haunts are yours, all forms, all shades,
O'er moorland brown, or woodland glades;
Now toying gently with the flower,
Then rushing on with fiercest power.

Ye ring a melancholy chime,
In the sad, pensive Autumn-time,
O'er fading flowers that once were bright,
In the resplendent Summer's light.

And o'er the leaves with rustling sound,
Drifting so gently on the ground,
Singing o'er withered heaps as sad sere,
A dirge for the departing year.

In softened light of Summer-eve,
A gentle touch ye often leave,
Upon the weary brow of pain,
That oft it ne'er may lift again.

Round mansion hoar and gray with eld,
Your carnival is often held,
With hollow shriek or fearful moan,
Anon with sad mysterious groan.

Ye rush across the restless sea,
In all your wild, untrammeled glee;
And stately ship and pennon fair
Lie buried by your fury, there.

Howe'er ye come, where'er ye go,
Through joyous scenes or haunts of woe,
Ye ever do His bidding still—
Our great Creator's sovereign will.

Sun Telegraphy.

Recently in London, Eng., a paper was read by Mr. Samuel Goode at the Royal United Service Institution (Admiral Sir H. J. Codrington, K. C. B., in the chair), on Mance's Heliograph, a newly-invented instrument for telegraphing by means of reflected sunlight. It appears that a plane mirror as large as the ball of the hand can, if rightly inclined when the sun is shining, be seen by one of the fixes of, while the reflected from a mirror of eight inches in diameter is as clear and prominent as a star even at 100 miles. Taking advantage of this phenomenon, Mr. Mance has mounted a mirror in such a manner as to admit of its flash being directed truly to any position, however distant; and, the motion of the instrument being quick, or accontrolling its duration as to exhibit to the distant observer a succession of long and short flashes representing the letters of the alphabet, in the same manner as do the dashes and dots of the Morse code. Hence, when the sun is shining, or at night when the moon or an artificial light is used, the heliograph has the power of transmitting messages at a rapid rate to every point of the compass between which and its own position there is no intervening obstacle.

Mr. Goode's paper was intended chiefly to show the important uses to which such an instrument could be put in military operations. At the siege of Metz, he said, it would have been for Marshal Bazaine to have kept up by its means communication with the French armies in the field, over the heads of the besiegers, and thus to have prevented the disaster of Sedan. During the siege of Paris, had it been brought to bear, it would have had one great advantage over pigeons and balloons, viz., that messages could have been flashed into the city as easily as out of it. The important issues that might attach to the heliograph in case of another mutiny in India, when telegraphs and railways would, of course, be destroyed, were forcibly dwelt upon. They are so obvious that, as might be expected, the military authorities are thoroughly alive to them, and have given the instrument their warmest recognition. But to whatever extent the heliograph may be employed in military operations, it is as a substitute for telegraphic communication in the ordinary affairs of life that it will be most appreciated. In many tropical countries, where the first cost and preservation of wires would be unremunerative, the heliograph is calculated to afford to the inhabitants most of the advantages of an electric telegraph, both as a means of internal communication and to join them to distant commercial centres. It is not many years since the most civilized countries had to depend entirely on visual telegraphy, and when semaphores were in universal use and esteem. The heliograph is infinitely superior to the semaphore, and in tropical countries its capabilities falls little short of an electric wire. As a further illustration of its every-day use, the lecturer pointed out that, by means of instruments in the country-house, communication could be kept up with any other residence or part of the grounds within the range of vision, and that the heliograph has been so far adapted to the wants of travelers, that a complete apparatus for communication up to twenty miles is provided for them in a compassbox 4-in. diameter and 1½ in. deep, weighing about 2lb.

FIRE-ENGINE THROWING.

Appended is a communication from a gentleman connected with the St. Louis (Mo.) Fire Department relative to the best throwing done by a steam fire-engine, wherein he makes some pertinent inquiries and statements worthy of consideration by those interested. Perhaps some of the Crescent City firemen can throw some light upon the matter. If so, we shall be pleased to hear from them:

ST. LOUIS, MO., July 5, 1875.

FRANK QUEEN, Esq.—DEAR SIR.—On several different occasions have I noticed that, in reply to the question "What steam fire-engine has thrown the farthest stream?" you give the distance as 320ft. 7in., and the engine one in New Orleans. It is not my intention to add to the merits of one particular stake of engine, or detract from its merits of others; but to present a few facts to your many readers, and let them draw their own conclusions. The Silsby engine was never designed as a pioneer or pack engine, and, as has always been the case in departments of that kind, there is a great rivalry existing as to which company runs the best machine. This will account to a certain extent for the record being changed so often in that city. The larger number of the engines there are of the Amoskeag pattern, made in Manchester, N. H., and one or two of the Jeffries pattern. Now, what has always been a great conundrum to those interested in such things is this: If that class and make of engines can make such wonderful throws in one city, why cannot they do so in other cities or towns? I should like for someone to answer. In the great fire in Chicago, Ill., engines from Cincinnati worked side by side with the Amoskeag machines, where the superiority of the former was fully demonstrated. I could relate the circumstance in detail, if it were not that it would require too much of your valuable space. Two years ago this Summer an engine of the third class, No. 13, was built for the city by Messrs. Ahrens & Kaufman of Cincinnati, O. The Board of Fire Engineers of Chicago at that time were contemplating the purchase of new engines, and, being in the city, visited the shops. Their engineer, who brought it to St. Louis, by the way of Chicago, and while there it was pitted against three different makes, viz., Amoskeag, Button and Rotary, all of which it distanced by raising steam from cold water in much less time than either of the others did from hot water, and throwing a stream 49 feet 8 inches farther than the best throw of the others, which was done by a Amoskeag. The distance measured was from the end of the nozzle to the end of the stream. It has always been the custom in volunteer fire departments to measure from the centre of the pump on the engine to the end of the stream, thus including a section of hose fifty feet in length in the distance thrown; and if this is the way they measure in New Orleans I will accept the record, but I cannot believe that any engine can throw 320ft. 7in. in one city, and only average 300. in all others. And not until the test is accomplished elsewhere than in New Orleans, by the same make of engines, will anyone believe that the throw of the old "Citizens' Gift" of Cincinnati has ever been beaten by an engine in Louisiana. Yours,

JUSTICE.

THE AMERICAN EXPRESS Employees' Association are to hold their annual Summer night's festival at Jones' Wood Colosseum, foot of Sixty-sixth street, East River, on Friday evening, July 16.

CUPID'S FOIBLES, FOLLIES AND FANCIES.

WOMAN'S WILES.

The smiles that linger'd on thy cheek
Invited me to woo,
Till scorn arose my tongue to still,
And ev'ry hope subdue.
So have I seen the snow-bound Alp,
That scar'd in airy boldness,
Reflect the timid beam it bore,
And glitter but in coldness.

Oh, why should woman's form be fair,
And woman's heart unkind,
A smile bedeck her angel face,
And scorn possess her mind?
Thus Nature grafts her blushing rose
Still on the thorny briar,
To wound the soft, enamor'd hand
She teaches to aspire.

A BOGUS NOBLEMAN'S BIGAMOUS ADVENTURES.

Before sentence was passed at the Central Criminal Court, Liverpool, Eng., on Henry Beckett Danvers Guilford, 40 years of age, convicted of fraud and sentenced to five years' penal servitude, and now pleading guilty to a charge of feloniously marrying one Catherine Susan Holmes, his wife Hannah Charlotte being alive, the Queen's counsel made the following statement: "The prisoner was married in 1862 to a Miss White, he representing himself to be a person of great means, but really being the son of a poulterer. During the first marriage he left his wife time after time. She had eleven children by him, six of whom were living. She eventually found he was paying his addresses to a young lady, and was getting property from a place where his son was apprentice, and making away with it. He carried a pistol about him, and threatened to shoot his wife if she did not give up to him the profits of her business. He was sentenced to five years' penal servitude about six years ago; and when he returned, after completing his sentence, he borrowed some furniture, upon which he raised £100 from a loan society. He then left his wife again, and she heard nothing more of him until his marriage with a Miss Holmes, a most respectable young woman, whose father kept a flower stall in Covent-garden market. The prisoner, it appeared, used to go there in a carriage and engage her in conversation, telling her he was the Earl of Guilford, and inviting her to meet him. She consented, but on the condition that her mother and sister should be present at the interview, to which he assented. At that meeting the prisoner proposed to marry her. He explained at the same time that he had two sisters, and that, for reasons of his own, his marriage must be kept a secret. She eventually consented to marry him, and on the following Monday he called on her mother and said the marriage must be by license, and on the following Tuesday. On the next Tuesday, accordingly, they were married by license at St. Paul's Church, Covent Garden, and went afterwards to the Clarence Hotel, Teddington. Meanwhile, Miss Holmes' mother had made inquiries about the husband of her daughter, the result of which went to show that the prisoner was not the Earl of Guilford. On being taxed with the deception, he excused himself by saying that, if he had not added a title to his name, she would not have married him, but that he really was Lord Danvers, with £3,000 a year, and with an estate at Elham in Norfolk. Mrs. Holmes, notwithstanding, insisted on taking her daughter home, and she did so. Nothing was seen of the prisoner for about a fortnight. At the end of that time a fortnight a letter was dated from Runcorn, in Cheshire, stating that he was dying, and begging that Miss Holmes would go there and see him. Although her mother persuaded her not to go, Miss Holmes went down to Runcorn, believing that, whatever his faults, he was at least her husband; but on her arrival on arriving at a public she met him on the station-platform as well and hearty as ever. Being very angry, she insisted on returning home; but he would not allow her, and he took her to his lodgings. There he drew up some bills of exchange, and told her a new story, to the effect that he was Henry Guilford, an American gentleman, and a colonel in the American army; and in order to assure Miss Holmes that she was really his wife, he put an advertisement into the papers announcing their marriage, and describing himself as Col. Guilford, late of the Confederate States Army. Catherine Susan Holmes stated that when the prisoner married her, he represented himself to be Lord Guilford, and that in that name he used to come to her in Covent-garden market and buy flowers."

Being asked by the Court what he had to say, if anything, for himself, the prisoner complained that a great deal of what had been said by the learned counsel was very sorry to say, was true, but none of it was capable of being controverted if he had means and opportunities. He was married at seventeen years of age, after three days' acquaintance with his wife, and his married life had wellnigh driven him to madness. He begged the Court not unduly or unnecessarily to lengthen the sentence it was about to pronounce, for his days were numbered. The sentence of seven years' penal servitude passed upon the prisoner is to commence at the expiration of his current sentence of five years' penal servitude.

AN INDIAN ATTEMPTS TO ABDUCT A MAIDEN ON HER WEDDING-DAY.

One of the main tributaries of the Little Arkansas River is called Running Turkey Creek, at the mouth of which is Jim Geary's ranche, an old and somewhat notorious stopping-place in the days when Government provisions were hauled from Fort Harker to the Indian Territory by means of bull and mule teams. Among the early settlers was a family from Ohio named Falconer, which consisted of Robert Falconer, his wife Sarah, and an only daughter, Bessie, at this time about seventeen years old. The young lady was a general favorite, and had all her life nothing happened, would have been married on last Friday evening. The time for the marriage arrived, so did the bridegroom and invited guests, but, strange, no bride appeared. Her parents, supposing she was in her room, went to the door to warn her that the time for the performance of the ceremony had arrived, when they found the room empty. It was early evening and not yet dusk, so they walked to the window to endeavor to discover the truant. Their horror may be imagined when they saw, rapidly disappearing through the timber on the creek-bank, a man carrying in his arms the form of a young girl, which, from the dress, they immediately recognized as that of their daughter. They instantly the alarm was given, and the whole party, well armed, started in pursuit. Within a few minutes they were within gunshot of the fugitive, but were unable to use their weapons in consequence of his shielding his body with the loved form of the fair maiden. The young lover was almost frantic, and in his frenzy appeared to have gained the fleetness of the antelope. Overtaking the almost breathless abductor, he seized him, and after a brief struggle wrested the girl from him, at the same time discovering that the abductor was a Cheyenne Indian who had been around the neighborhood for a year or two. At the sound of the rescue he regained his sweetheart, the savage, with an eel-like wriggle, escaped from his hold and started on a keen run down the creek. The pursuers, however, were too much for him, and one of their number brought him to the ground by means of a well-aimed bullet from a needle-gun. It was soon ascertained that the red man was only wounded in the thigh. He was then taken prisoner and lodged in a neighboring dugout, from which by some means he escaped during the night, carrying the needle-gun ball in his thigh, and has not since been heard of, although a diligent search has been made by the friends of the young lady, whose wedding has been indefinitely postponed in consequence of an attack of brain fever, the result of the fright she received.—St. Joseph (Mo.) Herald, July 1.

AN ENGLISH ROMANCE.—A correspondent of one of the New York dailies relates the following bit of romance: "Lord Blank, a little time ago, was the subject of a considerable scandal, which appears to have got abroad through a governess who resigned her position in his mansion (he was a widower), and afterwards assigned as her reason his lordship's improper intimacy with one of his domestics. But as these whispers began to circulate concerning the nobleman, whose character had been spotless, his friends received marriage cards in which his name was connected with a plain 'Miss' Somebody whom nobody had heard of. The fact had turned out to be that Lord Blank had fallen in love with his parlor maid; that for a year or more he had devoted every evening of his life to her instruction, so unconsciously giving rise to scandal; and that when the maid had learned as much as young ladies generally know (which she says was nearly as hard as to get her rights) he married her. Of course, he is the grand world in which his eccentric nobleman moved the scandal had been only an amusing surprise; but the marriage with the parlor-maid—that was shocking. However, this young dame had several characteristics to whose value people of fashion are not insensible. First, she is one of the most beautiful women in London; secondly, she has a refined simplicity of manner; and, thirdly, she has a taste in dress which has already gained her a certain fame among artists. In short, the parlor-maid turns out to have all the honors in her hand, and now, even among those of the class to which her lord has introduced her, there is no more general favorite, as certainly there are none more piquant fortunate stable of Mr. McGrath caused her partisans to look upon her as a sure winner, the Kentucky division putting down the money on her so heavily that it must have made a serious inroad into their Searcher and Aaron Pennington winnings. Firework was made second choice, the betting men unaccountably overlooking the fact that Mr. Sanford's filly had been decisively beaten by Capt. Cottrill's Ascension in the Maryland Stakes, at Jerome Park, where the latter ran second to the flying Olitipa. Ascension was taken for third choice, the stable not being very sanguine, because the filly is a delicate one to train, and had not been feeding well since her arrival at Monmouth Park. Pools sold as under:

Katie Pearce	$700	$1,100	$500
Firework	120	235	90
Ascension	105	190	85
Gyptis	65	140	120
Scramble	40	65	40

Ascension jumped off with the lead directly the drum was tapped, followed by Firework, Gyptis, Katie Pearce and Scramble. Going around the turn, Gyptis got on even terms with Ascension; Firework running abreast, with Katie Pearce three lengths behind them. Passing the stand on the first half mile, Gyptis headed Ascension, and the favorite passed Firework, with Scramble bringing up the rear. They ran thus without change of position past the quarter, along the backstretch, and around the lower turn, where Firework drew clear of Katie Pearce, and gained rapidly on the leading pair, of which Ascension was in front. After entering the homestretch, Firework went to the front, and looked so like a winner that the backers of Mr. Sanford's filly shouted in anticipation of victory. But, the moment Lakeland called upon Ascension, she shot out, and, passing Firework with great ease, achieved the victory by three lengths in 2:46½; Gyptis finishing four lengths behind Firework, Katie Pearce a bad fourth, and Scramble beaten off. The winner was bred by Capt. Cottrill, and combines the Australian and Lexington blood; her dam, Lilly Ward, being by the latter sire out of Laura, a daughter of Leviathan. She did not run as a two-year-old, but this Spring she won the Fortuna Stakes at New Orleans; was unplaced in the Kentucky Derby, won by Aristides; was second in both heats to Camargo in the Falls City Stakes, mile heats, he winning the first by a head in 1:42¾, and the second by half a length in 1:43¾; was unplaced to Aristides in the Withers Stakes, and ran second to Olitipa in the Maryland Stakes. She is engaged in the West End Hotel Stakes at this meeting on Thursday next.

WINNERS OF THE MONMOUTH OAKS.

Year.	Winner.	Sire.	Starters.	Time.
1871.	Salina	Lexington	8	2:43¼
1872.	Woodbine	Censor or Kentucky.	8	2:42
1873.	Lizzie Lucas	Australian	9	2:45
1874.	Regardless	Eclipse	6	2:45
1875.	Ascension	Australian	5	2:46½

THE MANSION-HOUSE STAKES,

a dash of two miles and a half, for four-year-olds, $50 each, p. p., with $1,000 added, had four runners out of the eighteen nominations. These were Langstaff's Countess, Cottrill's Stampede, Chamberlin's The Hoaxer, and Puryear's Grinstead and Rutherford. The last-mentioned entry had the call in the pools, which sold at the following rates:

Puryear	$1,200	$1,300	$1,000
Stampede	225	370	325
Countess	180	240	180
The Hoaxer	45	60	40

Countess was first off, but soon gave way to Stampede, who made the running, and led a couple of lengths past the stand, with Rutherford, who was running to assist his stable-companion, second, six lengths before Countess, and Grinstead waiting in the rear. The next mile was run in this order, but at the club-house turn Stampede's lead was reduced to a length, Countess still third. At the half-mile pole Stampede again drew two lengths clear of Rutherford, who had Grinstead at his quarters. On the lower turn Stampede gave way, and both Rutherford and Grinstead passed him. The race was now apparently left to these two, and their riders took a pull on them; Grinstead, on sufferance, taking the lead from Rutherford opposite the pool-stand. At this moment Lakeland brought up the seemingly beaten Stampede with a tremendous rush, and it was all that Barbee on Grinstead and Donohue on Rutherford could do to stall off his challenge by setting their horses going again. As it was, Grinstead won by only a head in 4:40½, Rutherford beating Stampede by the same; Countess was fourth, and The Hoaxer beaten off.

WINNERS OF THE MANSION-HOUSE STAKES.

Year.	Winner.	Sire.	Weight.	Subs. tors.	Starters.	Time.
1871.	Ecliptic	Imp. Eclipse	105	12	4	3:37 3:41¾
1872.	*Monarchist	Lexington	108	13	2	4:47¾
1873.	Mate	Imp. Australian	108	12	2	4:37¾
1874.	Tom Bowling	Lexington	108	21	3	4:33
1875.	Grinstead	Gilroy	108	18	5	4:40¾

* After 1871, changed from two miles to two and a half.

THE HURDLE RACE—

for a purse of $400, of which $75 went to the second and $25 to the third, welter weights, over two miles and eight hurdles—had five runners—Hannigan's Vesuvius, 151lb; Torrence's Trouble, 150lb; Donahue's Deadhead, 148lb; Bannatyne's Stockwood, 154lb, and Ayre's & Sutcliffe's Diavolo, 151lb. They sold in pools as under:

Trouble	$1,000	$520	$800
Diavolo	710	310	450
Deadhead	115	70	105
Stockwood	145	80	55
Vesuvius	50	30	30

Vesuvius was first to show prominently in front, after jumping the first hurdle at the upper end of the stand; but Deadhead then passed him, and he led over the two next hurdles. Trouble now closed, and, passing Vesuvius, got on even terms with Deadhead, both jumping the fourth, fifth and sixth hurdles side by side. A splendid finish resulted in Trouble winning the race by a neck from Deadhead, who beat Diavolo by four lengths, Vesuvius next, and Stockwood last. Time, 4:00¾.

FOURTH DAY—THURSDAY, JULY 8.

Cool, pleasant weather, a fair attendance, and a good programme of sport were, the features of the fourth and last day of the first meeting.

THE JULY STAKES,

for two-year-olds—a dash of three-quarters of a mile, $50 each, p. p., with $500 added—had nine starters. There were twenty-four entries, making the stake worth $1,700, out of which the second horse was entitled to $100, and the third to $50. Only four came to the post—Lorillard's Parole, Belmont's Freebooter, McGrath's Bryan, and Grinstead's Knapsack. Parole, who was reported to have beaten Faithless at home in trials at three-quarters of a mile and a mile, was made the favorite, pools selling as under:

Parole	$360	$400	$480	$570
Freebooter	190	230	220	300
Knapsack	65	150	125	100
Bryan	55	50	55	60

Capt. Coster acted as starter, and when the drum was tapped Parole got a couple of lengths the best of the send-off; the other three horses being lapped on one another. On the backstretch, Knapsack ran alongside Parole, the latter being half a length in front as the half-mile pole was passed, Freebooter being third. On the lower turn Freebooter ran past Knapsack, and took sides with Parole; but, swerving as they raced together up the straight, Parole drew clear of him, and won the race by three lengths in 1:17¼; Bryan a bad third, and Knapsack, who bolted across the track, last. The time was the fastest by one second the race has ever been run in.

WINNERS OF THE JULY STAKES.

Winner.	Sire.	Subs. Starters.	Time.
1871. McDaniel & Co.'s Hubbard ch. c.	Planet	13	1:22
1872. Belmont's Medora	Kentucky	22	1:18¾
1873. Belmont's King Amadeus (imp.)	King of Trumps	25	1:18¾
1874. McGrath's Calvin	Tipperary	21	1:18¾
1875. Lorillard's Parole	Leamington	24	1:17¾

THE FOUR-MILE DASH,

for a purse of $1,000, had four runners—Puryear's Rutherford, Littell's Wildidle, Lewis & Co.'s Bessie Lee, and Robinson, Morgan & Co.'s Big Fellow. The Kentucky division plunged heavily on Big Fellow, who sold as under:

Big Fellow	$1,000	$400	$650	$550
Rutherford	825	400	650	535
Wildidle	800	370	500	510
Bessie Lee	220	125	150	130

The four got off well together; Bessie Lee, ridden by Gilpatrick, taking the lead at the club-house, and staying there until coming up the homestretch on the first mile, where Big Fellow gave her the go-by, and led her a clear length under the string, with Wildidle at the mare's flanks. Time of the first mile, 1:54½. On the second mile, Big Fellow, who was piloted by Swim, opened a wide gap, which Wildidle reduced considerably before reaching the stand; the favorite there leading a couple of lengths, with Rutherford running easily alongside of Bessie Lee. The two miles were run in 3:46¾. The third mile (3:37¾) was run in the same order, except that Bessie Lee was steadily falling back, hopelessly beaten. Entering the fourth and last mile, it was plain that the race was between Rutherford and Wildidle; for, although Big Fellow was still leading, his action was short and laboring, and he merely held his front place on sufferance. Without any change they ran the first quarter of the last mile, but then Barbee on Wildidle and Donohue on Rutherford cut loose, and, both passing Big Fellow in succession, the struggle commenced. But Wildidle could not gain a yard on Rutherford, who, galloping steadily and strongly along, won the race by four lengths in 7:34¾; Wildidle half a length before Big Fellow, and Bessie Lee an eighth of a mile behind them.

DASH OF A MILE AND AN EIGHTH, for a purse of $400, had six runners out of the eight horses entered—Donahue's Spindrift, Coffee's B. F. Carver, Jennings' Verdigris, Pryor's Monmouth, Robinson, Morgan & Co.'s Bob Woolly, and Hitchcock's Galway. Pools sold as under:

Monmouth	$500	$370	$620
Verdigris	140	200	200
Bob Woolley	100	225	300
Spindrift	100	130	100
B. F. Carver	40	75	40
Galway	35	75	70

A good start was effected, Galway rushing to the front, but only to be passed by all the other horses before they went under the string, where Bob Woolley was a length ahead, followed by Verdigris, Monmouth, Carver, and Spindrift. Bob Woolley held his advantage until reaching the three-quarter pole, his where Carver and Spindrift both headed him; the latter, after a brief struggle, beating Coffee's colt by three lengths in 1:59½; Bob Woolley third, Verdigris next, the favorite fifth, and Galway last.

THE MILE-AND-A-HALF DASH, for a purse of $300, for beaten horses, brought out six starters—Donohue's Scratch and Dublin, Lewis & Co.'s Vandalite, Coffee's Donnybrook, Davis' Mary Long, and Hitchcock's Century. Pools sold at the following rates:

Scratch	$500	$300	$1,100
Dublin	125	410	830
Mary Long	215	310	710
Vandalite	215	310	500
Donnybrook	200	300	180
Century	40	65	180

When the flag fell, Dublin and Mary Long went off at a great pace, with Vandalite third, and Scratch fourth. After running a mile and a quarter, the pace told on Mary Long, and she beat a retreat, Scratch taking her place. Evans waited with the latter until opposite the lower end of the stand, when he cut loose, and galloped home an easy winner by a length in 2:44; his stable-companion Dublin second, and Vandalite third.

SCOTTISH GAMES IN JERSEY.—The annual outdoor sports of the Hudson County Caledonian Association afforded enjoyment to a large number of persons at the Schutzen Park, Union Hill, N. J., on Monday, July 5. The amount of money distributed among the successful competitors aggregated $500. We give the names of those who carried off the leading prizes: Putting the heavy stone, John Anderson of Newark, 36ft. 9in. Standing jump, Andrew Rennie of New York, 9ft. 7¾in. Putting the light stone, John Anderson, 46ft. 2in. Standing high-leap, A. Tasker of New York, 4ft. 4in. Tossing the caber, John Williamson, 40ft. 9in. Throwing the light-hammer, John Anderson, 94ft. 8in. Running high-leap, John West of Brooklyn, 5ft. 8in. Short race, An-rew Rennie. Running broad-jump, McGilvray of Montreal, Canada, 19ft. Throwing the heavy hammer, John Anderson, 81ft. One-mile walk, J. Henderson of New York. Hurdle race, J. West of Brooklyn. One-mile run, J. B. Irvine. Highland fling, James Aitchison. Vaulting with pole, J. F. Duke. Hitch-and-kick, J. West. Three-legged race, J. Robinson and partner. Hop, skip and jump, D. F. Keller

BASEBALL.

MUTUAL vs. ATLANTIC.

On Monday, July 5, the Mutual and Atlantic nines played the second game of their series together on the Union Grounds, Brooklyn, in the presence of a holiday gathering of about three thousand people. The first game—which had ended with a score of 4 to 0 in favor of the Mutuals—and the numberless defeats recently sustained by the Atlantics—twenty odd—rendered the chances slim for a close game, and so there were not more than half the number present there might otherwise have been. Both clubs had out strong nines, the Atlantics presenting a team that, under proper generalship and training, would trouble the best to get away with; as it is, however, their strength is wasted, and the result is games lost which should be won. The game opened with some lively hitting, the ball being pretty hard at first, and the result was long hits with fielding errors and unearned runs scored. The crowd at first began to show their disgust at the promise of an unattractive elastic-ball game, a style of play decidedly unpopular in the metropolis. But after the ball became softer, and good fielding was more frequent, the interest in the contest increased, and after the third inning some very pretty play was shown on both sides. The Mutuals had Nelson at third, and for the first time that we have seen him play the position he fielded handsomely there, putting out no less than eleven players, ten being put out by sharp fielding assistance. This is far above the average. Hicks played finely behind the bat, and Joe was quite at home at first base. The weak point was at centre field, where Holdsworth made two damaging errors. A couple of pretty pick-ups were made by Hallinan, who is playing short field excellently; and Gerhardt did service at second base, though he is under the weather. Mathews pitched with marked effect, and batted and fielded in A No. 1 style. On the part of the Atlantics, Clinton's good first-base play was noteworthy. He is a very useful player, good in any position, and always working hard to win. He and Nichols made a beautiful double-play in the eighth inning, the latter making some grand catches. Moore proves to be quite an acquisition, and Fleet strengthens the team at second base. The game was well umpired by Morton Malone.

ATLANTIC.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.	MUTUAL.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.
Fleet, 2d b	0	2	1	2	1	Holdsworth, cf	1	1	0	0	2
Cassidy, p	0	0	1	2	1	Start, 1st b	1	1	16	0	0
Moore, s s	0	2	1	3	1	Hallinan, s s	1	1	0	2	0
Boyd, r f	0	0	0	1	2	Hicks, c	1	2	5	1	0
Nichols, 3d b	0	0	3	3	1	Gerhardt, 2d b	0	1	3	2	2
Pabor, l f	0	0	1	0	0	Nelson, 3d b	0	1	1	2	1
Knowdell, c	0	0	7	1	1	White, c	0	1	2	3	4
Clinton, 1st b	0	0	15	2	1	Manning, r f	0	0	2	1	1
McGee, c f	0	0	2	0	1	Gede, l f	0	0	1	0	0
Totals	3	6	27	14	9	Totals	5	10	27	18	6

Mutual	3	0	2	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0—5
Atlantic	0	0	1	0	0	2	0	0	0	0	0—3

Runs earned—None. First base by errors—Atlantic, 3; Mutual, 6. Umpire, Mr. Malone of the Nameless Club. Time of game, 1h. 35m.

ATHLETIC vs. BOSTON.

The Athletics of Philadelphia visited Boston last week for the purpose of playing a couple of championship games with the Bostons; the first being played July 7, in the presence of about three thousand spectators, and a better-behaved assemblage has not been witnessed this season. Both presented their strongest teams on this occasion, the Bostons, however, having an easy victory, thanks to their superior batting and daring base-running. Mr. Hodges of the Harvards was agreed upon as umpire, in consequence of Mr. Blodgett of New York City, who had been previously selected, having failed to put in an appearance. The Bostons started off with the lead; five clean hits for one base each resulting in five runs being scored, a bad miss by Eggler preventing more than one run from being earned, however. The Athletics failed to score in the first seven innings, though six clean hits had been made, and an error of McVey's had given another man a life; three men were put out by White's good throwing while trying to steal second, and three men were once left on the bases by Eggler's weak hit to George Wright. The Bostons were blanked five consecutive times after the first inning; a pretty double-play by Craver and Fisler, and the throwing-out of two men by Clapp at second, being notable instances of the fine fielding of the Athletics in these five innings. A bad error of Sutton's, followed by four single-base hits, gave the Bostons three more unearned runs after two were out in the seventh inning. The Athletics made their first three runs in the eighth inning; Bechtel leading off with a fine two-base hit, McBride following with a good hit for one base. After Eggler had been given out by the umpire on a fly-foul, Force hit a high ball to Manning, who dropped it and then threw it wildly to White in a futile effort to head off, as home, Bechtel. McBride might have made second, but he was too much occupied watching the scoring of the run, and, therefore, for want of proper coaching, was easily put out at second, White throwing the ball to Barnes. This neglectfulness cost the Athletics a run, as Fisler drove directly afterwards made a three-base hit, sending in Force and Clapp, the latter having been badly muffed by Barnes. The Bostons in the last two innings made four runs, each time after two men were out; six one-base hits being made, and each man being allowed to run the bases with perfect impunity. Safe hits by Sutton and Hall, and the wild throwing of Leonard and White, gave the Athletics another run in the last inning. The following score will give all further particulars:

ATHLETIC.	T.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.	BOSTON.	T.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.
Force, s s	..	7	1	2	3	6	G. Wright, s s	5	3	3	0	4	0
Clapp, c	..	6	1	3	3	1	Barnes, 2d b	5	2	2	7	4	2
Fisler, 1st b	..	4	0	1	5	0	Leonard, l f	5	1	2	1	0	0
Craver, 2d b	..	4	0	1	7	1	O'Rourke, c f	6	2	2	0	0	0
Sutton, 3d b	..	4	1	2	5	1	McVey, 1st b	5	1	2	10	0	1
Hall, l f	..	4	2	2	0	0	Spalding, p	5	0	1	1	6	0
Bechtel, r f	..	4	1	2	2	0	White, c	5	1	2	3	4	1
McBride, p	..	4	0	1	0	1	Manning, r f	5	0	2	1	1	1
Eggler, c f	..	4	0	1	2	0	Schafer, 3d b	5	0	1	0	2	1
Totals	..	42	5	15	27	9	Totals	..	46	12	18	27	15

Athletic	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	3	2	0	0—5
Boston	0	0	0	0	0	0	3	0	0	0	0—3

Earned runs—Boston, 4 times; Athletic, 3 times. Double plays—Craver and Fisler, 1. Umpire, Mr. Hodges of Boston. Time, 1h. 45m.

ATHLETIC vs. BOSTON.

The Athletics and Bostons had another struggle for supremacy on the ball-field, July 8, on the ground of the latter club, Boston. The weather was delightful, but the attendance exhibited a falling-off; about two thousand persons, however, being present. Both nines changed their right-fielders on this occasion, Anson playing, instead of Bechtel, for the Athletics, while Harry Wright took Manning's place with the Bostons. The spectators were orderly, and the best of feeling prevailed among the players of the two nines. Mr. Hodges, who again acted as umpire, filled the duties of that position impartially and satisfactorily. The Bostons went first to the bat, and scored a run on Barnes' and O'Rourke's one-base hits, and the former's daring base-running, assisted by Eggler's slow handling of the ball in one instance. The Athletics also made an unearned run in the first inning. After two men had been retired, a life being given Fisler by George Wright, and safe hits by Craver and Sutton sending Fisler home, Sutton sacrificed himself between the bases in a futile effort to get Craver in home from third base. In the second inning the Bostons scored the only earned run of the game, Spalding and Schafer making five-base hits, and White a heavy hit for two bases. The Athletics scored two unearned runs for their share of this inning, Hall leading off with a fine hit, and after George Wright had lost an easy chance for a double-play on Anson's hit, Force, after two men were out, made a two-base hit, sending Hall home. The Athletics afterwards failed to score, Fisler and Clapp alone making base-hits in the last seven innings; the former, however, being "doubled-up" by a line-catch by Barnes. The Bostons took the lead for the first time in the fifth inning, the bases of Craver to cover second base after McBride had stopped a weak hit losing a chance for a double-play that would have blanked them, and a safe hit by McVey after two men were out sending home two men. The Bostons still further increased their lead in the sixth inning, an error by Craver giving a couple of more runs. In the seventh inning the Bostons made another run on one-base hits by McVey and White, and the former's audacious stealing of bases. Neither nine scored in the last two innings, the Bostons winning by a score of 7 to 3, thanks to their superior batting and base-running, the fielding being about equal, although the errors of the Athletics were much more damaging.

BOSTON.	T.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.	ATHLETIC.	T.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.
G. Wright, s s	5	1	1	3	2	2	Force, s s	4	0	1	3	3	0
Barnes, 2d b	5	1	1	0	1	0	Clapp, c	4	0	1	5	1	0
O'Rourke, c f	5	0	3	2	0	0	Fisler, 1st b	4	1	1	10	0	0
McVey, 1st b	5	1	2	14	1	0	Craver, 2d b	4	0	1	1	3	2
Spalding, p	4	1	1	2	5	1	Sutton, 3d b	4	0	1	0	0	2
White, c	4	1	3	1	1	0	Hall, l f	4	1	1	1	0	0
Manning, r f	4	1	1	1	0	0	Anson, r f	4	1	0	2	1	2
Schafer, 3d b	4	1	1	0	0	1	McBride, p	4	0	0	1	0	0
H. Wright, r f	4	1	1	1	0	0	Eggler, c f	3	0	0	4	0	0
Totals	43	7	14	27	11	5	Totals	35	3	6	27	9	5

Boston	1	1	0	0	3	1	0	1	0	0	7
Athletic	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	2	0	0	3

Runs earned—Boston, 1. First base on fielding errors—Boston, 4; Athletic, 4. Double play—Barnes and McVey, 1. Umpire, Mr. Hodges of Boston. Time, 1h. 45m.

THE CHELSEA (MASS.) CLUB.

The Chelseas visited Portland, Me., July 1, and played a friendly game with the Resolutes of that place, who held the championship of Maine. The Chelseas won by their fielding.

CHELSEA.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.	RESOLUTE.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.
Piggott, 3d b	1	1	0	2	1	Knights, s s	0	0	2	5	1
Davis, c f	0	1	3	0	0	Leighton, p	0	1	0	3	1
Mutrie, s s	0	2	5	6	1	J. Barnes, l f	1	2	0	0	0
Foye, l f	1	0	0	1	1	Crocker, c f	0	1	3	1	0
Libby, 1st b	0	0	11	0	0	Ayers, 1st b	0	1	14	0	0
Swhwick, 2b	1	1	3	0	0	F. Barnes, 3b	0	2	0	3	0
Walsh, r f	1	1	0	0	0	Wilson, 2d b	0	0	3	1	1
Oxley, c	0	0	6	1	1	Crishea, r f	0	0	1	0	1
Egan, p	0	2	0	3	2	St. Johns, c	0	0	4	3	6
Totals	4	6	27	16	6	Totals	2	8	27	16	9

Chelsea	1	0	0	0	0	1	0	1	1	0	4
Resolute	0	0	0	2	0	0	0	0	0	0	2

Umpire, T. Mathews.

On the 3d inst. the Chelseas and the Mutuals of Boston met on the Lynn grounds, in a championship game, with the following result:

Chelsea	0	2	2	0	0	0	0	1	0	0—5
Mutual	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0—0

The first championship game between the Chelsea and Taunton was played on the 5th, in Taunton, in the presence of about 1,500 spectators. A correspondent says: "The game was exciting throughout, being tie on the third, fourth, seventh and eighth innings. The batting was good on both sides, that of the Chelseas completely demoralizing the noted pitcher of the Taunton, 'Waterman,' who lost his temper in the last inning, willfully throwing an overhand ball which came dangerously near the striker, who was just taking his position."

CHELSEA.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.	TAUNTON.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.
Piggott, 3d b	1	1	4	1	0	Carpenter, 2d b	2	2	2	1	0
Davis, c f	0	2	5	1	1	"Waterman," p	3	2	1	0	1
Mutrie, s s	2	3	2	0	0	Reed, c f	0	3	3	0	0
Egan, p	2	3	2	2	1	Allen, c	0	2	3	2	0
Libby, 1st b	2	1	1	4	0	Bates, s s	0	1	3	1	1
Southwick, 2d b	1	4	2	3	1	Peck, l f	0	0	4	3	0
Oxley, c	1	0	3	3	1	Sullivan, 1st b	0	0	12	1	0
Walsh, l f	1	1	2	0	0	Perry, 3d b	0	2	1	4	0
Ricker, r f	1	1	3	0	0	Holland, r f	2	2	2	0	0
Totals	9	15	27	11		Totals	7	13	27	9

Chelsea	2	0	1	0	3	0	0	0	3	—	9
Taunton	0	0	3	0	1	0	2	0	1	—	7

Total bases—Chelsea, 21; Taunton, 14. Umpire, E. L. Burwell.

WASHINGTON vs. RED SOX.

The last game played in St. Louis, Mo., between the Red Stockings of that place and the nine from the District of Columbia took place July 4, and resulted as follows:

RED SOX.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	WASHINGTON.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.
Oran, r f	0	2	0	0	Brady, 2d b	1	0	1	2
Redmon, s s	2	2	0	5	Mason, l f	1	1	2	0
Elliot, c f	0	2	1	0	Allison, 1st b	2	1	15	0
Houtz, 1st b	0	2	11	0	Parks, p	2	1	2	2
Sweasy, 2d b	1	1	4	0	Bessler, r f	1	1	3	0
Croft, l f	1	1	4	0	Dalley, s s	1	1	1	4
Morgan, p	0	0	3	2	Lawrie, c f	1	1	3	0
McSorley, 3d b	0	1	1	6	Doucher, 3d b	2	1	2	3
Flint, c	1	0	3	1	McCloskey, c	0	0	6	0
Totals	5	12	27	13	Totals	12	7	37	11

Red Sox	1	0	3	1	0	0	0	0	0	—	5
Washington	1	0	0	3	2	1	1	0	0	—	12

Runs earned—Red Sox, 1. Umpire, E. E. Culbert. Time, 1h. 40m.

UNION CLUB OF NEWARK.

Within the past ten days the above-mentioned New Jersey club has played the noteworthy games reported by scores underneath. The Alpha Club of Rossville, N. J., having played the Olympics of Paterson a close game (6 to 5) four days previously, visited the Unions on their inclosed grounds at Irvington, July 2, about 400 persons being present. The Alphas are a strong club, but they had to succumb.

ALPHA.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.	UNION.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.
Pearson, c f	0	1	0	0	0	Hand, r f	2	0	1	0	0
Rutan, r f	0	0	1	0	0	Farrell, 2d b	3	1	1	1	0
Voorhis, 1st b	1	1	11	1	0	J. Cox, 3d b	0	1	5	2	0
Chandler, c	1	0	3	3	7	Brady, c f	0	1	1	0	0
Mauney, p	0	1	1	2	2	McGovern, l f	1	1	2	0	0
Lenn, 2d b	1	0	6	3	4	Ward, p	1	1	1	6	0
Dirmot, 2d b	1	0	3	3	1	D. Pierson, c	0	1	6	0	3
Connelly, s s	0	1	1	4	2	Shoek, s s	0	2	0	1	0
Schenck, l f	1	1	1	0	0	E. Pierson, 1st b	1	1	10	0	2
Totals	5	5	27	16	16	Total	8	9	27	10	5

Alpha	0	0	0	0	1	1	0	3	0	0—5
Union	0	0	0	0	0	4	1	0	3	0—8

Umpire, Mr. Amory of Elizabeth. Time, 2h.

July 5, the Unions took a trip to Connecticut, playing the Rose-hill Club at Waterbury that day. Owing to a misarrangement, their baggage did not arrive in time, and they played without uniforms, but were successful, as the score shows:

ROSE HILL.	R.	1s.	UNION	R.	1s.
Harrison, c	1	0	Farrell, 2d b	2	3
Hebbets, 1st b	0	1	J. Cox, 3d b	1	3
Mintie, r f	0	0	Hand, r f	1	3
McAuliffe, 2d b	0	0	Shock, s s	1	1
McGinn, c f	0	0	Brady, c f	2	2
Halpin, p	0	0	E. Cox, l f	0	1
Burns, s s	0	0	E. Pierson, 1st b	0	1
Cassin, l f	0	0	Ward, p	1	1
Kennedy, 3d b	0	0	D. Pierson, c	3	1
Totals	1	1	Totals	11	16

Rose Hill	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1—0
Union	0	1	2	0	6	0	0	2	0	0—11

Umpire, Wm. Fruin. Monitor B. B. C. Time, 1h. 40m.

July 6, they encountered the noted T. B. F. U. S. Club of Bridgeport, and were again successful.

UNION.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.	T. B. F. U. S.	R.	1B.	PO.	A.	E.
Farrell, 2d b	0	0	6	5	2	O'Rourke, c f	1	1	3	0	0
E. Cox, l f	2	2	1	0	0	Nichols, r f	0	0	1	0	1
Brady, c f	1	0	3	1	1	Thompson, c	0	1	3	0	3
J. Cox, 3d b	1	1	1	1	0	Roseman, p	0	0	1	2	1
Ward, p	1	2	0	2	0	Larkins, s s	1	0	6	2	3
D. Pierson, c	3	1	3	1	0	Ward, 3d b	0	1	2	1	2
Shock, s s	0	0	1	1	1	Hackett, 2d b	1	0	3	3	1
E. Pierson, 1b	0	0	13	1	0	Snigg, 1st b	1	1	6	4	4
Hand, r f	1	0	1	1	0	Murphy, l f	0	1	2	0	0
Totals	7	8	27	12	5	Totals	4	5	27	12	15

THEATRICAL RECORD.

Movements, Business, and Incidents of the Theatrical, Circus, Musical, and Minstrel Professions.

THE CLIPPER POST-OFFICE.

☞ A STAMPED ENVELOPE, plainly addressed, must be inclosed for each and every letter, and the line of business followed by the party addressed should be given, in order to prevent mistakes.

NOTE.—Professionals and others should bear in mind that by a recent change in the postal laws, all letters, etc., in transit between the United States and Canadas, must be prepaid, otherwise they are not forwarded.

Letters received for week ending 5 P. M., MONDAY, July 12.

LADIES' LIST.

"Actress" (2)
Arnold, Mrs. Amos D.
Arlington, Ella
Adonis & Venus
Bernard, Ann
Bancerdon, Sarah (3)
Bender, Mrs. Anna
Bush, Dora
Burton, Maude (vocalist)
Burke, Nellie (of Dailey's Co.) (2)
Bronson, Alice (vocalist)
Brealaw, Melesia
Coventry, Julee
Chahnlan, Charlotte
Crabtree, Lotta
Cooke, Mrs. H. Welby
Craven, Winnetta
Crayton, Jennie
Cope, Annetta
Dargon, Augusta
Darling, Bessie
Dacy, Ann
Don, Laura Denion, Annie
Denike, Mattie
Drew, Mrs. Frank
Ellis, Lillie
Elbert, Kittie
Eldridge, Lillie
Forrester, Mrs. N. C.
Freith, Nina
Foster, Pearlie
Forrester, Nellie (vocalist)
Flood, Ida
Fairman, Maude
Grimes, Josephine
Glover, Phillis
Gratian, Mrs. H. P.
Geary, Mina
Gray, Mabie 6c.
Gorman, Mrs. Nellie Appleton, A.
Arthur, Alfred
Ashton, J. B.
Atkins, Chas. M.
Anderson, (of Howe & Cush. Cir.)
Aymar, W. T. (2)
Arizona, Chas.
Aymar, F. (of How ell & Aymar)
Allyne, E. T. J.
Bliss, Alfred
Boles, Thos.
Barton, Robt.
Bourind, J. G.
Berger, Fred.
Braham, Harry (2)
Burgess, Nell
Burk, W. D.
Berrell, Geo.
Boyd, Unas. (2)
Biglin, J.
Bradley, Jas.
Brennan, Harry B.
Baker, Benj. F.
Brown, Jas. J.
Barcus, J. C.
Bloodgood, Harry
Bengough, Wallace
Bowditch, J. M.
Barrett, Lawrence
Burton, Will C.
Benedict, Jew (2)
Beedle, C. C.
Bell, Charles (of "Gem" Show)
Boles E. (of Stra Koch Co.)
Benjamin, Harry P.
Burke, J. M. (of Tableaux of Erin)
Bradley, J. (stage manager)
Bailey, H. (of Pacific Comb.)
Barry, Chas. A. (3)
Bidwell, D. (manager)
Burgess, T. (with De Haven)
Barlow, Thos.
Bishop, C. B. (2)
Braham, Harry
Burk, W.
Baldwin, Prof S. S.
Burton, T. F.
Brown, Edwin
Bernardo, (of Mort. & Bernar.)
Barsby, Wm.
Christie, Chas.
Clapp, Jno.
Clifford, Harry
Carner, J. W. (2)
Champion, Wm. E.
Cannon, Jno.
Curtis, Frank J.
Costello, F. (of Gibbs Circus)
Charles, G. W.
Clark, Jos. P.
Calander & Crist
Connolly, Chas. M.
Carlysle, Prof. Geo.
Crandell, J. H. (2)
Chesbro, Harry J.
Cooke, Wooda
Clark, Philo
Coburn, P. F. (agent)
Crofut, E. F.
Colwell, Jr., M.
Crowles, E. V.
Carroll, E. M.
Cook, J. H. (stage manager)
Campbell, F. (of Mack & Dix. Min.)
Clark, H. (with Mc Gill & Strong)
Carncross & Dixey's Minst.
Cole, Wm. (circus "biz")
Carr, Jas. (minst. "biz")
Conley, H. (song and dance)
Cincinnatus (song and dance)
Cavanagh, Wm. B.
Campbell, Bartley
Corey, Jas. (manager)
Crane, E. Mills
Covella, Robt. (gymnast)
Coleman, E. (character actor)
Cook, Jas. (clown, etc.)
"C. M." 6c.
Clark, Harry
Cheamer, Joseph (comed.)
Conklin, G. (lion tamer)
Carlisle & Sons (gymnasts)
Cardella, J. (ballet "biz")
Drew, Jr., Frank (2)
Dyson, Junius C.
De Vere, Chas. N. (2)
Dix, H. Arthur
Donniker, J. (of Bryant's Minst.)
Davis, C. L.
DeMott, Eugene J.
De Angelis, Jno.
Danberry, C. (with Prof. Heller)
Delehanty, W. H.
Devere, Charles (minst. "biz")
De Haven, Claude (2)
Dickeson, Mr.
De Bar, Ben
Decker, Albert (song and dance)
Day, Daniel (musician)
Evans, Major (6)
Easton, H. (of Georgia Minstrels)
Elkin, Max E.
Eddy, Charles and Richard Easton, Josea
Franklin, C.
France, Sid C. (3)
Fitzsimmons, (of Philadelphia)
Fox, J. (of Goss & Fox)
Forcsque, Geo. K. (3)
Forst, J. (of Murray & Hurt.)
Fletcher, Walter (Dutch "biz")
Fraser, R. (scenic artist)
Fowler, Thos. B.
Fleming, J. W.
French, Ed. (banjoist)
Forepaugh, Wm. (gymnast)
Fielding, John
Franckum, Geo.
Forrester, K. C.
Frost, Jas. (of Murray's Chr.)
Gayion, Frank
Green & Sadler
Goss, Ned (2)
Gale, Walter
Girard, Eddie and Willie (2)
Griffith, Erwin
Grimley, Chas. H.
Guick, J. (with Dug. & Scott)
Goodman, Hank
Goulding, J.
Guilg, Andrew
Gardner, A. W.
Grace, J. (of Callender's Minst.)
Gardner, C. H.
Gaylor, Charles (author)
Gannon, Rich'd
Gray, Rich'd
Golden, Martin
Gaylord, Lew
"H. M. S."
Haverley, J. H.
Herndon, T. J. (2)
Habman, Geo.
Howard, Harry T.
Hamilton, Wiley
Hall, Jno.
Heywood Brothers Combin.
Hague, Jr., Sam (3)
Hudson, Jno. B.
Harper, Thos.
Herbert, Fred
Hobson, Jno. (of Howe's Cir.)
Howard, Jno. (of Howard Bros.)
Hogan, Jno.
Heeney, Edward
Heisley, Dr. Jno. E
Hack, Sam T.
Jones, Frank
Johnson, Robt.
Jenkins, H.
Jones, Arnold
Jefferson, Chas. B.
Jordan, Chas. C.
Keyes, D. A. "K."—Wm. (song and dance)
Kearney & Moran
Large, Chas. W.
Lyles, Chas.
Lawrence, M. B. (2)
Lang, Joe
Lent, L. B.
Lavake, Will K.
Langley, E. D. Sc.
Levy, H. (of Opera-ho. Rondout)
Lasbie, Ben (2)
Levit, Harry (2)
Lucas, Sam
Leopold, Geo.
Launier, W. M. (2)
Lucas, S. (of Callender's Minst.) (2)
Lloyd, W. (of Theat. Boy., Montreal)
Leopold, E. (gymnast) 3c.
Lennox, G. W. (clarionetist)
Lee, Master H. G.
Lane, Harlan
Lawlor, W. F.
Leroux & Mlle. Emcoslew, Mons.
Lincoln, Eddie
Lehman, Mrs. A.
Little Della
La Count, Millie
Laverde, Belle
Lapointe, Lottie
Merrell, Jennie
Morris, Clara
McCrea, Mary
Mortimer, Lu-lu
Marco, Grace
McKean, Gabriella
Mayfield, Mollie
McGregor, Agnes Nelson, Nellie
Oates, Mrs. J. A. (2)
Price, Nellie (Albino lady)
Pickering, Josie
Partington, Kate
Rice, Mrs. Dan (of Imperial Cir.)
Rogers, Jno. H.
Robinson, Minnie
Rupert, Florence
Rand, Rosa
GENTLEMEN'S LIST.
Fowler, Thos. B.
Fleming, J. W.
French, Ed. (banjoist)
Forepaugh, Wm. (gymnast)
Fielding, John
Franckum, Geo.
Forrester, K. C.
Frost, Jas. (of Murray's Chr.)
Gayion, Frank
Green & Sadler
Goss, Ned (2)
Gale, Walter
Girard, Eddie and Willie (2)
Griffith, Erwin
Grimley, Chas. H.
Guick, J. (with Dug. & Scott)
Goodman, Hank
Goulding, J.
Guilg, Andrew
Gardner, A. W.
Grace, J. (of Callender's Minst.)
Gardner, C. H.
Gaylor, Charles (author)
Gannon, Rich'd
Gray, Rich'd
Golden, Martin
Gaylord, Lew
"H. M. S."
Haverley, J. H.
Herndon, T. J. (2)
Habman, Geo.
Howard, Harry T.
Hamilton, Wiley
Hall, Jno.
Heywood Brothers Combin.
Hague, Jr., Sam (3)
Hudson, Jno. B.
Harper, Thos.
Herbert, Fred
Hobson, Jno. (of Howe's Cir.)
Howard, Jno. (of Howard Bros.)
Hogan, Jno.
Heeney, Edward
Heisley, Dr. Jno. E
Hack, Sam T.
Jones, Frank
Johnson, Robt.
Jenkins, H.
Jones, Arnold
Jefferson, Chas. B.
Jordan, Chas. C.
Keyes, D. A.
"K."—Wm. (song and dance)
Kearney & Moran
Large, Chas. W.
Lyles, Chas.
Lawrence, M. B. (2)
Lang, Joe
Lent, L. B.
Lavake, Will K.
Langley, E. D. Sc.
Levy, H. (of Opera-ho. Rondout)
Lasbie, Ben (2)
Levit, Harry (2)
Lucas, Sam
Leopold, Geo.
Launier, W. M. (2)
Lucas, S. (of Callender's Minst.) (2)
Lloyd, W. (of Theat. Boy., Montreal)
Leopold, E. (gymnast) 3c.
Lennox, G. W. (clarionetist)
Lee, Master H. G.
Lane, Harlan
Lawlor, W. F.
Leroux & Mlle. Emcoslew, Mons.
Lincoln, Eddie
Lehman, Mrs. A.
Little Della
La Count, Millie
Laverde, Belle
Lapointe, Lottie
Merrell, Jennie
Morris, Clara
McCrea, Mary
Mortimer, Lu-lu
Marco, Grace
McKean, Gabriella
Mayfield, Mollie
McGregor, Agnes Nelson, Nellie
Oates, Mrs. J. A. (2)
Price, Nellie (Albino lady)
Pickering, Josie
Partington, Kate
Rice, Mrs. Dan (of Imperial Cir.)
Rogers, Jno. H.
Robinson, Minnie
Rupert, Florence
Rand, Rosa
Russell, Tillie (jig dancer)
Ryan, Mrs. Belvil
Rentfrow, Mrs. J. N.
Street, Mrs. Martha
Stetson, Evelyne
Saphir, Mrs. S. M.
Somers, Alice
Scott, Mrs. Annie
Stanton, Mrs. H.
Schott, Angelique
Starr, Susie
Sutherland, Agnes
St. Clair, Minnie
Stowe, Emma (actress)
Safford, Lizzie
Sanderson, Mrs. (Marionettes)
Taylor, Mrs. E. C.
Tracy, Helen
Tinkham, Lillie M.
Turnour, Mrs. Hepsey (2)
Temple, Helen Tiffany, Annie Ward
Vaidis Children, Twin Virlax, Little Bessie
Western, Lucille (2)
Watson, Kittie
Wren, Martha
Wood, Clara
Whitland, Kittie (2)
Wilton, Lillie (late of Mobile)
Warner, Ella
Walker, Lou
Wallace, Mrs. (of Wallace Sist.)
Western, Lucille
Washburn, Mrs. Kate
Williams, Gussie
Yeamans, Lydia
Yates, Marie Zoe
Zoula, Millie
Zephy, Millie (2)
McGill, Alex
Mills, Gus
Mack, Jas.
Montague, Harry
Moreland, H. (actor)
McBride, J. H. (comed.)
Normann, H. (with Hippodrome)
Noonan & Alice
Naleman, W.
Nealan, M. (press agent)
Nolen, T. J.
Nagle, Rich'd
Oliver, Saml.
Peak, E. S.
Parenio, H.
Perry, Capt. C. M.
Paline, J. F.
Prescott, Coleman
Powers, J. H. (giant)
Page, H. A. (with Barnum)
Primrose, G. (with Haverly)
Pogue, ——— (side-show "biz")
Purdy, S. S.
Phillips, H. B. (with Wallace Sist.)
Ryan, Sami.
Rose, Frank
Rogers, Jno.
Ryan, Thos. J.
Rogers, Stevie
Robinson, H. (minstrels (2)
Rogers, J. (of Wallace Sist. Co.)
Robinson, "Dot" (with Peak Fam.)
Rowand, J. (gymnast)
Ryder, J. A. (basso)
Richardson, E. (2)
Roltger, Max
Repasz, Gerald
Rankin, McKee
Revent & Mlle.
Longenette, Mons.
Ritchie, F. (Dutch "biz")
Stanley, Ernest
Stanley, Prince A.
Southwell, Geo.
Sweeney, J. B.
Snyder, Thos. J.
Sloeper, Harry
Sterling, J. S.
Snyder, Thos. J.
Shimer, N. B.
Stubbs, Stokes
Scott, Geo. C.
Shaw, J. J.
Stiner, Prof. (aeronaut)
Stillman, Chas. Vail
Scott, A. (of Scott & Bryant)
Sanford, S. (minst. "biz")
Smith, D. C. (of Peak Family) (2)
Sanders, A. B. (contortionist)
Stanwood, Geo. A. 3c.
Spires, Jno. H. 11c.
Sanders, F. (of Brown's Dram. Co
Silvers, E. (minst. "biz")
Seward, T. (of Julien Singers")
Scott, A. (of South. Cir.)
Smith, Jas. (with Hippodrome)
Stout, J. H. (general "biz")
Snow, Will H.
Sheppeck-Groves Strahan, Thos. G.
Sanderson, Harry S.
Stevens, Jno. A. (actor)
Thompson & Macy
Thomson, Jno.
Tobin, Prof.
Turner, Thos. (with Barnum)
Thornton, Chas. (2)
Turner, Ned
Turner, T. (late Boyd & Turner)
Taylor, J. (of Vomique, St. Louis)
Tinkham, Ed. A.
Tooley, Wm.
Toomey, Wm. F.
Villa, S. B.
Van Wormer, J.
Wagner, Cal.
Williams, H. M.
Washburn, E.S. (10)
Wilbus, C.
Wingfield, Jno.
Ware, Geo.
West, Lon
Wing, Chas. A.
Williams, Gus
Wood, Chas. S.
Wells, W.
Williams, L. Percy (2)
Walker, Wm.
Wright, Harry
Walters, C. (of Walk & Norton)
Wardman, Charles (musician)
Wilson, Charles (candy "biz")
Webster, J. (of Salsburg's Co.)
Williams, A. "Lancashire Lad")
Woodward, I. (of Lon don Dram. Co.)
Wolf, Ned
Westerndorf, R. (with Barnum)
Wiler, Jas.
Wing, Chas. (manager)
Ward, J. M.
Wagner, C. M.
Wesley, Custus
Watson, J.
Wilson, Mr. (with Wallace Sist.)
Wilson, M. (musician)
Wildman, F. J.
West, Frank (minst. "biz")
Watkins, Harry
Wayne and Lovely
Wilson, L. (of Wilson Bros.)
Young, M. (with Van Amburg)

INTRODUCTORY OVERTURE.

MONDAY, July 12, '75.

Having, last Monday, lost the opportunity to celebrate the anniversary of our national independence, we have concluded to keep our end up to-day, because patriotism is our strong point, and what we fail to commemorate one day we make up for on the next. James, whose 'indisposition" kept him from the office on the 5th of July, has not shown up yet; but this morning he sent us a card on which was scrawled words that looked like "gravy, mercers, peas!" but which, no doubt, the boy intended to represent "Grace, Mercy, Peace," in imitation of that other immaculate conceit—Theodore. James being absent, we have deputed our broken-Dutch art-critic to write up this department, and for any shortcomings in his composition, or for any lapses of the pen that he may be innocently guilty of, we claim the kind indulgence of our readers. We have given him instructions to omit all attempts at witticisms, or comical jokes, or anything in that direction calculated to create immoderate laughter, which, at this season of the year, is calculated to enervate the system and undermine the constitution. Our friends will do well to bear in mind that, as our German representative has not entirely mastered our mother tongue, notwithstanding he has now been in the country three months. We commend him to your careful consideration.

AMOOSEMENT REVIEW.

Der moosic and dramatic season vat hafe lately slipped avay hafe bin von long to be remembered—by lot of beobles vat vorked hard und had dheir salaries fogotted. Der blonde-leg business vas kicked out in favor of der "kontemboraneous" society-blays, und dherefore knee-pones und fat legs vas seen no more forever der last season, but vas hided from der view by bure silk dresse suit a long express train behindt. "Der legitimate," as usual, had its same olt usual scrabblin' to git along anyway decent und be able to bay its board. .....At Booth's Dheatre der most noticeable feature vas der successful absence of Booth (Ed win Hamlet); und his melancholy nose und sorrowful legs vas not missed in absent quit a long Miss Katie Field (who is not a brudder of Dudley David Field), rehearsed some parts in public for a couple few nights, und dhen shkipped out und down. Jarrett und Palmer, der old Plack Krookers, dhen drove der reins und imborted two addractive beoples—Sharge Riggnold und his frendt Henry Five. By dhimes at advertisements of der vootings of dheir gomblexion dhey made blenty five cent bennies, und all der barties interested now shmoke inshtalments of dwenty-five-cent segars. Next season will no doubt abbear der putiful-eyed Nelson (not a son of der Judge), und her original balcony; Sharlie Fechter, der healthy-looking lover; Larry Barrett, der painstooker und preserver, und Lotta, der leetle "dramatic cocktail" as Shon Brougham dinks about her. New improvements will be improved. Der olt bills will be vashed off und removed—und der debt too ut possible. Mollenhauer will violin as usual..... A. Daly, at der Avenue Fifth Theatre, turned out a few of der old gomedies in a kid-glove und satin setting, und also bresented a usual number of sweetly-melangolic French blays, where der heroine is always most chenerally a lady vat aint neider so bad nor so goot as she might be, und who always loves true—dough wrong—gits fooled, veeps tears, und gits bringed on in der last act as a dead corpse all dressed nice in a blue silk dress und ofenskirt of der same, a vild hair, und a wery "emotional" nice dead face. Dot's always so pooty, you got to forgave her anyway. Dings vent on pooty shvimming, but it vasn't undil der "Big Bonanza" was athruck dot no shtanding-room only vas visible, und der management felt justified in smoking "Rainy Wietorias" instead of "Floor del Fumas." In dis blay Jimmy Lewis und Miss Fanny Davenport added renewed lustres to dheir already refulging brilliances, und I do hope to gootness dot expression is all righd..... At Vallack's, der "olt gomedies," proving a trifle der oder side of der age, vas kicked out to made room for der invention of Shaughrown der Conn, mit Boozycoilt und Montygue—von a man of prains und der oder a man of face—und both men of sheek. Boozy made a goot Conn, und Monty's red-coat made a grate success, und his mustache vas effective, und showed deep shtudy und care. After dis der "variety" drama walked in, und der high-tuned Vallack's, shmelling of der roses und boetry of Rosedale and Lester, died out amongst der bangs und smashes of "Mooligan's Barade" und der "Gallant 669th."..... At the "Oonion Square," a mixed-up gondition of dings at first vas soon followed by a shaudy condition of "No Seats Only," und der Couple Orphans vas der attraction dhereof. Miss Kitty Blanchard vas a putiful two orphans, und so vas Miss Claxton, der oder two orphans. To make matters vorse, Tissington, der leader, gomposed a waltz, "Der Tew Orphans," vich vas a putiful leg-shtarter. Tissy was a good biccolo blayer on der flute, und is awful well posted in regard to der vhiteness of cuffs und der plackness of mustaches. ..... At der "Old Bowery" a shteady brocession of "shtars," each mit a vild drama mit a pet shtyle of locomotive effect, gontinued to float der "Old Dreary" dhrough a tight vinter, only to shtrike into der hot vedder vich vood send der audience next door into der "Garden," und so, while Templeton vas showing der broken-Dutch trubbles of Rip Von Vinkle, und his shmart leetle Fay vas singin all about der "N. G. S. N. Y.," der sheriff said somepody owed him dhree dollars und a half, so he busted up der show. "Morry" Pike, vas der able door-manager of der stage, und vas gedder mit his talented lady, Milly Sacett, dey vas a grate favorite of der public, und a shtrong aid to der manager..... In der "wariety" way, der "Olympic" valked from a shaky gondition of box-office right up to a reliaple shtate of dings. Among der various succeeds of der season might be mentioned leetle Alice Harrison, mit her plack eyes und pooty voice; Handsell, der leetle bedestal, veg-legged dancers, who kin beat a goot many vat wears two legs; Patrick Rooney, whose songs am so Irish dot efery time he obens his mouth you shmell der Limburger—no, ve mean der shamrock. (Ve heerd dot joke somewheres, und vas bound to try anyvay, efen if ve did got it wrong.) Also, dhere vas der Germellas, vat tumble und twist in der air vhen dhey vas goin' off dheir ear, und look like lively crullers come to life. Schmit Sol Russell und his schoolboy's recitation of "Bunkin on der Rhine" vas a vild ahplause; und Jim Taylor, who am always ahallenging himself for der belt of der Shampion Gomique, vas in artiste succeed mit his "Simply Simon" und der ancient "Harry Valker." Shon Hart, der qvietest funny nigger on der stage, used his laugh to goot advantage, Emma Day, der heavy lady mit a cunning baby face, hided herself behindt her fan to sing "Doo Day!" Annie Morgan—a pet brudder of Jennie's—kissed der air to a admiring chorus in der vind song; pedestrian unnoders vat shtrutted dheir brief hour und drew dheir brief salary every veek..... At der Comique, Josh Hart keeped on der even baritone of his vay mit der dhoughtful prain of Edvard Harrigan combined mit der cutie acquaintance of Tonio Hart, der blonde; Shonny Vild, mit his schoolboy voice; Ada Gilman, mit her qviet songs; Ada Wray, mit her pooty face and innocent woice; Kitty O'Neill, mit her artistic und silent jig; und bundles of oders, all of whose nomes vas headed, directed, und shtreered into success by Dave Braham, der old und vell-known orchestral engineer formerly of der famous 4-11-44 Broadway, during der season dhese und many oders abbeared before der footlights, und am alive yet..... At der "Metropolitan" der Cancan intensified der bermissible; der Lolas, after vich boobie kept out in scrubs, und it vent down mit a shtiff hat finally der name of salary day got to be such a shteady farce dot der gombany shtopped der game, folded up its legs und it's Saratoga valises, und took de cars home mit a svear on dheir lips, und no money in dheir bockets. I am a bity dis blace vasn't vell tooken hold of, as it is an undoubted funny goot successful thoroughly enjoyable, a great deal of is made up of variety acts and specialties introduced through der out the piece. Robert Fraser made an excellent Pantaloon, and Louise Boshell a pretty and pleasing Columbine. Mattie Temple as the Goddess of the Sun appeared to fair advantage, as did Thos. Chapman as Old Prob. in the prologue. C. W. Ravel as Harlequin is quite active, and displays a certain degree of grace in his movements. Louise Boshell in her slack-rope act is really wenderful for her ease and grace in a most difficult performance. The Orrin Brothers and Mlle. Lucia are very clever gymnasts, and execute some startling feats. Bobby Newcomb sings and dances in his usual quiet, taking way, and Lizzie Gabrielle is very successful in her crystalonicon, an act similar to the tumbleronicon of O'Reardon. Kynock and Smith are excellent in their way, and Georgie Dean Spaulding ditto. The pantomime has been given all the week. Business fair..... At the Globe, 'Evangeline' receives its final performance to-night, and on Monday next appeared in connection with the piece all the week. Last night's supper was given the authors at the Revere House, at which quite a number of friends and admirers were present, making the affair a very pleasant one..... B. F. Tryon's annual benefit came off at the Howard on Tuesday evening, and was a complete success. The entertainment provided—consisting of 'The Yankee Duelist,' the balcony scene from 'Romeo and Juliet,' 'Mrs. Dittimus' Party,' 'Cousin Bill,' and 'Robert Macaire,' and several variety acts—was a brilliant one, in which Fanny Marsh, Yankee Locke, School craft and Goss, Harry Bloodgood, J. J. Sullivan, Alfred Listone, N. C. Goodwin Jr., Harry Josephs, Harry Meredith and others took part. Since then the theatre has been closed.....At the Boylston Museum the Warren Sisters are the chief attraction. The programme for the week opened with Dollie Warren as Nan, in the drama of 'Good-for-nothing.' After this Al Scranton gave hisspecialty 'Robert Ridley,' and John Gibson followed with a jig. Then J. W. Gardner gave a stump speech on spiritualism, and the whole closed with the burlesque sketch 'Clod Meddlenot, or the Lady and the Lions,' the Warren Sisters appearing as Clod Meddlenot and to Frank Leroy's Polly Ann..... Jennie Quale, as Gen. Totman appeared at 126 Court street, July 3, 5, under the management of D. K. Prescott, and also at Tremont Temple on the evening of July 5..... Chas. Stevenson of the Museum sails for Europe this afternoon in the Atlas, to be gone two months..... F. C. Jones' entertainments at Highlands, Nantasket, Vt., for the Summer..... J. H. Ring of the Museum and L. R. Shewell of the Boston go to Thatcher's Island..... Wm. Warren and Chas. Barron are to pass some time in the White Mountains..... Stuart Robson and Lawrence Barrett are at their cottages at Cohasset, and G. W. Wilson of the Boston Theatre is at Squantum."

JERSEY CITY OPERA-HOUSE, N. J., closed July 5, and will reopen for the Fall and Winter season about Aug. 23. Managers Budlong & Higgins advertise that they are ready to negotiate with stars for open dates.

MISSIE DARLING commences a starring tour Aug 30, appearing in a repertoire of modern emotional dramas, including a play by James Schonberg, written for her, and entitled "Zillah." Managers desiring to negotiate for open dates are referred to the card of her business manager, E. H. Fox.

TOURMAN & CO., of Cincinnati, call the attention of stars to a card in another column, in which his dramas of "The Starbottle Claim" and "For Better, For Worse," are offered for their consideration.

AT CCL. WOOD'S MUSEUM, Philadelphia, the programme presented during the week ending July 10 included 'Under the Gaslight,' in which Edward Arnott and Mrs. Davidge Jr. appeared, in addition to the regular company, and "Jack Harkaway," the latter drama, however, being presented only at the matinees. Arnott as Snorkey and Davidge Jr. as Bermudas were very satisfactory representatives of their respective parts. Miss Lizzie Harold gave a humorous personation of Peachblossom. W. F. Egberts made his first appearance here in three years, sustaining the part of Ed. Demilt. Frank I. Frayne in his new drama of "Si Slocum" opens here July 12.

AT FOX'S AMERICAN THEATRE, Philadelphia, an excellent programme was provided during the past week, prominent attraction being the Stuart Sisters and Thatcher and Glenn, who commenced engagements here on the 5th inst. The Stuart Sisters in their musical sketch "Daughters of Erin" were very clever, and received much applause; Thatcher and Glenn being two excellent song-and-dance men, and coming in likewise for a liberal share of approval. The other chief novelty was J. C. Stewart's sensational drama of "Nat," which brought the entertainment to a close. Shed Le Clair and Maud Sanyeah and Thomas C. Hedges are the new appearances announced for the 12th inst. in conjunction with the sensational drama of "Midnight."

THE POLICE-DEPARTMENT BENEFIT held last Winter at the Arch-street Theatre, Philadelphia, realized $8,628, which was handed over to the treasurer of the Centennial Board of Finance on the 9th inst.

THE WALNUT-STREET THEATRE, Philadelphia, is being repainted and renovated preparatory to its opening on the 16th of August, with G. L. Fox in "Humpty Dumpty," for a season of two weeks.

THE COMPANY for the Grand Opera-house, Cincinnati, promises to be a strong one. So far as engaged, it embraces: Frank Roche, leading; A. D. Bradley, old men; M. W. Fiske, low comedy; George Charles, characters; Messrs. Southard, Price, Shire, Vance, Dowling; Gussie De Forrest, leading; Viola Plunkett, Mrs. Grattan, Julia Blanchard, Mrs. Nelson Kneass, Misses Lewis and Nicely.

EDWARD G. PACKARD, juvenile and light comedy, desires an engagement for next season. See card.

HARRY W. CHURCHILL, the invalid actor, whose case was described in our past issue, and who is in need of pecuniary assistance, informs us that his address in Brooklyn, E. D. is No. 81 Harrison avenue, instead of Harrison street, as was stated by mistake in the previous letter in his behalf.

MISS MARIAN TAYLOR, with a full company, will commence a tour of the United States and Canadas early in September, producing a new drama by Hart Jackson, Esq., and several other novelties. Communications can be addressed to her agent, Chas. A. Wing, who advertises.

OWEN FAWCETT left Daly's Fifth-avenue Company at Chicago, Ill., on July 4, and went to his farm in Michigan to fight grasshoppers.

MR. A. DONALDSON has been engaged by Miss Marian Taylor for her dramatic company for the season of 1875-6.

THE GLOBE THEATRE COMPANY, under the sole management of George E. Wilson, D. S. Gerry having withdrawn, is to perform in Keesville, N. Y., July 12, 13, 14, Port Henry 15, 16, 17, Rouse's Point 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, and London, Ont., 26, to continue two weeks.

E. A. MCDOWELL and his dramatic company are to commence a short season in St. John, N. B., on or about July 20.

TONY DENIER has been confined to the house in Albion, N. Y., the past ten days with sickness. His wife has also been quite ill.

MANAGER SINN opens the season at the Park Theatre, Brooklyn, on Aug. 23. During the season he will play several of the most prominent stars. Geo. McDonald is his stage-manager; O. W. Blake, comedian, and Dan. Blake leading.

MISS LILLIE ELDRIDGE is ready to negotiate for open dates, as the stellar attraction, during the season of 1875-6. See card.

LUCIEN BARNES, manager, advertises that he would like to rent or purchase a desirable theatre.

FRANK DREW announces his intention of returning to America from London, Eng., in November next.

AT DE BAR'S OPERA-HOUSE, Montreal, Canada, the Fifth-avenue Combination have done well in "The Big Bonanza" and "Alphonse," in the latter of which, Bijou Heron, a little lady who evinces much dramatic ability, sustained the role of Adrienne. The piece was well mounted, and the acting throughout was excellent. Mr. Harry Lindley, nee Miss Florence Webster, has joined the combination. On July 12 Miss Charlotte Stanley will appear..... The Theatre Royal is temporarily closed for this week, reopening in the 19th under the new management of T. Hurst & P. H. Brink, both capable and energetic men, with an entirely new company, M. C. Daly being the first star engaged, to be followed by Frank Frayne and others. The members of the late stock company are suffering from financial embarrassment, and take a benefit at Mechanics' Hall July 9. Severe reflections have been cast on Mrs. Buckland, lessee of Theatre Royal, by a local sheet, it stating that this lady had refused to tender her theatre for the benefit, with other remarks, all of which are untrue, and injustice has been done to the lady, who kept the theatre open for some time lately, at a loss to herself, in order to benefit the stock company. Correspondence dated July 9.

CHARLES KEMBLE MASON died July 11 at the residence of his sister, Mrs. J. Hillyard, in Brooklyn, L. I. He was born in Peterborough, Eng., in Nov., 1803, and at the time of his demise was 72 years of age. He made his debut on the dramatic stage at the Covent-garden Theatre, London, Eng., at the age of eighteen years, acting Young Norval. He made his American debut at the Walnut-street Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa., April 21, 1834, acting Macbeth. The following season he made his first appearance in this city, on Dec. 4, 1834, at the Park Theatre, performing Beverly in "The Gamister." He subsequently acted the Duke of Gloster in "Richard III" and Sir Giles Overreach. He was a member of the late J. W. Wallack's company during his first season in Broadway. In August, 1857, he went to California, but did not remain there long. He next visited Australia, and then returned to the United States. During the season of 1864-5 he was member of the company at the Winter Garden, and acted the Ghost during the one-hundred-nights run of "Hamlet." After that season he appeared but seldom in public, and his last regular engagement was at the Academy of Music, Philadelphia, Pa., in the Spring of 1869, when he acted in the support of Mrs. Scott-Siddons. For some time prior to his death he had been the treasurer of the American Dramatic Fund Association. His father was Henry Mason, and his mother was a sister of Mrs. Siddons. Consequently, he was a nephew of Charles Kemble, a cousin of Fanny Kemble, and a relative of Mrs. Scott-Siddons. His funeral is to take place from his sister's residence, No. 182 Quincy street, near Bedford avenue, on Tuesday, July 13, at two o'clock.

MISS MINNIE PALMER can be negotiated with for engagements through her agent, W. H. Perkins, or Simmonds & Wall, as per advertising address.

THE TROUBLES AT THE BROOKLYN, L. I., THEATRE.—On July 1a demand was made by the Brooklyn Building Company upon the Conway Sisters for the sum of $9,500, balance of rent then due to the company for the theatre. The sisters were unable to respond, and, when threatened with sale, they, it is stated, threatened to sell and dispose of the theatrical properties and scenery by auction. The treasurer of the company, Mr. Harry Beam, forthwith applied to Justice Gilbert of the Supreme Court, by his attorney, Sidney E. Lowell, Esq., for an injunction restraining the selling or disposal of the said property, which was served by Under-sheriff George J. Whelan on the evening of July 3. When the Sheriff first inquired for Misses Conway, he was informed by the servant they were out; but, following her upstairs, after she had supposed he had left, and hearing the Conway Sisters talking in the parlor over the theatre, he suddenly served the papers. The injunction order to show cause is returnable July 9, but the hearing thereon was postponed. It is now stated that this difficulty is in a fair way towards settlement.

A DRAMATIC COMPANY gave three performances of "The Battle of Princeton" at De Bar's Opera-house, St. Louis, Mo., July 3, 4, 5. It proved to be a grand failure, the company losing great sums by the receipts. The people who took part in the performances are losers by the experiment..... Miss Blanche De Bar is engaged to play leading business at the Grand Opera-house in St. Louis, Mo., for the season of 1875-76..... Pat Shea, formerly of the Memphis Theatre, will be treasurer of the Olympic, St. Louis, Mo., next season.

A COTERIE of artists under the title of "The Troubadours" will appear at Conway's Brooklyn, L. I., Theatre July 12 in a comic absurdity entitled "Patchwork," prefaced by the comedy "Sailing Under False Colors." Mr. N. Salsbury, Ed. S. Marble, John Wetherer, Bob Reese, Lew Wilson and Miss Nellie McHenry compose the troupe.

THE WALLACE SISTERS COMPANY, under the management of Frank B. Dobson, during the coming season will perform in "Minnie's Luck," Fred Marsden's drama of "Jacquette, or In the Toils," and "Poor but Proud Irish Girls." Among the company will be W. H. Everett, first low comedian at De Bar's Opera-house, St. Louis, during the past season; Alex Vincent, late of the Chestnut-street Theatre, Philadelphia; W. L. Street, Frank Montford and Joseph Johnson. The business management will continue in the hands of George B. Sydney, as it has been during the past four seasons.

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN" was produced on July 5 at the Detroit Opera-house to good houses, both at matinee and night. Garry Hough as Gumption Cute, J. R. Healy as Uncle Tom, and May Williams as Topsy were the principal features.

JENNIE CARROLL, who has had a traveling company of her own during the past two years, has accepted the position of leading lady at McVicker's Theatre, Chicago, for the coming season.

AMUSEMENTS IN CHICAGO, ILL., are thus reported by our correspondent under date of July 9: "According to previous announcement, 'The Two Orphans' was presented at Hooley's Theatre for the first time on July 5, and it has met with extraordinary success. Crowded houses have been the rule since the opening night. The same beautiful scenery, costly wardrobe and properties are employed throughout, to which has been added at this Theatre, some of the most talented people to be found at present day are seen in their various specialties. George H. Tyler continues as manager, and in an advertisement in another part of this paper may be found fuller particulars of this organization.

THE CENTENNIAL DRAMA of "Geo. Washington, or the Three Generations," is offered for representation by H. M. B., who advertises.

PERFORMERS are wanted to travel with Sherry's New York Theatre during the thirteenth annual tour of this company, commencing Sept. 1. Alfull band, orchestra, and an energetic agent are also advertised for.

GEORGE F. KETCHUM goes to Bidwell's Academy of Music, New Orleans, La., next season, as low comedian.

FRANK ALLEN, responsible business and performer in brass band, and Miss Jennie Allen, general utility, are at liberty to engage for next season. See card.

ARTISTS AND COMBINATIONS are referred to Harry Watkins' card in another column.

MUSICAL.

THOS. H. DE WITT, leader of orchestra and alto in brass, can be engaged after Aug. 15. See card.

"SINCE TERRY first joined the gang," "The Belle of Rockaway," and all the popular music of the day, are published by Harding in ten-cent form, and can be obtained at his address advertised in another column.

AN E-FLAT CORNET PLAYER and leader of brass band desires an engagement, and states his qualifications in a card in this issue.

L. H. HUME, second violin and solo alto or E-flat, desires a position for the coming season. In his card elsewhere he desires Geo. A. Florance to communicate with him. Address Publisher CLIPPER.

MISS EMILIE MELVILLE, who, since her retirement from the dramatic stage in San Francisco, Cal., some years ago, has been industriously studying music under Mme. Inez Fabbri and other distinguished teachers, has gone to Australia to fulfill an operatic engagement with Manager Lyster. She was accompanied by Percy Titus in her business manager. She is engaged for a specified number of performances, and shares the nightly receipts with the manager, first deducting a certain sum; and the manager guarantees her that the receipts shall not fall below the sum of £150 per week.

THE MUSIC of the day for orchestra, reed, and brass bands can CIRCUSES.

NOYES' CANVAS.—The canvas used by Charley Noyes' Circus several years ago, and attached at Wheeling, W. Va., by John H. Trewalla of Dan Rice's Circus, was sold July 3, by the Sheriff, at the Court-house at Wheeling, W. Va. Trewalla held Noyes' note for $1,000, and hence the attachment. Mr. Geo. Crumbacher purchased the canvas for $17. And now the question is, How will Noyes get his canvas back?

JOHN H. MURRAY'S RAILROAD CIRCUS performed at Plymouth, N. H., July 9, Littleton 10, and Lancaster 12.

J. H. MURRAY'S RAILROAD CIRCUS is to show in Quebec, Canada, July 19, 20, 21. M. C. Coyle, the agent, is reported to have been robbed, while in Montreal, of a diamond pin, ring, two gold watches and $40 in money.

CARRINGTON'S CIRCUS is reported to have exhibited at Dunlap, Tenn., July 5, Luney's 6, Jasper 7, Pelham 8, Tracy 9, Manchester 10.

E. W. PERRY, family, and four horses, can be engaged, or the horses can be purchased, by applying to the advertised address.

LEW FOSTER advertises that he wishes to purchase a second-hand sideshow canvas.

MAJOR DYKE announces in a card in this issue that he has purchased Yankee Robinson's interest in his Great Modern Show, and will reorganize immediately. Performers desiring engagements are requested to address him.

HOWES & CUSHING'S CIRCUS performed in Marblehead, Mass., July 9, Lynn 10. Route: Boston 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, Cambridgeport 17, Malden 19, Medford 20, Arlington 21, Waltham 22, Newton 23, Brighton 24.

THE ROTHSCHILD SHOW is to perform at Brookville, Pa., July 12, New Bethlehem 13, East Brady 14, Petrolia 15, Middletown 16, Kittanning 17, Indiana 19, Blairsville 20, Armagh 21, Johnstown 22, Altoona 24, Tyrone 25, Phillipsburg 26, Williamsport 28, thence into New York State. Business is reported good. The large rhinoceros died at Bradford, Pa., July 5. It was a big card, and the loss proves heavy to the company.

GEORGE COSTELLO, one of the attaches of "Yankee" Robinson's circus at St. Paul, Minn., together with a number of the tent men, writes our correspondent as follows: "secured some twenty head of horses, and attempted to decamp; but they were captured, and the horses recovered. There are two complaints against Costello, one charging him with stealing property while in hands of the Sheriff after attachment, and the other assault with a dangerous weapon on the person of the Deputy-sheriff. He was subsequently bailed to the amount of $2,000, by Maj. W. H. Dike of Fairbault. Most of the circus people have left town. The sons of Dan Scott; the former proprietor of the show, have gathered together some of the best of the people and started a circus on wheels from Fairbault. The variety company attached to the circus has organized a variety show under the name of the Vaudeville Company."

BARNUM'S TRAVELING WORLD'S FAIR performed at Mount Vernon, O., July 9, Delaware 10. Route: Marysville 12, Urbana 13, Springfield 14, Xenia 15, Dayton 16, Eaton 17, Liberty, Ind., 19, Brookville 20, Harrison 21, Covington, Ky., 22.

JOHN ROBINSON'S CIRCUS is billed to show in Fort Wayne, Ind., Aug. 2.

JOHN H. MURRAY'S CIRCUS is billed to show at Coaticook, P. Q., July 13, Sherbrooke 14, Richmond 15, Archabaske 16, Three Rivers 17, Quebec 19, 20, 21, Point Levi 22, St. Hyacinthe 23, St. John's 24, Montreal 26, 27, 28.

JUNE, NATHANS & CO.'S BIG BONANZA CIRCUS closed the season suddenly at Port Richmond, S. I., after the evening performances of June 10. The company and others engaged received their first intimation of the termination of the season at the afternoon performance on that day. The cages, horses, etc., passed up Broadway in this city on Sunday afternoon.

VAN AMBURGH & CO'S SHOW performed in Buffalo, N. Y., July 5, 6, and went thence into Canada.

MONTGOMERY QUEEN'S CIRCUS gave two exhibitions daily, June 29, 30, and July 1 at Denver, Col., with crowded houses at each entertainment. The principal features of the show are the daring riding of James Robinson and Chas. Fish. Mons. Sebastian and Mollie Brown are also connected with the show as bareback riders. From there they went to Colorado Springs July 3, Golden 5, Boulder 6, thence East via Cheyenne.

OLD JOHN ROBINSON'S CIRCUS showed at Circleville, O., 5, and will be at Newark 14, Columbus 15, and Piqua 16.

THE GREAT EUROPEAN CIRCUS is to show at Coldwater, Mich., July 16.

THE CONTRACT, taken from the Ogdensburg, N. Y., Daily Journal, is quite a complimentary comment upon the performances of Melville, Magingley & Cooke's Circus, which exhibited in that town on June 22:

Messrs. Maginley & Cooke's Circus, which played here yesterday, is entitled to all the good words that have been spoken of it. Everything about it is as clean and trim as can be, and its ring-show is the best that can be presented in a given place. The riders are the Melvilles, Lake Keys, Mr. Rowland, Mr. Donald, Mr. Robinson, and Messrs. Cooke and Trewalla the clowns. It would be impossible to produce the wonderful bareback riding of the Melville and Young Donald. Frank Melville is a graceful bareback rider who throws summersets backwards on his running steed. Young Donald does the same thing, and a forward summerset, a feat performed by no other man. Master Lake Melville rides a bareback horse, and carries a son standing without any aid upon his father's head. Miss Keys is the most daring and fearless lady rider in the profession. But the stupendous feats of all are performed by Rowland on the flying trapeze. His daring and success pale all others we have ever seen. His horizontal bar performance also is most wonderful, while the contortions of Robinson are startling and performed with apparent ease. The patriotic piece of "Putnam, the Iron Son of '76," was finely done, and from the beginning to end was unexceptional and magnificent. Everything about the establishment was clean, trim, neat, orderly and prosperous, and our people showed their appreciation by patronizing them in splendid house. They travel by their own conveyance, live like gentlemen and ladies, and are making stamps.

MISCELLANEOUS.

HAAS' OPERA-HOUSE, Wabash, Ind., can be rented by applying to the proprietor, A. Haas, who advertises for a good company to perform during the time of the county fair.

DAN S. GERRY is referred to a card from Gus Wallace, published in this issue.

MOSES ZAVITOWSKI, ballet master, can be engaged for the season by addressing him as per card. He can furnish the premieres, if required.

THE HAYWOOD BROTHERS' COMBINATION is to show at Enosboro, Vt., July 12, Newport 15, St. Johnsbury 19.

TINSLEY HALL, Eminence, Ky., is open for rental during the time of the fair at this town, commencing ug. 10. See card.

TOOTLE'S OPERA-HOUSE, St. Joseph, Mo., is offered for rental during the coming season. The theatre has a seating capacity of 1,500, and the agent, Julius Crone, states in his card in this issue the particular advantages presented by this house to traveling combinations.

THEATRICAL SCENERY of all kinds, also an Irish panorama, are advertised by L. W. Seavey.

PEDANTE, aeronaut and gymnast, is at liberty to arrange for engagements at festivals, etc. He also advertises a 9,000-foot balloon for sale.

THEATRICAL WIGS and make-up goods can be found at Helmer's establishment, advertised in this issue.

A GUIDE TO HALLS in the United States, Canada, South America and Europe has been published by Lippincot & Brown, Philadelphia, Pa. It contains matter of interest to managers and agents, including a list of fairs, population of towns, rental of halls, routes, etc., and can be obtained by addressing them as per card.

DE WITT'S latest issues of the Ethiopian and comic drama series can be found noticed in his card in our business department.

THE DE CASTRO TROUPE closed their season at Weyanwega, Wis., June 30. Prof. G. H. De Castro went to his farm in Hampton, Ia., to pass the vacation. Wash. Blodgett, his agent, accompanied him. Jeppe and Fannie returned to Niles, Mich., and Prof. Shepard went to Winona, Minn.

THE BIG BONANZA COMBINATION SHOW was at Chestertown, Md., July 5, 6, 7, 8, Kennedyville 9, 10, and will be at Still Pond 12, 13.

SNAKES can be obtained of J. Kennedy, who advertises a variety for sale.

THE ZOOLOGICAL GARDEN, Philadelphia, is still attracting a large attendance daily. Concerts being given there Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday by Carl Sentz's orchestra.

A SET of Punch and Judy figures are offered for sale in another department.

PARTIES DESIRING SHOW-PAINTING executed in new and elegant designs, and at reduced prices, should consult J. Bruce's advertisement elsewhere.

CHAS. E. KILLINGBECK, gymnast, is open for an engagement with a circus or variety show. See advertisement.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC, Omaha, Neb., is open for rental during the coming season. It has a seating capacity of 1,000. A first-class combination is advertised for, during State Fair week, Sept. 20-26.

J. SIMMONDS, advanceagent, is open for an engagement. He states his qualifications in a card in our business department.

THE PANORAMIC MYSTERY, adapted for theatres, halls, etc., and protected by patent for exhibition in America and England, and be secured through Prof. Tobin, as per advertisement.

DR. MARCUS HERMANN, wizard, is passing a few days at Saratoga, N. Y., for the benefit of his health.

LE ROUAL TRIO JAPANESE TROUPE performed at Warn, N. Y., July 6, Seneca Falls 7, Ithaca 8.

CHERRY'S OPERA-HOUSE, Champaign, Ill., is open for first-class companies, who can secure vacant dates by addressing Manager Eichberg as per card.

THE NATIONAL THEATRE, Washington, D. C., can be rented until Sept. 1 by applying to Miller & Jones as per advertisement.

SONGS, BURLESQUES, ETC., can be obtained of Wm. H. Watts, who advertises.

LOU WORTHINGTON and pupil, Master Quigley, formerly of Irving, gave two exhibitions on the high rope at Columbus, Ky., July 5. This was the longest and best walk the boy had ever undertaken, and proves that he has sufficient nerve to make his success assured. Rings and trapeze had been ended from the rope, and on these Worthington the assistance of Quigley, gave a very creditable rmance.

HART'S LAST SENSATION appeared at the Opera-e, Columbus, O., July 2, 3, 5, to fair business. om that point they take wagons, showing in Westville July 12, Delaware 13, Galion 14, Marion 15.

FOREIGN SHOW NEWS.

DRAMATIC.

OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT writes from London, Eng., under date of June 29, as follows:

The Royal Strand Theatre, notwithstanding the lateness of the season, is still having full houses every night, to witness Henry J. Byron's great comedy, "Weak Woman." For originality and brilliancy of language, Mr. Byron is head, neck and shoulders above all the other dramatic writers in England; and "Weak Woman" is one of his best. And a better company than the Strand to represent all the characters could not be found in London. The plot of the comedy is good, but that is not the particularly prominent feature of the play. From all parts of the house compliments are being constantly paid to the clever, sensible, practical, "horse" sense, and the unflagging brilliancy of the conversation. A rich old uncle, who had no confidence in the judgment of weak women, left a portion of his property to his two nieces, Helen and Lilian Gaythorne; the bulk of the property to Helen, and a mere pittance to Lilian! The facts of the will he made known only to the girls. It contained one item which was to remain sealed and unknown to the public until the day when both of the girls should become married. That fact was the secret of the girl who should receive the bulk of the property. Under these circumstances, the girls, both beautiful and brilliant, were sought after by all the fashionable single men, old and young, in Devonshire. One worthy young fellow, a gentleman farmer, became the love of Lilian, but the fact is kept secret from the public. Among the men who are anxious to marry the lucky girl who is to have the property (but don't know which to propose to) are two fops, entirely unlike, excepting their love for money and dress. Septimus Tostal belongs to the rural aristocracy, and imagines that his fine clothes, his fashionable manners and his oppressive respectability are irresistible among the softer sex. Captain Ginger is what they would all in California call a "dead beat." He is a debt to everybody, and is constantly annoyed by creditors. In gift of gab he is monarch of all he surveys, and his speeches abound in brilliant flashes of wit and odd eccentricity, with occasional flashes of Josh Billings's sharp, terse philosophy. Fred Fanshawe, "a distant relative" is sent for by the sisters to act as bailiff or overseer of their estate. He had been remembered by the uncle in his will, by being "set off with a shilling" for his wayward habits. He goes to work for the girls, and is insulted by everybody that calls Gaythorne Hall. As he possesses a clear, vigorous brain, is of spotless integrity, and has seen a good deal of the world, it gives the author a fine opportunity to "bring down the house" with occasional hard commonsense and cutting sarcasm. Fred is suspected of loving Lillian, while, in fact, he is secretly attached to Helen; but, being poor, he is too honorable to make his love known. Helen is strongly attached to Fred, but believes him to be in love with Lillian. During this complicated state of affairs the old family physician presents Fred with a sealed package, which proves to be a subsequent will of the rich old uncle, who repents his former injustice and leaves everything to Fred. Without making known the character of the paper, he now declares his love to Helen, who, with the peculiar blindness of "weak woman," misunderstands him, insults him, and discharges him from his lucrative position, without a moment's warning. Through the aid of this kind old physician, who learns the existing state of affairs, Fred is reinstated, harmony secured, and the marriage of both girls finally effected; but the constantly annoying and ludicrous interference of the weak brained, inoffensive fop, Septimus Tostal, and the self-conceited, arrogant and impecunious Capt. Ginger, keep everybody in a roar of laughter, without in the least injuring the development of the plot. The performance of this piece requires in time just two hours; and if our daily arriving Americans wish to see one of London's best stock companies present one of the best modern comedies, they should devote the first spare evening to the Strand Theatre Royal..... The Surrey Theatre and Woolwich Gardens are both under the management of W. Holland, famously known as "the people's caterer." Mr. Holland is demonstrating in some respects the American theory of large audiences and small profits, or a nimble sixpence is better than a slow shilling. Tickets of admission to Woolwich Gardens are invariably but sixpence (twelve cents), and the attractive holders to visit the vocal and instrumental concerts, the opera, theatre and fireworks. This seems, at first glance, to be hard sledding for the manager; but when we remember that he averages from eight to ten thousand patrons daily, we see at once where the laugh comes in. With all Mr. Holland's remarkable business talent, we are surprised that he does not see that it would be money in his pocket to give away his programmes as they are given away at the Gaiety Theatre and by Moore & Burgess), instead of selling them. In the former case he would nightly secure from ten to fifteen dollars' worth of advertising; in the latter he gets about three dollars in cash, and half that amount in complaints. The Surrey Theatre has been occupied for the past two weeks by Matthews Brothers Christy Minstrels. Through the great skill of Mr. Holland as advertiser and outside manager, the company has drawn good houses; but the performances are as unlike the original Christy's, as a Quaker prayer-meeting is unlike a Venetian Carnival. The songs introduced in the first part are excellent compositions, and great effort is made to render them with fine taste and dramatic effect, but the harmony is wanting. In a noisy, comic chorus, the ear cheerfully forgives an occasional discord, but one or two flat voices in a sextet is certain death to a plaintive ballad. The gags introduced were all chaste and venerable, but the dialects of the narrators no more resemble that of a negro than that of an Italian brigand. It is a most singular fact that I have never yet seen an Englishman—unless he had traveled in the United States—who could imitate the ludicrous, bubbling, fun-brewing dialect of a plantation darky! In point of respectability, the Mathews Brothers are faultless; in fact, the line is drawn so tight that it squeaks like negro. The skate dance, by a young Englishman, known on the bills as the Yankee Clipper Boy, was performed with great skill, and well deserved the encore it received. The burlesque prima donna by C. Sylvester was rendered with much taste, and proved the young man to possess unusual dramatic abilities, and a voice well calculated for burlesque. The company remains one more week at the Surrey, and then appears July 5 at Leicester for two weeks, and from there goes to Sheffield. After the death of the old Christy Company, Mr. Raynor had departed for America, the Mathews Brothers announced themselves as Christy's Colored Comedians, and they soon acquired a reputation as the "Mathews Bridge. T. e connection is supposed to be laid about two weeks hence, by H. R. H. Prince of Wales. The design is French-Italian. This building is to be profusely ornamented outside and in, by the finest display of sculpture of any building in London. It will cover a grand area of 100 feet in front, by 200 feet in depth .....Mr. Buckstone took his annual benefit at the Haymarket on the 26th inst., to an immense house. The old gent wears like the finest of gold. Every wink of his eye, curl of his lip and twist of his nose indicates the most genial quality of Christian humor. He is good in everything except Asa Trenchard! That round, rollicking English tongue of his can no more turn the sharp angles of Yankee dialect, than a statue of Hercules can turn a flip-flap backwards on a slack rope. Many will condemn me for saying this, but 'twill be because they don't know..... The Criterion Theatre—A. T. Patron, manager—is occupied by a French company, now running "Giroffe-Giroffa" in the French language..... Arthur Chenery, manager and proprietor of the Globe Theatre in Boston, reached London last week, and is picking up the best talent which a well-filled purse can secure, for a big sensation at the 'Hub' next season.....The Charing-cross Theatre is in the full tide of success under the auspices of the bewitching burlesque actress Miss Kate Santley and her well-appointed assistants. The original engagement of this company expires to-morrow, but a re-engagement for another month commences on the following day. Burlesque is now all the rage in England, and the demand for female loveliness puts old Albion to her trumps. There is a great variety of styles of beauty represented on the stage. There is the freezing, the dignified, the dramatic, the coldly-classic, and the playful, mischievous, bewitching and voluptuous. Miss Kate Santley possesses the four last-mentioned peculiarities to a greater degree than any other person I have ever seen. With a mouth of exquisite sweetness, a pair of eyes which constantly dance and sparkle with fun, she sports a head, neck, shoulders and bust of such exquisite model as would excite poetic sensations in a block of porphyry. She is now the reigning star at the Charing cross in the comic opera entitled "Galatria," words by Reece, music by Fred Clay. It is the best of all the burlesques that have seen in England. The words are seldom tame, and quite frequently sharp and witty. The music is of a superior quality, and abounds in some of the finest harmony and dramatic effects of all compositions now before the public. A prominent feature, as with all burlesques of the present day, is "poetic beauty," consisting of beautiful faces, beautiful legs, beautiful busts and beautiful attitudes; and although the company is one of the finest ever organized in the country, the number sparkles like a diamond above them all.....Thos. W. Charles, acting manager, commences a provincial tour with this company July 26, with Lecocq's opera bouffe, "Fresco, Gervais;" in which he pays the author forty pounds per week ($200) for the privilege of presenting it to the rural inhabitants. .....Joseph K. Emmet commences a week's engagement at the Surrey Theatre, July 5. The reputation which has preceded him, with the skill of W. Holland the manager as advertiser, is sure to give him a large opening audience.

OUR LONDON, ENG., ADVICES are up to June 27. The Haymarket closed for the regular season, June 26. A Summer season was to be inaugurated on June 28, with Charles Wyndham in "Brighton," supported by the chief members of the St. James company, and the Misses Edith Challis and Pauline Markham, the latter making her first appearance since her return from America. She also performed in the closing burlesque entitled "The Zoo." .....Round the World," in consequence of its success, was to be continued at the Princess' Theatre.....At the Lyceum, Henry Irving was to act Hamlet for the two hundredth and last time on June 29. "Charles I" was to be revived 30, and "Richelieu" was to be given on the evening of July 2 and matinee 3, for the benefit of Henry Irving, when the season would close..... At the Globe the Lydia Thompson troupe was to have closed the season on July 3, Miss Thompson acting on the 2d, for her benefit, the character of Meg in "Meg's Diversion," in addition to "Blue Beard."

CHARLES MATHEWS goes to Calcutta in November next, to fulfill a three months' engagement in India.

MISS LYDIA DORE will pass the Summer at Scarborough, Eng., and while there will perform in a new piece by C. M. Rae, in which Lytton Sothern will also appear.

JOHN S. CLARKE is to fulfill an engagement next season at the Haymarket Theatre, London, Eng., which will open with Mr. Sothern as the star in a new piece to be written, it is said, by Dr. Westland Marston.

BARRY SULLIVAN is to be shortly entertained at a banquet at the Alexandra Palace, at which Lord Dunraven will preside. Mr. Sullivan is to be presented with an illuminated, complimentary address signed by many men distinguished in literature and art.

THE PARIS PAPERS announce that a new comedy in three acts, called "Leila," founded on George Sand's novel, and written by Mr. Bouicicault and M. de Najac, is being rehearsed at the Paris Gymnase.

THE SEASON closed at the Theatre Royal, Kingston, Jamaica, on June 5. The closing piece was "East Lynne," with "The Elfin Star," Miss Effie Johns, as Lady Isabel. Manager Holland has leased Freemason's Hall, which will be known hereafter as the Oxford, and, in addition to the dramatic company at the Theatre Royal, will have a first-class varieties at the Oxford.

MUSICAL.

THE FIRST PRODUCTION of Verdi's "Requiem" at the Vienna Opera-house has been a great success. The house was full, and the composer was received with stormy applause, such as had never been witnessed in the Opera-house since its opening. At the end of the performance the director of the Opera-house presented Signor Verdi with a laurel wreath.

MLLE. MARGUERITE CHAPUY, who made her debut at Drury-lane, Lodon, Eng., June 22, singing Violetta in "La Traviata," achieved an enormous success.

MUSICAL NOTES.—Miss Blanche Cole and Sims Reeves are to sing in ballad-operas at the Crystal Palace, London, the second week in July.....Mr. Carl Rosa has left Milan for Vienna, artist-hunting for English operatic purposes.....Carlotta Patti, Formes, and Sivori have gone to Vienna to give concerts.....M. Charles Lecocq has had to pay 10,000 francs for delaying the first performance of "Les Free St. Gervais," at the Paris Varietes.....The Italian papers give the news (which requires confirmation) that M. Gounod has finished the opera, "Francesca de Rimini," to Sardou's libretto, which he commenced in London.

NEGRO MINSTRELSY.

BOOKER, CAMFIELD AND BOOKER were to have made their first appearance with Moore & Burgess' Minstrels, London, Eng., July 3.

MISCELLANEOUS.

VENEZUELA, S. A., NEWS.—Prof. Morey, magician, opened the Caracas Theatre, Venezuela, June 24, and performed Thursdays and Sundays until further notice. His route is Victoria, Valencia, Barquisemento, Trujillo, Merida, Maracaibo, and Puerto Cabello..... Willis and Phillicon, magicians, jugglers, etc., left Caracas for Martinique in the latter part of June..... The learned pig Pompey, and Mr. Richards, man-fish, left Puerto Cabello for Martinique June 14.

AMUSEMENTS ON THE ISTHMUS OF PANAMA.—Our own correspondent writes from Colon, N. G., under date of July 2 as follows: "Events on the Isthmus, for some time quiet, have at one jump made all aglow. Panama is just now having more than it can do justice to. Courtney's Circus and Senor Jose Valero's Dramatic Troupe both opened June 30, the circus to a poor house, and the Spanish company to a fair audience. Courtney's company, though numerous, is weak. It includes Miss Josephine Sweet, bareback rider, who is the star; Mme. Sweet, Lorima Belmon and child, Augustina Watri, Matilda Duval etc., and Messrs. Franklin and Kline, Lillie and Ali Bensaid, Lelton, Belmont, Richard Bell, Victor Laiscelle, G. Watson, Monteverde, Sterling (clown) and Geo. Courtney. Of the Spanish company, Mr. and Mrs. Valero, principals, manage to masticate their language to the satisfaction of the few who patronize them.....J. W. Foster passed through here July 2d en route for the United states to reorganize, and is announced to return on or about Aug. 25. He had with him his celebrated trained ourang-outang "Per Se."..... Courtney's Circus is billed here (Colon) for July 4, leaving July 6 for St. Thomas, W. I., thence via Havana to Vera Cruz and Mexico. Mrs. Belmont and Mr. Franklyn are slightly indisposed. The rest of the company are enjoying the best of health and spirits."

CARL ROSA has engaged Mlle. Ostava Torriani to sing in English opera.

JULIUS SCHUBERTH, the head of the great music-publishing firm of Schuberth & Co., Leipsic, died on June 9.

SIGNOR TAMBERLIK lost all of his luggage during its transit from Madrid to Paris, by the fire of the docks of Marseilles. All his costumes, a whole collection of ancient objects bought in Spain, the crowns in gold and silver which the public and municipalities of the principal towns where he had sung had given him, everything has been destroyed. He values the loss at £6,000.

FOR THE COVENT GARDEN promenade concerts, London, Eng., the arrangements are now in full progress. Signor Arditi will be the conductor in ordinary, assisted on certain classical evenings by Sir Julius Benedict, and, in October, for the lighter music, by Herr Gungl, the celebrated composer of dance-music. To open the season Herr Wilhelmj the violinist has been engaged for one month, Herr De Schwert the violoncellist for three and a half weeks, and Mlle. Bianchi the vocalist for a more lengthened period; while, on the departure of Herr Wilhelmj, his place will be taken by Mlle. Norman Neruda.

MME. DE RESZKE recently made a successful debut at the Grand Opera-house, Paris. She is thus spoken of:

A new Ophelia has appeared here in the person of Mlle. de Reszke, a young singer from the North. She is rather attractive, blonde, and without being beautiful, has an expression so sweet and enticing that she at once wins the sympathies of those who approach her. She is above the middle height, and stoutly formed. There is some daring in her debut on the stage of the French opera, as she is only twenty years of age. Josephine de Reszke is a Pole, her family being one of the foremost in Warsaw. Mlle. de Reszke has never sung elsewhere in Russia than in the hall of the Conservatoire, and then only for the benefit of the poor. On her first appearance on Monday night she was evidently much intimidated, nor did she entirely recover her self-possession during the whole performance. She possesses a pure and brilliant soprano of great power and range, admirably trained for grand opera. She sings well, with perfect ease and command over her vocal organ, and her future success is on became evident. She was loudly applauded in the third act, after the trio, which was given with excellent effect by her, Capoul and Mme. Guymard. The duet in the first act and her air in the second were also extremely well rendered by her. In the mad scene she was inspired.

A later account says:

On Thursday, when she made her second appearance in the part of Ophelia, her nervousness had worn off and she was quite herself again. On the evening of the lady's debut (Monday), she gave a grand supper, at which were present her mo her, Mlle. de Reszke, Mlle. Sangalli, the queen of the ballet, Mlle. Sophie Croizette, Mlle. de Reszke, the lady's brother, and several well known musicians and amateurs. The young vocalist has lofty aspirations, for her next part is to be that of Valentine in "Les Huguenots."

Continued from Page 123.

find out any soft spot in either of his opponents, and the tactics proved successful, for at the end of the first mile, run in 1:48½, when he led six lengths under the string, Miss Woodford second, Lady Emden third and Bonnie Bell Bay Final kept up his strong pace until entering the last quarter, where he was fully fifty or sixty yards ahead, when Capt. Jack, who had been waiting for a chance, closed to hold up, and he cantered home the easiest of winners by twenty lengths; Misdeal beaten off. Time, 3:42½.

WINNERS OF THE SEQUEL STAKES.

Winners.	Age.	Sire.	Sub. Str's.	Time.
1871—Babcock's Nellie Ransom.	Jack Malone...	27	5	3:40¾
1872—Belmont's Wade Hampton.	Asteroid	24	5	3:53¾
1873—Chamberlin's Survivor.....	Vandal.....	14	7	3:47¾
1874—Litzel's Reform.....	Leamington...	21	8	3:37¾
1875—Sanford's Fellowcraft.....	Lexington.....	18	3	3:42¼

THE LONG BRANCH STEEPLECHASE—a handicap for all ages, about three miles, for a purse of $1,000, of which $400 was to the second and $200 to the third horse—had four runners: Donahue's Deadhead, 6yrs., 148lb; Cattanach's Meteor, 6yrs., 145lb; Taylor's Minnie Mac, 5yrs., 130lb; and Fawn's Wizard, 5yrs., 140lb. Deadhead sold for $400, Meteor $185, Minnie Mac $115 and Wizard $45. Wizard as usual bolted, and was soon out of the race; but one of the finest contests ever witnessed ensued between the first and second. Minnie Mac, the latter making her debut, ran a most promising one, as a jumper, her roaring infirmity disqualifying her from running successfully over the flat. All the horses took the jumps in splendid and safe style; the fine manner in which Minnie Mac cleared her fences exciting general surprise and admiration. She was the second when they entered the homestretch, and she took the last hurdle simultaneously with her stable companion Meteor, with whom it was intended to win. But Deadhead came with a powerful rush opposite the stand, and after a brilliant finish beat Minnie Mac by a short head in 6:28.

WINNERS OF THE LONG BRANCH STEEPLECHASE.

Winners.	Age.	Sire.	Weight.	Sta. Time.
1873. Bannatyne's Duffy.	Hunter's Lexington	184	3	7:26
1874. Donohue's George West.....	5 Asteroid....	150	4	8:02
1875. Donohue's Dead Heat.....	4 Julius.....	148	4	*6:28

* New course.

COLUMBUS, O., DRIVING PARK ASSOCIATION MEETING.

THIRD DAY—JULY 3.

There was a large attendance to witness the third day's sport, notwithstanding the fact that rain fell heavily just prior to the time announced for the first race. The first event on the programme was a running race, mile heats, three in five, for a purse of $700, divided into three premiums—$400, $200 and $100. Following were the entries: M. Jordan & Co.'s b. c. O'Neil, D. J. Crouse's b. c. Ad, T. G. Bacon's br. g. Granger, Williams & Owing's b. c. Worcester, and S. B. Long's b. g. Visigoth. Ad was the favorite in the betting. Visigoth won the first heat handily in 1:45, but was discovered to be limping badly when brought to a walk by his rider, and his owner decided to withdraw him. Ad, who ran second in the first heat, took the second in 1:47, with Granger. O'Neil and Worcester following in the order named. The third heat was a magnificent struggle between Worcester and Ad, they running neck-and-neck from the half mile-pole, the latter winning by a nose in 1:46, Worcester taking second money, and Granger third.

The hurdle race—two-miles, eight hurdles, $800, $400 and $300—was next on the programme. For this event there had been five entries, but Bob Britton's being withdrawn left the field to D. M. Welch's b. g. Capt. Hutchinson, T. D Long's b. g. Storm, R. Scott's b. m. Lady Greenfield, and F. V. Minor's b. g. Capt. Jack. Capt. Hutchinson was the favorite in the betting, Storm and Ad second choice, and before the start offers of six and even seven to one on Hutchinson went begging. The horses got off well together, with Lady Greenfield slightly in the rear, Capt. Jack, Hutchinson and Storm taking the first hurdle almost simultaneously; but before the second hurdle was reached Capt. Hutchinson, who got out the running, had opened a gap of six lengths between himself and Capt. Jack, who was fighting nobly with Storm for second position, Lady Greenfield bringing up the rear. In this position the horses passed under the string for the second time, and the only change that occurred before the finish was Capt. Jack falling back to third, and giving Storm second position, Lady Greenfield coming in a respectable fourth, which in the best on record for a two-mile hurdle race (weights up), is the more remarkable because Hutchinson was not pushed at any point in the race, and could undoubtedly have come in several seconds better had he been urged. Time, 3:50.

Next came a trot for 2:45 horses, mile heats, three in five, for a purse of $1,000, of which $500 went to first horse, $300 to second, and $200 to third. The books closed with five entries: C. H. Moore's b. m. Belle Moore, S. G. Larimore's c. g. Pilot Wash, R. Lindsley's b. g. Thornton, J. L. Grove & Co.'s Capt. Jack, and D. P. Shawhan's s. m. Phoebe C. Thornton sold as first choice. Phoebe C. had the best of the send-off by several yards, but was overreaching badly, Capt. Jack, who trotted very fast on the second quarter, and who took the lead and maintained it until nearing the homestretch, when he let his feet and passed under the string in the jump. Phoebe C. second, Belle Moore third, Thornton fourth, and Dr. Rush fifth. There was a grand kick at the conclusion of this heat, Capt. Jack's driver entering a claim of foul driving against Belle Moore's driver, claiming that the mare, who behaved badly all the way round, had been swung over in front of his horse, causing him to make the break which lost him the heat. The claim was not allowed, but the judges placed Belle Moore fifth for running, giving the heat to Phoebe C. and the second position to Capt. Jack. Belle Moore won the second heat, Phoebe C. second, after a splendid exhibition of her excellent running qualities. For the third heat drivers were changed behind Belle Moore and Capt. Jack, Phoebe C. went off with the lead, closely followed by Thornton. In this heat Belle Moore showed that she could trot, coming up from fourth position to the lead with a magnificent burst of speed, but going all to pieces at the three-quarter pole, and being passed by Phoebe C. and Thornton. There was another little squabble at the end of this heat, but the judges finally decided that it was Phoebe C.'s heat and race. Time, 2:30½, 2:30½, 2:36.

FOURTH DAY—JULY 5.

The largest crowd of the meeting assembled to witness the fourth and last day's races. The severe rain of Sunday had made the track heavy. A private match had been arranged by the owners of O'Neil and Storm for a single mile dash, and this event took place prior to the first race on the regular programme, O'Neil winning in 1:49¾. First on the card was a running race, two-mile heats, for a purse of $800; $500 to first, $200 second and $100 to third. The entries were as follows: Michael Welch's b. g. Captain Hutchinson (the winner of Saturday's hurdle-race), R. Scott's c. s. Kingpynne, S. D. Long's b. s. Primrose, G. Cadwallader's c. f. Hazem, T. G. Bacon's br. g. Granger, Ira Platner's b. m. Lottie Moon and Williams & Owing's c. c. Oxmore. Hazem sold as first and Captain Hutchinson as second choice. Hutchinson won the first heat, followed by Oxmore, Primrose, Hazem, Lottie Moon, Granger and Kingpynne, in the order named. Kingpynne was distanced in this heat, but his jockey attracted a deal of foul riding against Granger's jockey, and was allowed to take his place for the second heat. Holders of Hazem stock were now trying to shift the weight they were carrying, but found few opportunities. In the second heat Hutchinson traveled under a strong pull until the three-quarter poll in the second mile was reached, when he made his run, winning the heat and race by three lengths, Granger second and Hazem third. Time, 3:40, 3:44½.

The last race was a trot for 2:27 horses; premium $1,500 —$900 to first, $500 to second, and $300 to third. There were five entries, the following four coming to the score: R. Johnson's b. m. Lady Mac, C. H. Martin's d. g. Jerry Postal, C. H. Olmstead's b. g. Sam West, and R. Patterson, Jr.'s b. m. Belle Brandell. The latter was the favorite, Sam West selling as second choice. The favorite won the first heat, with Lady Mac second, Jerry Postal third, and Sam West fourth. Drivers were now changed behind Lady Mac and Belle Brandell came in an easy winner of the second than she had been of the first heat; Sam West second, Lady Mac third, and Postal, who appeared to be lapping badly, fourth. Six minutes was the time given for a running race, fourth. The third heat was won by Sam West, with Jerry Postal second, Brandell and Lady Mac following in the order named. This was the best-contested heat in the race. For the fourth heat Lady Mac had her original driver restored to her, but the best position she could get was fourth, Brandell winning the heat by three lengths, Jerry Postal second, Lady Mac third, and Sam West fourth, the latter horse taking second money, and Jerry Postal third. Time, 2:31, 2:32, 2:32, 2:32.

TROTTING AT PROSPECT PARK COURSE, L. I.—On Monday, July 5, a match for $1,500, between one two well-known pacing-horses, Copperbottom in harness and Comet under saddle, mile heats, three in five, attracted a small attendance to Prospect Park. Two-to-one odds were daily appointed to the Comet colt lame in the first heat, and was withdrawn before the second heat. Copperbottom won the heat and race in 2:28. Sammis's b. m. Bell Ray to wagon and R. Williams' blk. g. Major Pulse, in harness, was won by the former in five heats; Major Pulse winning the second and making a dead heat of the third. Time, 2:45½, 2:48½, 2:44, 2:45½, 2:44.

SALE OF DONCASTER.—After Doncaster, the Derby winner of 1873, had carried off the Ascot Cup and Alexandra Plate at the recent meeting, Mr. Merry sold him to his trainer, Robt. Peck, for 10,000 guineas, and he three days afterwards leased him as a stallion to the Cobham Stud Company for three years for 3,000 guineas a year, the company insuring the horse's life for £30,000. This agreement, however, has not been carried out, and, the transaction having fallen through, Mr. Peck has sold the horse to the Duke of Westminster for 15,000 guineas, being the highest price ever before paid for a racehorse. Blair Athol, the double winner of the Derby and St. Leger, brought 12,000 guineas at the sale of the late Mr. Blenkiron's stud; £12,000 was paid by the Marquis of Hastings for the imposter Kangaroo, and Hobbie Noble was sold by Lord John Scott to Mr. Merry when a two year-old for £6,300. The Duke of Westminster, Doncaster's new owner, intends to turn the Eaton Park, near Chester, where he contemplates forming a breeding establishment of thoroughbreds, and where for so many years the celebrated racer and sire Touchstone stood.

TROTTING AT FLEETWOOD PARK.—On Tuesday, July 6, two trots came off at Fleetwood Park. The first was for a purse of $100, for horses that had never beaten 2:42, and was won by G. Horner's b. g. Emperor in three straight heats, beating Melissa (second), Kate S. (third), Tommy Moore, Jim, Genuine and Uncle Joe; the two last-named distanced in the second heat. Time, 2:39½, 2:41½, 2:42. The second trot was a sweepstakes, mile and $300, between J. Lee's br. g. Fly; R. Marley's br. m. Miss Drew, and J. Murphy's b. g. Pat. The latter won the first and second heats in 2:37, 2:38; Miss Drew the third and fifth heats in 2:35, 2:34½, and Fly the fourth, sixth, and seventh heats and the race in 2:35½, 2:35½, 2:36½. On Friday, July 9, a match for $300 was trotted between J. L. Doty's s. g. Brook's Day and J. Brown's b. g. Hard Road; the former winning in four heats; Hard Road taking the first. Time, 2:44½, 2:41¾, 2:39, 2:40. A match for $300, between W. Hanson's br. m. Miss Drew, in harness, and J. Dixon's b. g. Panic, to wagon, was won by the former in 2:40¾, distancing Panic in the first heat. A second match for $100 between

TERMS.

Single copy, 10 cents. Per annum, $5.00 in advance, including postage to any part of the United States. Foreign postage extra.

To clubs of four or more, a deduction of 50 cents is made on each yearly subscription.

Advertisements under the head of Amusements, 15 cents per line for each insertion.

Miscellaneous and Sporting advertisements, 20 cents per line for each insertion.

Extracts from other papers incorporated in news department 30 cents per line.

Advertisements to be paid for at the time of insertion, and liberal discount made when paid for three months or longer in advance.

FRANK QUEEN, Editor and Proprietor,
CLIPPER BUILDING, Centre and Leonard streets, N. Y.

AMUSEMENTS.

CLIPPER ALMANAC
FOR 1875.
NEWSDEALERS AND AGENTS
SUPPLIED BY OUR WHOLESALE AGENTS.
THE AMERICAN NEWS COMPANY,
117 to 121 Nassau street, New York.
SENT BY MAIL ON RECEIPT OF PRICE, 15 CENTS.
P. O. BOX 3,980.
FRANK QUEEN, Publisher,
68 AND 70 CENTRE ST., NEW YORK.

FRANK A. GIBBONS,
THE AERIAL KING,
in his daring act called
THE AVALANCHE, OR SLIDE FOR LIFE, an act that will astonish the world, can be engaged.
Address as above, care of 16-1t* COL. T. ALLSTON BROWN.

MONS. ZAVISTOWSKI, THE
BALLET MASTER, is at liberty to accept engagements for the next season. Can furnish two premieres if required.
Address SIMMONDS & WALL, Dramatic Agents, or Sufferns, Rockland County, N. Y. 16-1t*

DAN S. GERRY.—YOUR LETTER was misspent, and arrived too late. I will meet you in Providence, R. I., Aug. 1, with from 25 to 50, and make satisfactory arrangements for remainder. If satisfactory, write at once. [16-1t*] GUS WALLACE.

THOS. H. DEWITT,
LEADER OF ORCHESTRA, AND ALTO HORN IN BRASS,
WILL BE AT LIBERTY AUG. 15.
Address ALLEN'S THEATRE, Jamestown. 16-2t*

MISS MINNIE JACKSON is now at liberty to negotiate with managers for the Fall and Winter season of 1875 and 1876, for JUVENILES or SINGING SOUBRETTES. Managers, please address 31 St. Mark's place, 5th street, or
SIMMONDS & WALL,
16-1t* 10 Union square, N. Y.

FOR SALE CHEAP,
"MAKING A MATCH," a comedy in 5 acts and 5 scenes.
Address FRED H. CAMERON, Owego, N. Y. 16-4t*

TO LADY STARS.—NOW ready, the highly-sensational Protean drama, "Chip o' the Block." For petite lady star. Address SPENCER PRITCHARD, 804 Buttonwood street, Philadelphia, Pa. 16-1t*

TO TRAVELING MANAGERS.
A sensational star of acknowledged reputation will arrange to travel the coming season on share or certainty. Fine variety of original pictorial printing. Press notices from New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Cincinnati, and every principal city throughout the United States; also Montreal and Toronto. Address SPENCER PRITCHARD, 804 Buttonwood street, Philadelphia, Pa. 16-1t*

CARD.—INASMUCH AS A REPORT to the effect that the funeral expenses of our late brother Neise Seymour were defrayed by private individuals has been for some time in circulation, and seems to have gained credence, and as such a report is circulated to injure the reputation for charity of Amity Lodge No. 323, F. & A. M., as well as that of New York Lodge No. 1 of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, the undersigned, Secretary of New York Lodge No. 1, B. P. O. E., has been directed to give public notice of the amount of said funeral expenses, and the manner of payment, as follows:

Total amount of expense involved.....	$398 90
Amount defrayed by Amity Lodge, F. & A. M.....	175 00
Amount defrayed by New York Lodge, B. P. O. E..	223 90

R. S. MARTIN,
Secretary New York Lodge No. 1, B. P. O. E.
July 8, 1875. 16-1t

MISS JOHANNA PRITCHARD is prepared to arrange with MANAGERS OF ESTABLISHED THEATRES
AS FIRST ECCENTRIC AND HEAVY.
Handsome Wardrobe. Last stock engagement, Conway's Park Theatre, Brooklyn. Address 402 South Fifth street, Brooklyn, E. D. 16-1t*

A FIRST-CLASS E FLAT
CORNET PLAYER AND LEADER OF BRASS BAND, who has been on the road as leader with some of the best parties in both Circuses and Theatrical Business, desires to locate permanently. Is an American by birth; sober and reliable. Would teach two or three bands, if required.
[16-1t*] Address X. Y., care of CLIPPER.

NEW MUSIC—"SINCE TERRY
Joined the Gang," "The Belle of Rockaway," "Mulcahy's Home Again," and 500 others, at Influente. Harding's Office, 239 Bowery, opposite Prince st. Send stamp for catalogue. [1t

E. A. VOOS,
Leader of Orchestra, living in Chicago, applied to the undersigned for engagement for coming season. Was accepted, terms fixed, and also accepted by him.
At the eleventh hour this reliable individual writes he CANNOT COME AS HE IS OFFERED FIVE DOLLARS MORE BY OTHER PARTIES.
16-1t KERNAN BROS.

FOR RENT.
FOR RENT,
TINSLEY HALL,
to NEGRO MINSTREL
or DRAMATIC TROUPES,
DURING WEEK OF EMINENCE, KY., FAIR,
COMMENCING AUG. 10, 1875.
16-1t* Address R. L. TINSLEY & SON.

FRANK FRAYNE,
AMERICA'S FIRST RIFLEMAN, is now open for engagements at any First-class Variety Show, or in his original play of SI SLOCUM,
at any Theatre in the States. For engagements address
A. B. GARDNER,
16-1t* 506 South 8th street, Philadelphia.

MR. F. CHIPPENDALE,
THE FIRST OLD MAN.
Disengaged for Fall and Winter season. Address
16-1t* Academy of Music, St. John, New Brunswick.

AGENTS.—New guide to every hall in the U. S., Canada, America and Europe, giving every detail of importance to managers and agents as to size, rent, routes, etc., also a correct list of all fairs to be held in the United States, and the time of holding them, population of every town over 5,000 inhabitants, and other information and instructions not found in any similar work, and an appendix giving all the new halls for 1875-6, and halls in course of erection. Leather-bound; price reduced to only $1.50, by mail, postage paid. LIPPINCOT & BROWN, 16-1t* 31 N. Ninth street, Philadelphia, Pa.

THE COLEMAN SISTERS, in their dramatic and musical specialties, having just closed a season of three months in New England States—where the press and public have been lavish in their praise, bestowing the most complimentary criticisms and notices upon their performance—have secured new and attractive dramatic and musical specialties, and are prepared to arrange engagements for the coming season.
Address J. A. COLEMAN,
16-1t* Carlisle, Pa.

NEW ISSUES.
DE WITT'S
ETHIOPIAN AND COMIC DRAMA.
PRICE FIFTEEN CENTS EACH.

1. SIAMESE TWINS. A Negro Burlesque Sketch, in two scenes; arranged by Charles White. Five male characters. One of the richest in fun of all going. Costumes, Irish, Darky, and one grotesque. Scenery, a street and a chamber. Time in representation, twenty-five minutes.
2. WANTED, A NURSE. A laughable Sketch, in one scene; arranged by Charles White. Four male characters. All the characters first-rate. Costumes, modern, extravagant; one Dutch dress. Scenery, a plain kitchen. Time in representation, twenty minutes.
3. A BIG MISTAKE. A Negro Sketch, in one scene, by A. J. Leavitt. Four male characters. Full of most absurdly funny incidents. Costumes, modern; one gentleman's uniform. Scenery, a plain chamber. Time in representation, eighteen minutes.
4. CREMATION. An Ethiopian Sketch, in two scenes, by A. J. Leavitt. Eight male, one female characters. Full of broad, palpable hits at the last sensation. Costumes, modern, some eccentric. Scenery, a street and a plain chamber. Time in representation, twenty-five minutes.
5. BAD WHISKY. A comic Irish Sketch in one scene, by Sam Rickey and Master Barney. Two male, one female characters. One of the very best of its class. Extravagant low Irish dress and a policeman's uniform.
6. BABY ELEPHANT. A Negro Sketch in two scenes. By J. G. Stewart. Seven male, one female characters. Uproariously comic in idea and execution. Costumes, modern. Scenery, one street, one chamber. Time in representation, twenty-five minutes.
64. THE MUSICAL SERVANT. An Ethiopian Sketch in one scene, by Phil. H. Mowrey. Taree male characters. Very original and very droll. Costumes, modern and low darky. Scenery, a plain chamber. Time in representation, fifteen minutes.

 Nothing is omitted in this (DE WITT'S) edition which can facilitate the proper production of these pieces, as to scenery, costumes, etc., etc.

 When ordering, designate the number, and be sure to ask for DE WITT'S edition.

N. B.—Sent, post-paid, to any part of the Union, or Canadas, on receipt of price, by ROBERT M. DE WITT, Publisher,
16-2t 33 Rose street, New York.

"WE HAVE A STYLE THAT'S ALL OUR OWN!"
KELLY & DEMPSEY,
Fancy and Genteel
DOUBLE SONG-AND-DANCE ARTISTS, also the road AUGUST 2.
FIRST OPEN DATE SEPTEMBER 6.
Responsible Managers only address
JNO. H. DEMPSEY, 520½ West Seventh St.,
Cincinnati, Ohio.

EDWARD G. PACKARD,
JUVENILE AND LIGHT COMEDY,
to negotiate for the season of 1875-6. Address
Butler Centre, Wayne Co., N. Y.

TED.—PERFORMERS, ALL KINDS—chased "Old Yankee" Robinson's interest in odern Show, propose to reorganize immedi- ress by mail or telegraph. MAJ. DYKE, on. 16-1t*

MO, INDIANA,
OPERA-HOUSE
or will play combinations on shares.
SEATING CAPACITY, 900.
Well stocked with scenery. Large stage and convenient dressing-rooms. Brilliantly lighted with gas, and furnished with everything to make it first-class.
For terms, dates, etc., address
H. H. WINSLOW, Manager.
House licensed. 15-7t*

WANTED,
AT OLYMPIC THEATRE,
JOPLIN, MO.
TWO GOOD SONG-AND-DANCE WOMEN.
Address, with terms, U. L. C. BEARD,
Proprietor and Manager.
13-3t* West Joplin, Mo.

FOR SALE, NEWLY-IMPORTED THEATRICAL SCENERY, rear-part, 3 side curtains and large curtain (all of them can be wound up), 22 feet high, 24 feet long, interior space 16 feet square, all richly gilded and painted by the celebrated European painter, Prof. C. Falk, in Berlin. The whole representing a Persian architectonic hall with landscape. Address
15-2t* J. F. PALME, care of CLIPPER.

FOR SALE, AN ELECTRIC BATTERY, with 32 elements (Bunsen), 91b. about 300L. electric wire, hand regulator, bi-convex lense, hydrometer, quicksilver, nitric acid and carbon points. Address
15-2t* J. F. PALME, care of CLIPPER.

TO GYMNASTS.
C. M. HAWKINS, No. 118 E. 13th st., N. Y., maker of gymnastic apparatus, horizontal bars with steel centre, leaping bars of lacewood globes and dancing barrels, revolving pedestal for barrel, etc.
Send stamp for circular. 4-13t*

ARCH-STREET THEATRE,
PHILADELPHIA,
WILL BE FOR RENT
DURING THE MONTHS OF JUNE AND JULY, OR WILL PLAY COMBINATIONS ON SHARE.
For terms apply to MRS. JOHN DREW, Lessee
Arch-street Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa., or SIMMONDS & WALL, Dramatic Agents,
7-10t* 10 Union-square, New York City.

TO MANAGERS.
A young man desires an engagement with a traveling party as property man. Can play tuba in brass band.
THOMAS LAWLER,
15-2t* N. Chelmsford, Middlesex Co., Mass.

SHIRLEY SMITH
will be happy to hear from friends during season of 1875-6 at De Bar's Opera-house, Montreal, Canada, or St. Charles Theatre, New Orleans, La. 13-2t*

HAMILTON OPERA-HOUSE,
WHEELING, W. VA.
SEASON OF 1875 AND '76.
FIRST-CLASS DRAMATIC AND OPERA COMBINATIONS AND DRAMATIC STARS can now book in their time for the coming season at this beautiful place of amusement.
Stars filling engagements in Philadelphia, Baltimore, Pittsburg and Cleveland, and en route South or West, will find Wheeling in direct line. Stars, agents and business managers will address JAMES HAMILTON, Manager. 11-tf

VAUDEVILLE THEATRE,
LOUISVILLE, KY.
FOR RENT OR WOULD SELL.
Has stage, gallery, dressing, green, sitting and bar rooms. Seats a thousand. A good place to make money, being the only variety theatre, and located in Judah Block, four stories high, near the Custom-house, Third street. Possession can be had the latter part of August.
Apply to W. JUDAH,
14-4t* No. 386 Third street.

GRAND CENTRAL THEATRE, TROY, N. Y. This magnificent first-class theatre, now closed for the Summer season, can be rented by star combinations, concerts, etc., by the day or week, upon the most reasonable terms; fine stage, new scenery, seven dressing-rooms and all the modern improvements. For terms, etc., apply to A. R. PHELPS, Grand Central Theatre, Troy, N. Y. 9-13t*

DAN MORRIS,
IRISH AND DUTCH
COMEDIAN, VOCALIST, DANCER, AND MIMIC.
BARNEY,
THE GREAT GUIDE, can be engaged for the coming season by
RESPONSIBLE MANAGERS.
Address all letters to 672 EMERALD ST., COR. 37TH ST.,
14-4t Chicago, Ill.

NOTICE.—B. P. O. ELKS, NO. 2, OF PHILADELPHIA. Members wishing to communicate or remit can do so to the secretary, at Gilmore's Varieties, S. W. cor. 10th and Callowhill streets, Philadelphia, Pa. Examine CLIPPER Letter List.
14-4t W. S. FOX, Secy.

W. W. NICHOLS,
PRINCIPAL AND SCENE RIDER, with or without little son, can be engaged; also
H. F. NICHOLS, RINGMASTER.
14-4t* Address North Adams, Mass.

NEW MUSIC.—"MULCAHY'S GONE AWAY," the latest out, 10c. per copy. Send stamp for catalogue. HARDING, 239 Bowery, opposite Prince street, N. Y. 12-tf

ACADEMY OF MUSIC,
CHARLESTON, S. C.
All communications, of whatever nature, having refer nce to the above establishment should be addressed, until otherwise advised, to JOHN E. OWENS, 13-tf Towsontown, Md.

MOZART HALL, HOPKINSVILLE, KY., situated on St. Louis and Nashville Railroad, connections with Louisville, Memphis and Paducah.
HALL FURNITURE AND SCENERY NEW AND COMPLETE. To rent on reasonable terms, or on percentage of receipts. Population 6,000. Address
1-3t* N. L. BAKER, Agent.

WHO SPEAKS FIRST?
Variety and Negro Sketches, Burlesques, Farces, Acts, etc., also Sensational and Specialty Dramas, written by F. DAVEAU, 116 South First st., Brooklyn, E. D., N. Y. 15-3t*

SCHUERMAN'S OPERA-HOUSE, Griffin, Ga. On direct route from Macon to Atlanta. Lately built, and supplied with all modern improvements. Seating capacity of parquet and dress circle, 325; gallery, same number. Population of city, 5,000. Rent reasonable. For dates apply to A. SCHUERMAN, Proprietor. 12-14t*

PROFESSOR MOREY,
THE AMERICAN MAGICIAN, IS IN
VENEZUELA, S. A. 12-tf

THE ODEON,
JACKSONVILLE, ILL.
A new hall just finished, furnished with good stage and new scenery; seating capacity, 500. Will rent on reasonable terms. Address AGENT OF THE ODEON, 5-13t* P. O. Box 599.

PHOSA McALLISTER,
LEADING BUSINESS, NOW AT LIBERTY.
Address No. 2 North street, Portland, Me. 14-4t*

CITY HALL,
LEWISTON, MAINE.
This is a new hall, facing the Park, located on three streets, and is one of the best halls in New England. Will seat 1,000. Large and commodious stage, with all modern improvements and a full set of scenery. Brilliantly lighted with gas, and furnished with every convenience to make it first-class.
For dates and particulars address
8-26t* COMMITTEE ON CITY HALL, Lewiston, Me.

OPERA-HOUSE, ALBANY, N. Y., for rent, or will play first-class dramatic and variety combinations on shares during the months of May, June, July and August. Regular season to commence about September 1, 1875. All letters addressed J. W. ALBAUGH, care of Simmonds & Wall, 10 Union square, N. Y. 7-tf

FIRST-CLASS LADY SINGERS WANTED at the Grand Central Concert Saloon, No. 19 North Illinois street, Indianapolis, Indiana.
10-8t* B. & R. KERITING.

SARGENT'S ATHENÆUM,
COLUMBUS, OHIO.
For RENT from May 1, by night or week.
WILL BE RUN NEXT SEASON
as a combination theatre. Parties can either rent or play on shares with the undersigned.
The theatre is situated on the ground floor, in the centre of the city, and is thoroughly stocked with scenery. Properties, set stuff, carpets, furniture, calcium lights, etc.
12-tf H. J. SARGENT, Manager.

LEBANON VALLEY HOUSE, LEBANON, PA.
Complete arrangements for shows. Able to accomodate 150 people and horses. Lot centrally located. 400-feet billboards. Terms reasonable. E. M. BOLTZ, 6-13t* Proprietor.

THE CANTERBURY VARIETIES, 88 and 90 Commercial street, Buffalo, N. Y. GEO. HUMPHRIES, Sole Proprietor; BOB LANE, Stage-manager; THOS. J. OLDFIELD, Leader of Orchestra. First-class Variety Stars wanted, LADIES ESPECIALLY, at all times. Salaries must be low, as they are "sure."
Address as above. 1-26t*

FOR SALE, A LARGE IMPORTED FOUNTAIN (magic fountain), with water in different colors, 13ft. diam., 9 ray crowns, about 250 ray openings, 10 regulators, with all the necessary rubber hose, crystal basket with waterwork attached, double force pump and water reservoir etc. J. F. PALME, care CLIPPER. [15-2t*

WANTED.—A LEADER AND CONDUCTOR FOR A FIRST-CLASS BAND. Must play E-flat cornet or Clarionet. Also, a good Tuba player.
First-class musicians can do well here.
Address M. W. WILLIS,
13-5t* 332 Bush street, San Francisco, Cal.

LIFTING MACHINES AND LUNG TESTERS.—On hand, 6 No. 1 brass lifters, 6 No. 1 lung testers, and 2 iron No 3 lifters. I shall not manufacture any more this season. Striking machines to order. All warranted. Orders immediately. Address, with stamp for price-list, etc.,
13-6t* E. G. SMITH,
9 Merrells Court, Lowell, Mass.

NEW CANAAN, CT., OPERA-HOUSE. Capacity, 600. Stage, curtain, side-rooms, everything new. Exhibitions with moderate expenses make money. Eight miles by rail from Stamford. Price, $10 per night. Population, 3,000. 6-13t*

MAGICAL MANUFACTORY.—A variety of BRILLIANT ILLUSIONS always on hand. Also, our revised, ENLARGED WIZARD'S WONDERFUL CABINET, No. 3, chock full of wonders; six tricks, and instruction for fifteen others, with MAGICIAN'S OPENING and CONCLUDING SPEECHES. Free by mail for 30c. DAVENPORT ROPE TRICK, 7c. Inclose stamp for illustrated catalogue. W. J. JUDD, 131 Henry st., N. Y. 8-13t*

FOR RENT,
WOOD'S THEATRE, CINCINNATI, O.
MACAULEY'S THEATRE, LOUISVILLE, KY.
The above popular houses will be for rent by the night or week
DURING THE SUMMER SEASON.
VARIETY COMPANIES,
MINSTREL and other TROUPES can apply to JOHN HAY, Wood's Theatre, and WM. A. WARNER, Macauley's Theatre. 1-16t*

TO THE PROFESSION.
Prior to the opening of the Fall and Winter season, Hooley's Opera-house, Brooklyn, will be entirely remodeled, repainted and decorated, making it one of the most beautiful and cosy theatres in America. It is the design of the Management to make it a first-class Comedy Theatre. The season will begin on or about August 23. Ladies and gentlemen desiring engagements for a season of forty weeks, will please address, stating lowest terms.
CHARTLEY CAMPBELL,
Maguire's Opera-house, San Francisco.
After July 10 address care of SIMMONDS & WALL, No. 10 Union square, N. Y. 14-tf

SECOND-TRAVELING OR AMATEUR Scenery for sale. Inclose stamp for price and description to A. L. GAMBLE, 339 Union st., Brooklyn, L. I. 4-13t*

MUSICAL PROGRESS.
SEXTET JOURNAL,
FOR STRIKING BANDS.
THE EASIEST AND BEST JOURNAL
EVER PUBLISHED.
CONTAINS OPERATIC AND DANCE MUSIC
OF THE BEST COMPOSERS,
ARRANGED IN AN EASY AND EFFECTIVE MANNER.
Send 75c. for sample number to THEO. ROSENSTEIN,
384 Bowery, N. Y.
Piano parts to above may also be had. 15-4t*

WIGS! WIGS!
SCHMIDT & FOOTNER,
FROM BOW STREET, LONDON,
Theatrical wig, beard and moustache makers.
Character wigs from $4. 746 BROADWAY, N. Y.
8-13t* GOODS SENT C. O. D.

MISS BETTY REMMELSBERG,
THE BEAUTIFUL STAR PREMIERE DANSEUSE,
open for engagement next season. Address her sole agent,
COL. T. A. BROWN,
16-3t 9 West 4th street, New York.

RESPONSIBLE MANAGERS.
L. H. HUME, season of 1875-6, plays Second Violin and Solo Alto or E-flat. Address L. H. HUME, Lima, O.
GEO. A. FLORANCE with SUSAN DENIN, write me. [1*

FRANK DREW will return from his successful European tour about the middle of November, bringing with him a number of ORIGINAL DRAMAS AND BURLESQUES.
Applications for time addressed to SIMMONDS & WALL, 10 Union square, New York. 16-1t*

To Actors and Managers.
I am now prepared to negotiate for the production of my new 5-act Drama entitled CELINE THE ADOPTED DAUGHTER.
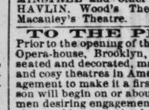
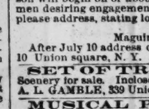
Summaries of the play are being prepared, which I will send upon application. Address all communications, until further notice, care of CLIPPER office.
BARON SHIRLEY.
The play is in MS., and fully copyrighted. 16-1t*



MUSIC OF THE DAY!
For ORCHESTRA,
Reed and Brass Bands.
SEND FOR CIRCULAR,
A. M. SCHACHT & CO.,
16-13t* 175 ALLENST., NEW YORK.



PEDANTO,
THE CELEBRATED AERONAUT AND AERIAL GYMNAST,
THE SENSATION OF THE AGE,
is at liberty to make arrangements for festivals, etc. Performs on single trapeze bar two miles high. In towns where there is no gas will manufacture hydrogen. A 9,000ft. balloon for sale.
Address EXCHANGE HOTEL,
16-1t* Binghamton, N. Y.

SEAVEY'S SCENIC STUDIO
ESTABLISHED 1865.
Theatrical scenery of every description. Halls and theatres refitted in latest style. Every stage requisite. New first-class Irish Panorama for sale. Address LAFAYETTE W. SEAVEY, 8 LAFAYETTE PLACE, N. Y. CITY. 16-13t

THEATRICAL WIGS,
The cheapest and best goods made. We supply the leading theatres. Make up boxes, 8 colors, 75c. Send stamp for price-list circular.
HELMER'S HUMAN HAIR HOUSE,
203 Sixth avenue,
16-1t* Near 24th street, New York.

BOSTON MUSEUM.

MANAGER, MR. R. M. FIELD.
Grand and Gigantic Opening.
ILLIMITABLE SUCCESS.
STANDING-ROOM ONLY IS THE CRY!
THE BOSTON PRESS
UNANIMOUS IN TONES OF PRAISE AND ENDORSEMENT.
THE CITY CRAZED WITH DELIGHT.
THE HIT AND TALK OF THE TOWN.
FOX REIGNS SUPREME.
EVERY EVENING
AT EIGHT O'CLOCK,
AMERICA'S MIMIC PRIME,
GEO. L. FOX
A CARNIVAL OF SPORT!
A MARVEL OF WONDERS WITH HIS UNEXCELLED
PANTOMIMIC
AND SENSATIONAL CORPS
OF EUROPEAN AND AMERICAN ARTISTS.

GEORGE H. TYLER	MANAGER
Business Manager	MR. H. E. PARKELEE
Musical Conductor	MONS. F. STREBINGER
Scenic Artist	MR. J. JOHNSON
Ticket Agent	MR. THOS. H. SHANNON
Assistant Property-maker	MR. FRANK FARRELL
Master Machinist	MR. ROBT. J. CUTLER
Prompter	MR. THOS. CHAPMAN
Maitre de Ballet and Superintendent de Costumes	MONS. A. GROSSI
Master of Transportation	MR. CHAS. THORN
Programme Agent	MR. WILLIAM VALE

AGAIN! AND AGAIN!
TRIUMPHANT!!
MR. GEO. L. FOX
having recently closed the most successful tour on record, a season of 13 MONTHS AND 2 DAYS
(WITHOUT LOSING A NIGHT),
ONE YEAR, ONE MONTH AND TWO DAYS through the most DISASTROUS season (generally) EVER KNOWN TO OUR PROFESSION. Owing to the success of which, and in answer to the many CALLS OF THE PRESS AND PUBLIC THROUGHOUT THE STATES AND CANADAS,
MR. GEO. L. FOX
concludes to make Another Grand Professional Tour of the Country, to complete which, he reopened TUESDAY EVENING, JULY 5, at the BOSTON MUSEUM
for a short season, after which he will complete his tour. He has purchased for this grand occasion a most ingenious, marvelous, mechanical, spectacular, comic trick pantomime. Everything constructed and arranged regardless of cost to make this trip
A MARKED EVENT, and the Success OF THE Season.
MR. FOX
assures the public that in this, his latest production, everything is entirely new and original—never before attempted.
NEW! NEW!! NEW!!!
MECHANICAL,
COMIC,
SCENIC,
WONDERS, TRICKS,
ILLUSIONS,
EXCELLING ALL FORMER PRODUCTIONS, AND DEFYING COMPETITION.
HA! HA! CARNIVAL DAYS HAVE COME! HA! HA!
YE MERRY MONARCH—MOMUS' "BEAU IDEAL" OF FUN, the acknowledged Grimaldi of the age, the inimitable
GEORGE L. FOX,
HERO OF THE STAGE OF MERRIMENT, SUPREME in his ART, will positively appear in person, and on the occasion of this his RENTREE TO PUBLIC FAVOR he has presented his new, original, startling, fascinating, mirth-provoking, bewildering, excruciatingly comic, trick, fairy, gorgeous transformational pantomime, entitled
HUMPTY DUMPTY
IN EVERY CLIME.
MR. FOX will be surrounded by the very "creme de la creme" of the pantomimic novelty and mechanical world. The production will excel anything ever before seen.
New Tricks, New and Startling Mechanical Effects, New Properties, New Pictorial Illusions, New Scenic Transformations, invented and produced under the immediate supervision of that famed Master-mechanic, MR. ROBERT J. CUTLER. New, Novel, Beautiful, Charming and Effective Scenery by the well-known Artist, MR. J. JOHNSON. Enchanting and Appropriate Music Selected and arranged by MONS. F. STREBINGER.
During the Pantomime, irrespective of the Comical Situations, Ludicrous Incidents, Superb Costuming, and Propertorial Effects, will be presented a PERFECT EARTHQUAKE OF TRANSFORMATION,
Creating an astonishing furor of Wonderment and Applause, viz., The Polar Regions Transformed to Humpty's Villa, "Temperate Zone," Humpty's Villa to the Rugged Rocky-bound Coast, Farm Houses into Ships, Pigeon Boxes into Flags, Robins into Sea Gulls, Dairies into Steamships, Barrels into Rocks, Grass into Water, Frogs into Flounders, Bridges into Light-houses, Pumps into Yawl Boats, Trees into Masts, Farm Hands into Sailors, etc. ELEVEN NEW AND COMPLICATED TRICK SCENES, the nature of which was never before thought or heard of.
A Grand Entire Olio Act will be introduced between the first and second acts of the Pantomime, in which will appear a Congress of the most Talented of the Novelty and Sensational World, European and American.
The whole to conclude with the Most Striking, Picturesque, Beautiful, Enchanting, Celestial, Marvelous Creation of the Mechanical and Scenic Art, entitled the JEWELED DELL
AND THE
Abode of the Goddess of the Sun.
The public will please make special note of the following, viz.:
Beware of Frauds and Imitators, who seek, by ARTFULLY and CUNNINGLY WORDED advertisements and use of MR. GEO. L. FOX'S name and original productions, to impress on the public mind that HE IS WITH THEM, and their productions are ORIGINAL, which is to the contrary. These organizations are incomplete and fraudulent in every way. They have worn-out tricks, cheap-salaried people, etc., etc. the whole forming the most disgraceful and disgusting exhibition. MR. FOX is consequently compelled, for self-protection of his HONOR and NAME, thus to publicly warn his friends. A personal card and fac-simile of MR. FOX'S autograph will be hereafter attached in connexion with his pictorial advertisements, so the public may readily detect the fraud from the ORIGINAL.
Address all business communications till further notice to
GEO. H. TYLER,
MANAGER OF G. L. FOX'S N. Y. H. D. TROUPE, 16-2t 159 Harrison avenue, Boston, Mass.

A. STEINAU & CO.,

No. 80 FOURTH STREET,
CINCINNATI, OHIO.
MANUFACTURERS AND IMPORTERS OF ALL KINDS OF CHEAP JEWELRY.
Headquarters for the supply of CHEAP GIFT JEWELRY, USED IN CONCERT AND SIDESHOW ENTERTAINMENTS.
We put up the famous 25-CENT STREET JEWELRY in Packages of gross lots, consisting of SLEEVE-BUTTONS, STUDS, COLLAR-BUTTONS, GENTS' PINS, VEST CHAINS, RINGS, from $15 to $30 per gross lots.
Send for Illustrated Price List. Mailed free.
Goods sent C. O. D., to all points.
A. STEINAU & CO.,
15-tf No. 80 Fourth street, Cincinnati, O.

OPERA HOUSE
COLUMBIA, S. C.
EUGENE CRAMER.....BUSINESS MANAGER
All companies on the Southern route will find here an APPRECIATIVE PUBLIC, A MODEL THEATRE, NO LICENSE, FINE SCENERY, WELL-FURNISHED STAGE, STAGE-HANDS AND ATTACHES WHO KNOW THEIR BUSINESS AND ATTEND TO IT.
THE WHEELER HOUSE,
THEO. POLLOCK.....PROPRIETOR
Best hotel in the city, near the Opera-house. Reduced rates given to the profession and satisfaction guaranteed in every particular.
FOR PROGRAMMES, POSTERS, DATES, DODGERS, GUTTERSNIPES, ETC., agents will do well to call at the job office of THE UNION HERALD, where James H. Diseker is always ready to do first-class work at any time on short notice.
W. D. STARLING & CO.,
contract for bus-fare and baggage transportation. Always on time, and careful in treatment of trunks and champagn baskets in delicate health. Have never been known to destroy a set piece.
Further information cheerfully given by addressing EUGENE CRAMER, Box 40, Columbia, S. C. 8-13t*

ABLE'S OPERA-HOUSE,

EASTON, PA.,
WILL BE RENTED FOR $100 A NIGHT, AND ATTACHES,
TO FIRST-CLASS TROUPES. SEATS 1,500. POPULATION 30,000.
12-13t* Address EDWARD ABLE, Proprietor, Easton, Pa.

THEATRICAL AND EQUESTRIAN GOODS.
W. DAZIAN,
280 BOWERY, NEAR HOUSTON ST.,
IMPORTER AND MANUFACTURER OF
THEATRICAL AND EQUESTRIAN GOODS,
has constantly on hand and makes to order all kinds SILK, LISLE THREAD, WORSTED AND COTTON SHIRTS AND TIGHTS, LONG HOSE, LEOTARDS, TRUNKS, BODY-DRESSES, CLOWN AND MONKEY SUITS. PADDINGS A SPECIALTY. Also, the LARGEST ASSORTMENT of all shades and QUALITIES OF SILKS, SATINS, VELVETS, TARLATANS, BLACK AND WHITE ILLUSIONCRS, LACE SHAWLS, LACE SACQUES, OVERSKIRTS, GOLD AND SILVER TRIMMINGS, SPANGLES, FRINGES, LACES, and all materials necessary for Costumes and Evening Dresses. All colors. Satins reduced to 85cts. All orders executed with dispatch. Satisfaction guaranteed.
GOODS SENT TO ANY PART OF THE U. S., C. O. D. 8-13t*

GEORGE L. FOX'S original and only
NEW YORK
HUMPTY DUMPTY
TROUPE.
On and after June 28, 1875, address all business communications to GEO. H. TYLER (manager), 159 HARRISON AVENUE, BOSTON, MASS. 11-tf

"J. K. EMMET."
"NOTICE."
"TO THE PROFESSION IN GENERAL."
IN CONSEQUENCE OF AN AUTHOR HAVING SOLD TO AN ACTOR A WRITTEN MS. OF FRITZ,
OUR COUSIN GERMAN,
for production in Australia, I find it necessary to notify the profession that I hold ALL RIGHTS TO THE TITLE OF AND SCENES IN "FRITZ, OUR COUSIN GERMAN," written for and assigned to me by CHAS. GAYLOR of the U. S. And further, I hold ALL CLAIMS TO THE TITLE OF AND SCENES IN "FRITZ, OUR COUSIN GERMAN," for England, Ireland, Scotland, Canada and Australia. Written and assigned to me by ANDREW HALLIDAY, ESQ., of London, England. Therefore "BEWARE!"
AND DO NOT SPECULATE BLINDFOLDED, or you must suffer the consequences. [15-3t.] J. K. EMMET.

JUSTIN ROBINSON.
THE PEERLESS FEMALE IMPERSONATOR, can be engaged for the coming season by first-class minstrel troupes. Address VINELAND, New Jersey. 15-2t*

A. S. BURT, late general agent of the Old Yankee Modern Show, can be engaged for the rest of the tenting season by responsible managers who pay salaries in cash (not wind). Address 48 English avenue, Indianapolis, Ind. 15-2t*

8-6t*ow

NOTICE.
BEETHOVEN HALL
411 WASHINGTON STREET, BOSTON.
BUCKLEY'S SERENADERS.
Season of 1875-76, commencing MONDAY, SEPT. 6. All Performers and Specialty Artists wishing engagements will please address (stating lowest terms) G. SWAINE BUCKLEY, Manager, P. O. Box 347, Quincy, Norfolk County, Mass. Silence a negative after ten days. 16-2t

TOOTLE'S OPERA-HOUSE, erected at an expense of $140,000 in the centre of the city of SAINT JOSEPH, MISSOURI.
(Population, 33,000), is the finest theatre in the State, with a seating capacity of 1,500.
It is now offered for rent the coming season by the night or week, including all licenses, scene attendants and musicians; or may be furnished complete on shares to first-class traveling combinations. Address
JULIUS CRONE, Agent,
16-13t* St. Joseph, Mo.

THE Brahams,
BRAHAMS,
BRAHAMS.
LIZZIE WATSON BRAHAM
SERIO-COMIC AND CHARACTERISTIC CHANGE ARTIST.
HARRY BRAHAM
FACIAL CHARACTER COMEDIAN.
DOUBLE BUSINESS.
Duets, Duologues and Musical Sketches.
Are disengaged for the Fall and Winter season of 1875. Address care CLIPPER office. 16-1t*

HAAS' OPERA-HOUSE
WABASH, IND.,
IS OPEN FOR RENTAL.
A GOOD COMPANY IS WANTED FOR OUR COUNTY FAIR, SEPT. 14, 15.
This is the most successful fair in Northern Indiana, and always draws from 7,000 to 8,000 people. Address
16-1t* A. HAAS, Proprietor.

SEASON OF 1875-76.
ROSE WOOD
AND LEWIS MORRISON
IN "THE LOTOS FLOWER" AND "BIT O' ASH."
Fine Printing. [16-3t] SIMMONDS & WALL, Agents, N. Y.

GRAND CENTRAL THEATRE
(LATE ACADEMY OF MUSIC),
PITTSBURG, PA.
JOHN E. FULTON.....LESSEE AND PROPRIETOR.
The only first-class Novelty Theatre in Pittsburg. A magnificent theatre. A genuine model of beauty, in all its appointments. Seating capacity, 1,600 persons. 16 semi iron chairs, with all the modern improvements.
GRAND OPENING FOR THE FALL AND WINTER SEASON,
Monday, Aug. 30, 1875.
ALL FIRST-CLASS DRAMATIC, BURLESQUE, COMIC STARS and VARIETY SPECIALTIES can get dates at the above Theatre. Room for all. No wine-room connected with this establishment. A SUPERIOR AND REFINED PERFORMANCE will be given. WANTED, also, LADIES and GENTLEMEN of ABILITY FOR STOCK. Address, JOHN E. FUL